

WILLIE IN THE ENEMY'S COUNTRY

Boy Bryan Encounters Many Yellow Badges in Ohio.

THE SPEAKER REBUKES HOODLUMS

He Also Nails Campaign Fairy Tales Along the Line--Cutting Remarks Made in McKinley's Old District. He is Cheered at Kenwood by the Information that His Opponent is "on the Hog."

Wellsville, O., Oct. 20.--The last day of William J. Bryan's Ohio campaign was begun by the candidate with very little physical preparation for the speaking which he did not get to bed on board the "Hog," his special car, at Zanesville, until after 1 o'clock this morning.

The "Hog" was pulled out of Zanesville at 1:30 a. m. and waited on a siding near Belleair until 6 o'clock. Then it was taken to the railway station of that Ohio river town, where about forty people were waiting to see the speaker for Bryan and a band played "Dixie" while the nominee was trying to get an extra wink of sleep.

INTERRUPTED BY HOODLUMS.

Gold ledges were noticeable in the throng of 6,000 at Steubenville, but not nearly so numerous as at Bridgeport and Martin's Ferry. Some young men who wore the yellow, however, interrupted the speech several times and Mr. Bryan answered their comments with a display of feeling.

"My friends, he said, I am surprised at these interruptions. You show me a man in this crowd who is a standard bearer of public discussion, but he is a gold standard who does not meet public discussion." (Cheers.)

"We are leaving those who accuse us of being anarchists to interfere with public meetings and to prevent discussion of a candidate for the presidency, man, woman and child in the United States. If those who wear yellow badges want to put a badge on that describes their condition, let them have a card saying: 'We are American citizens; but we want foreign nations to take care of us; and then their badge will mean something.'"

Mr. Bryan had said that one of the "generals" had said at Steubenville yesterday that the Democratic nominee had declared in a Congressional speech that the pension roll was not an act of honor, and beginning his speech this morning he said:

"Before entering upon this discussion of any question I want to ask you to take the word of a Republican advocate of the gold standard or a Democratic advocate of the silver standard by my record upon the soldier question. I was in Congress four years and I want you to read the Congressional Record. You will not find in that record a single evidence of hostility to those who, having served their country and saved their country, are now, for no reason, are ready now to save it from foreign domination." (Cheers.)

A thousand people greeted Mr. Bryan at Youngstown at 12:30 this afternoon. He delivered a number of speeches at towns along the Ohio river and was made to realize at some of them that he was in the enemy's country. It was at Wellsville where 2,500 people were waiting for him that his train made its first stop.

In Major McKinley's congressional district, and in the most pronounced counter demonstration of the Democratic campaign was witnessed there. A large number of spectators were present, many of them wearing the yellow badge and some of the Republicans in the crowd bore American flags and banners, adorned with golden streamers.

The first sentence of the speech which he started the opposition "We can support our position in this campaign," he said, "by the authority even of those who today are silent on the subject. I can call your attention to a speech made by Mr. McKinley in 1891, in which he denounced Mr. Cleveland's administration as a failure."

Cheering for McKinley began as he concluded the sentence, but the Democratic contingent of the audience rallied to the speaker in the standard-bearer, and made him hear of plenty of friends around him.

PITCHES INTO MCKINLEY.

Then Mr. Bryan started in to have his innings in this way: "My friends, I am glad to know that there are those here who are silent because I want to ask them which McKinley they cheer for, the McKinley who six years ago wanted more money for the McKinley war, or the McKinley who today is silent because he does not want any more money." (Cheers.)

"Do you want the one who six years ago believed in the American people having an American system of finance, or do you believe in the Republican system now in the American people having an English system of finance?" (Cheers.)

"Do you believe in the one that attended a convention in the platform form which declared that the American people from tradition and interest are in favor of the bimetallic, or do you believe in the one who says that the American people can have bimetallic whenever foreign nations will let us have it?"

The assemblage at East Liverpool was double that at Wellsville. Another McKinley demonstration was attempted. The yellow was everywhere. Women had it in beads on their hats and in their breasts, while men and boys had golden collars and neckties. Judging by the cheering, however, the Bryanites appeared to be in the majority, but the advocates of the gold standard shouted long enough and frequently enough to fill from Bryan remarks similar to those he had made at the Wellsville meeting.

Nearly everybody on the station platform at Smith's Ferry seemed to be decorated with the Republican colors, but the train did not stop. It continued on across the Ohio line to Rockcastle, Pa. Mr. Bryan's speech delivered from the balcony of the grander house to about 3,000 people was cordially applauded. Although there were only about 600 gathered at New Brighton, Pa., the heartiest reception of the day up to that time was given the nominee, and he responded with a short speech. A number of demonstrative school boys among the couple hundred people at Kenwood, Pa., told Mr. Bryan that he was all right and that McKinley was "on the hog." He made no remarks there.

MARKETS AND STOCKS

Wall Street Review.

New York, Oct. 20.--The stock market today was strong almost from the opening to the closing. The volume of the dealings while not especially large, aggregating only 225,501 shares, were well distributed and with a very few exceptions high prices were recorded all along the line. The main causes for the improvement were the engagement of over $6,000,000 in London today for shipment to this side and the fact that exchange ruled barely steady, thus indicating renewed imports of the yellow metal in the near future. On all this the bulls felt pretty well with good dose of confidence and succeeded in forcing a latent short interest into covering.

Although Chicago Gas came second in point of activity it secured the greatest advance, namely 4 1/2 points to 65 1/2. The rise was due to purchases by those who are said to have special news from Illinois more favorable to the future of the remainder of the list the advance was equal to 1/2 to 3/4 per cent. The Chicago stock market was not so much favored. Sugar was most conspicuous so far as volume of business is concerned. The stock did not share in the general advance, but advanced from 10 1/2 to 11 1/4 and closed at 11 1/4, a net gain of only 1/4 per cent. Manhattan dropped from 3 1/4 to 3 1/8 and 1/4 to 1 1/4. Net changes show gains of 1/4 to 1 per cent.
