William J. Schaffer, J. Ball Osborne, J. J. H. Hamilton, Hon. John H. Fellows and Hon. John R. Farr Were the Speakers-Candidates Cheered to the Echo-Democracy Arraigned for the Crime of '93 and the Results That Followed.

Mears' hall never contained a larger or more enthusiastic crowd than it did at last night's Republican raily, and it is safe to say that it is many years since the West Side was given such a treat of political cratory. The speakers were William J. Schaffer, district attorney of Delaware county; J. Ball Osborne, ex-United States consul to Ghent, Belgium; James J. H. Hamil-ton, Hon, John H. Fellows, and Hon. John R. Farr.

On the stage were seated William Connell, candidate for congress; A. E. Kiefer, candidate for auditor: Prothonotary Clarence E. Pryor and the follow ing prominent West Side citizens who acted as vice-presidents of the meet-

KELLAR, THE WONDER WORKER.

He Drew a Large Audience to the Academy Last Night.

Kellar, the puzzling and mystifying magician, gave one of his wonderful exhibitions last night in the Academy of Music, before an audience that went home trying to think out a reasonable theory that would explain some of the numerous feats he performed. They will wake up this morning in the same frame of mind, and still the mystery of Kellar will remain a mystery of Kellar will remain a mystery. If he explained the manner in which he works his wonders the performance would lose much of its power to interest, and charm, and of course Kellar is not doing anything of that kind that year.

Just yet. He began his entertainment with a series of slight-of-hand feats that were series of slight-of-hand feats that were probably as entertaining as anything on the programme for the audiquee could understand what he was doing and the means by which it was done. Then came his illusions. He made Mis. Kellar disappear in a most astonishing way, and "the Mystery of L'Hassa," and other illusions followed. He also gave an expose of spiritualistic methods and performed one of the tricks of the Davenports.

Mrs. Kellar, while blindfolded, gave an exhibition of something that might be termed mind reading or several other things, and also did some calculating that called forth many expressions of exhausting the strong triangle of the strong tr pressions of astonishment.

The entertainment concluded with Kellar's latest wonder, "Fly-to," which consists first of causing a young wo-man to disappear from a cabinet and a soldier to take her place, and sec-ondly of causing this young lady to pass unseen by the audience from a cabinet in the rear of the stage to one suspended in midair near the foot-lights. There was not a vacant sent in the nouse last night, and hundreds had to

CANNOT FLOAT BONDS.

Jermyn Bergugh Stopped by Court from Constructing Its Own Water Works. Opinion of Judge Gunster.

Judge Gunster decided in an opinion handed down yesterday that the bor-ough of Jermyn cannot increase its in-debtedness for the purpose of con-structing a water works of its own. On Jan. 31, 1896, the town council of the borough passed an ordinance pro-yiding for an increase of debt for conviding for an increase of debt for constructing water works, subject to a vote of the electors and also an ordin-ance providing for taking the water of the stream known as the Halfway or Ridge creek. Both of these ordinances were duly approved by the burgess on the 31st day of January, 1896, and were duly published.

In pursuance of said ordinance on the 20th of February, 1896, the burgess made and filed in the office of the clerk of the courts a sworn statement setting forth that the last valuation of the taxable property in said borough amounted to the sum of $271.140; that the existing indebtedness of said bor-the existing indebtedness of said bor-ough of Jermyn amounted to the sum of $2,200; that the proposed increase of the indebtedness of said borough was the sum of $16,000.

An election was held on March 4 and the proposition in favor of bonding the borough bassed by a large majority. Council then proceeded with the ar-rangements for carrying out the wishes rangements for carrying out the wishes of the people, and engaged a civil en-gineer and also let the contract for boring one or more artesian wells. Some time ago an equity suit was brought against the borough to stop it from issuing bonds for the water works. The plaintiffs comprised the Jermyn and Rushbrook Water company and other corporations in that section. The injunction was asked for on the ground that the proposed increase of indebtedness was without authority of law. Judge Gunster says in substance: "It is too plain for argument that the of which was an original campaign action already taken as well as the song called. "Hanging Up the Gold action proposed to be taken by the bor-ough authorities, is without authority ough authorities, is without authority of law. The act of 1874 as amended by the act of April 18, 1895, P. L. 36, regulating the manner of increasing the in-debtedness of the borough to an amount exceeding two per centum of the assessed valuation, that is, it does not permit an increase at any one time of the indebtedness of an amount above two per cent. It also provides that at the election at which it is sought to ob-tain the consent for such increase, that the vote shall be for 'no increase of debt, or that 'debt may be increased, and there is no authority shown for voting for bonding the borough, or against bonding the borough. "The election held on the 24th of March, 1896, was simply void."

CLOSE OF ST. LUKE'S DAY EXERCISES

Reception at the Rectory in the Afternoon Between 4 and 6 O'clock.

THE SERVICES IN THE EVENING

Rev. Rogers Israel, the Rector, Gave a Summary of the Work Done by the Various Guilds During the Year. Addresses Were Delivered by Major Everett Warren and A. D. Holland.

Again yesterday at St. Luke's church there was an observance in honor of St. Luke's day. From 4 until 6 in the afternoon there was a reception in the rectory and an exhibition of the Need-le-workers' ward. The paster and wife Rev. and Mrs. Israel, assisted by Rev. and Mrs. Haughton, greeted many members of the parish, and the various articles seen in the ward of the needle-workers were of much interest.

In the church the evening services began at 7.45. The pastor was assisted by Rev. E. J. Haughton. At the conclusion of the service J. Wills Conant, church organist, executed five organismics by year artistic stell. mumbers in very artistic style.

This over Rev. Mr. Israel gave a summary of the work of the various guilds for the year. He spoke with words of praise of the work done by each one. The guild of St. Hilda distributes books, magazines, and papers among the sick and the indisposed, and was energetic in raising money to carry on the especial work it is prosecuting. The Girls' Friendly society has been a great helper during the year in its care for the sick in St. Luke's parish and in what it has done for other places. It has been very attentive to the december of the distribution of the distribution of the distribution.

the decorations of the altar and church. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew is praying every day and working to braying every may and working to bring at least one soul every week into the light of the gospel. St. Agnes' guild, of Dunmore, has been indefatig-able in its purposes and has been great-ly successful in achieving much good in the circle it fills.

THE MEN'S GUILD. The Men's Gulld was given more attention than any of the other paroch-lal organizations in the rector's review. It has a committee now in charge of the task of securing funds far a perm-ament summer home. On the free ex-cursion provided by the guild during the summer 1,700 women and children had a most pleasant day at Lake Ariel.
There were thirty-six adults and thirty-two children cared for at the summer home, and the acknowledgement was made by the rector of the kindness of Charles Schlager in devoting his cottage to the uses of the sum-mer home. The guild has $202.69 in bank after squaring up all debts for the year.

Next in importance was the review of what the Woman's Guild has done. It has sent two young girls to business colleges, distributed 42 Thanksgiving dinners and 54 Christmas dinners, and has utilized over $1,200 among the poor of the parish. Its members have made 83 visits to the sick.

The rector referred briefly to the Industrial school, the Kindergarten, and the needleworkers, and he impressed the property of the process of the second of the second of the process of the second of the process of the p upon his people the urgent need of a parish house to carry on the work. There is $5,500 available for the erection of the house, and he hoped that the spirit of generosity will add to that amount so that it will be not long until the house is an assured fact. In conclusion he read a telegram of congratulation from the bishop of the

He did not attend the September meeting of the vestry. and it was then suggested that Majo and it was then suggested that Major Warren speak at the anniversary observance on the part of the laity.

He extended to Rev. Mr. Israel the warmest sentiments of the people of the parish. The speaker said he could not but feel that the pastor of any congregation leads a lonely life at best. He does not get that approbation of his work that men out in the world get. work that men out in the world get and seek after; and therefore Major Warren thought it was just and meet in recognition of the high esteem and personal regard of the parishoners for their rector, he should give Rev. Mr. Israel proper result. Israel proper credit.

The speaker was much intrested in the work of the various guilds, but he was sorry to know that only ten per cent, of the people of the parish par-ticipated in the work done by the guilds.

Major Warren gave a retrospect of the church. He recalled the amount of energy required to undertake the erection of the present church. The site was then a swampy and unstable place and the excavation had to be made 40 feet to get to solid bottom. There were many obstacles in the way, financial troubles and the like, but the parish has safely weathered the storm and is

THANKED THE RECTOR. Major Warren felt proud of the church and the rector. When the Scranton high school was recently dedleated, the committee of the board of control selected Rev. In conclusion Major War-ren returned the thanks of the laity to rector, and in acknowledgeme thereof, Rev. Mr. Israel was very much
