Saturday forenoon while the propri-etor and clerks of R. H. Frear's general store at 316 Adams avenue were out in front watching the Uncle Tom's Cabin company parade, he stole in by the back door and was in the act of rifling the till when one of the clerks happen-ing to look in through the window saw the operation and gave the alarm. The boy was captured as he was making off by the way he entered and turned over to Patrolman Louis Goerlitz. He is now in the station house and the au-thorities are puzzling their brains as to what shall be done with him. The crime for which he was last ar-rested was the theft of $12 from Mor-risinni's peanut stand near the Dela-ware, Lackawanna and Western Y on Lackawanna avenue, Inst July. FORTY HOURS AT MINOOKA.

Sermon Last Night Preached by Rev. D. J. MacGoldrick.

Forty hours' devotion began at St. Joseph's church, Minooka, yesterday morning after the 10 o'clock mass. The by Rev. D. J. MacGoldrick, president of St. Thomas' college. The litany of the saints was chanted by Rev. John Loughran, pastor; Rev. D. W. McCar-thy, assistant, and Rev. J. A. Moffitt, of St. John's Church.

St. John's Church. Rev. Father MacGoldrick addressed the congregation with a few practical remarks on the nature of the forty hours' devotion, and the use the faith-ful ought to make of it. He said in sub-stance: "The devotion of the forty hours has again commenced and you are urged to prepare your souls for the abundant graces and blessings that our Lord is anxious to communicate in this hour of predilection. Our Lord is taken from the humility and mystery of His concealment in the tabernacle, and placed upon a throne, where He is visi ble to all, surrounded by such orna-ments and decorations as our piety can afford, and is best calculated to move us to an affectionate surrender of our poor hearts to His, to an unberdening of our souls before Him, to the laying bare of the wounds we have received in the struggle of life, and to demand grace and strength and perseverance dangers that beset us and the difficul-ties that strew our path.

"To many who were here at the Forty Hours' Devotion last year the event may teach another lesson. To those who enjoyed the privileges of the sacred season then, who were reconciled to our Lord in the sacrament of confession, and who received our Lard's prec-ious body and blood in the sacrament of the eucharst, as the pledge of recon-cillation, our Lord will surely ask: What use have you made of the gaaces I gave you last year? Is it possible that after obtaining my forg.viness for the sins of the past, and after par-taking of My precious body and blood you have sinned again? Can it be that after such exhibition of his love for you, you have gone over to the ser-vice of My enemy? Is it possible that you have sulled your soul with motial sin, and driven out My grace as if it were something inconvenient or irksion, and who received our Lard's prec-

were something inconvenient or irk-some in your life? The answer to these questions each one must make for self in the hidden depths of each individual soul and in the same hid-den depths must be effected the re-solves and determinations that kind us to the love of God for time and ete n ity, or that frees us from that swe yoke for which we were created, and without which we are incapable of lasting joy. a reazonable pleasure, a happiness in any way."

After this the reverend speaker ex-plained how from a proper use of the sacraments during this time the aged sacraments during this time the aged may become models for the young, the young may model their lives, on that of our blessed Lord and be to their parents all that He was to His. How all may through the desire to please our Lord be to one another all that correspondence with grace can make them, and thus requits our Lord for His coming into our hearts by con-secrating those hearts entirely to Him.
