THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

NATIONAL.

President-WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

STATE.

Congressmen - at - Large-GALUSHA A GROW, SAMUEL A. DAVENPORT.

COUNTY.

Congress—WILLIAM CONNELL. Commissioners—S. W. ROBERTS, GILES ROBERTS. Auditors—A. E. KIEFER, FRED. L. WARD.

LEGLISLATIVE.

Senate, 21st District—Col. W. J. SCOTT.
Representative, 1st District—JOHN R.
FARR; 2d District—A. T. CONNELL;
3d District—DR. N. C. MACKEY; 4th
District—JOHN F. REYNOLDS.

Attention is directed to an "open letter to workingmen." printed on another page. It was written by a hard-working and industrious German-American living in the South Side, and is full of homely but effective argument drawn from actual experience. A careful reading of it by any puzzled toiler ought to remove all doubt as to where the best interests of labor lie in this campaign.

Take No Chances.

In default of serious criticism of the present management of the county commissioner's office, the Democratic local press has taken to ridiculing the architecture of the reconstructed court house. Exception is taken to the urnlike decorations, and in elaboration of artistic fastidiousness with reference to this subject, whole columns of space are squandered.

We lay no claim to equality with these Democratic critics as connoisseurs of architectural fine points; what they say as to the inartistic impropriety of urns on a court house may or may not be true. It is wholly a matter of taste. But there are some things of more weighty importance, from the standpoint of the average taxpayer, than the splitting of aesthetical hairs over architectural decorations. Among them we take the liberty of mentioning that during the three years in which Messrs, S. W. and Giles Roberts have constituted the Republican majority on the board of commissioners, while there has been an increase of nearly fifty per cent. in court costs and large items of new expense for election booths, culverts and bridges, like, the tax rate for county purposes fund has reached the snug proportion of $120,000, with an early prospect of retiring $20,000 worth of the county's outstanding bonds.

The present Republican commissioners may not in all respects fulfil the lofty requirements of the cultured nesthetes who direct the batteries of artistic criticism upon the third story adornments of the enlarged court house, but it is some satisfaction to the majority of tax-payers to feel that they have been able to grapple with the charges on them, but nobody would financial problems of their office in a manner which has made this one of the most economical county governments in the state, size and population duly considered. It may be that the men who are running against them would come out more strongly in the matter of artistic beauty, but what assurance have we that they would be equally efficient, economical and honest in their handling of the public funds?

Without wishing to reflect upon them in any way, we desire to advise the practical voters of this county to take no chances. They know the capabilities of the present Republican commissioners. They don't know how a Demo cratic majority would pan out.

At Co. H armory , Providence, tomorrow night, an opportunity will be afforded the public to hear, in Hon. Marriott Brosius, member of congress from the Tenth Pennsylvania district, one of the wittiest speakers in the country. It should not be missed.

Whom It Would Benefit.

Not only is the free silver movement a scheme to rob labor by paying its wages in poorer dollars, but it is also a scheme to make those poorer dollars buy less than labor's present wages buy. Thus whether at home or abroad, the American workingman would lose by the transaction.

The farmer, also, would lose. Prices might go up at home, but they would not go up in Liverpool, where he would still have to sell his surplus grain. There he would continue to get the gold price, but it would probably be paid to him in depreciated silver, and he wouldn't dare to object. The rise of prices at home, however, would not be a real rise. The crop which now brings 1,000 hundred-cent dollars would, it is true, then bring 2,000 free coinage dollars, but one of the former would be worth two of the latter. In other words, the farmer has a choice between 1,000 real dollars and 2,000 half dollars, and the only advantage to him in the latter is that he might for a short time be able to work a few of them off on the unsuspecting at their face value, as some men now work off counterfeit money. Only crooked farmers would want that kind of a currency, and there are very few of them.

Whom, then, would free coinage benefit? Just two classes. It would benefit the silver mine-owner, because, as we have shown, whether it increased the commercial price of silver or not, it would in any event cut down the cost of production by enabling the miles-owner to pay 2.33 ounces of silver or bullion for a day's labor which ow under the gold standard costs him ounces of that bullion. And it would benefit the purposely idle and vicious because in the general mix-up which i would bring about it would multiply their opportunities for mischief-mak ing. Everybody else has good reason to shun such a frightful plunge over the recipice of repudiation and nationa ishonor; and nearly everybody els

As General Harrison points out, th Democratic party, in four years, has completely reversed itself. Four year ago Bryan, the free trader, made the eavens ring with his appeals for heaper prices. Today, Bryan, the free silverite, bombards the empyerar with even more clamorous apeals for dearer prices. Which Bryan are we to take seriously?

Re-elect Alex. Connell.

We have hitherto presented in detail the record of Hon. Alex T. Connell in the last legislature. We have shown how in the one item of the poor board alone, which he introduced and success fully piloted through, he was instrumental in saving to the voters of this district nearly $18,000 a year. We have also called attention to the various other useful measures which he pushed through the legislature, notably the plumbers' registration bill and his bill relating to mechanic's liens, whereby the claim of the workman is protected against secret contracts between owner and builder: and have spoken of his watchfulness in behalf of the charitable institutions of the city which receive state aid.

This record, which would have done credit to any of the older members, was the work of Alex. Connell during his first term. Does it not appear reasonable that even better results may be expected from him if he be given a second term? If re-elected he will go back to Harrisburg already familiar with legislative usages and able to enter at once upon the real work of the session His period of schooling over, he wil take foremost rank among the veterans of the house and will exert a corresponding degree of influence such as can be wielded by no first-timer, no matter how able.

The Second legislative district, including as it does an important part of the city of Scranton, should take a lesson from the other city districts. Philadelphia and Pittsburg, for instance re-elect good representatives time after time, and the result is that these trained regulars enjoy a decided advantage over the raw recruits frequently sen in from the country districts. Whenever any measure arises affecting city interests, these old timers from the cities are always on hand to defend their own; and by dint of long experience they can often turn a point in a manner to give the new member a vivid reminder of his own shortcomings.

The city of Scranton is entitled to the best, at Harrisburg as well as at home. Its legislative interests each year grow in importance. The importance of having those interests well cared for is growing correspondingly. A Republican of experience, who has shown that he can be trusted, would fall improvements and repairs, and the be a better risk in the office of state representative for the Second district has by their good management been than an untried Democrat. He would kept down to the old figure of six mills have not only the advantage of experion the dollar, and the county sinking ence and familiarity with legislative ways but he would also be in better touch with the forces that shape legislation at the state capital.

These considerations all call for the re-election of Alex. T. Connell.

Speaking about the alleged "demand" for silver dollars, there are some three hundred and odd millions of these dollars piled up in a heap at Washington that the government has at various times tried to put out into circulation, even offering to pay express take them so long as gold and paper money were obtainable instead. This doesn't indicate a popular eagerness to load up with the cumbersome white

Why McKinley Will Win. Major Handy has compiled a score of interesting reasons why McKinley is practically sure to win. They are as follows:

(1) The Republicans in two-thirds of the states are practically unanimous in sup-porting the platform and the ticket. (2) None of the states in which there is perceptible division among Republicans is assential to McKinley's success,

(3) In every state in the union there is formal and formidable division of the Democratic forces.

(4) The entire influence of the Democratfederal administration is enlisted in oposition to the regular Democratic opposition to the regular Democratic ticket and platform.

(5) Most of the influential Democratic leaders are either actively contributing to Republican success or withdrawn for the time from the field of national politics. (6) The German-Americans, the navians and other citizens of foreign birth or descent are for sound money, by a large majority, while the masses of workingmen and farmers are firmly convinced that McKinley's election is the only sure road to prosperity.

(7) Patriotic men of both parties are contributing liberally for Republican success, just as they would subscribe for the country's defense against armed treason or foreign invasion.

(8) There will be a large Republican sate. (8) There will be a large Republican vote everywhere. The registration has settled (9) Nearly every independent newspaper is in favor of McKinley.

(10) The med who left the Republican party and made Democratic success possible in 1884 and 1882 have, almost to a man, returned to their allegiance.

(11) Every canvass that has been made in any debatable state shows a believe in any debatable state shows a balance

(12) Every straw vote taken under fair conditions is three to five to one in favor of McKinley. (13) Everywhere Republican mass meet-ings have been the largest ever known, while the Popocratic meetings have been smaller than usual, except where the Pop-ocratic presidential candidate has been on exhibition.

(14) The Republican candidate for president has made no mistake during the campaign; the Popocratic candidate has made many,
(15) The management of the national campaign for the Republicans has been able, honest and efficient, the best ever (16) The Popocratic national committe is badly officered, badly manned, poverty-stricken and inefficient; the worst on record.

(17) Providence guiding nature by giving us bountiful crops at a time when the rest of the world wants our products has robbed the discontented of their only plea for a change in our financial policy.

It appears that the Central City Stove works, of Newark, O., which recently wages if Bryan were elected, employs 20 instead of 2 men. Say these 20 men average $2 a day. Ten per cent. additional for the whole twenty would be only $24 a week, which would be a very modest price to pay for the advertisement that this firm has secured through its humbug proposition. And since Bryan isn't going to be elected, it gets all this fine advertising for nothing. Truly President Cunningham is a

If "the demand for the silver dollar" is the only thing that "gives value." as the Times why will an American silver dollar buy two Mexican silver dollars, when the former contains fewer grains than either one of the latter? We repeat: The American silver dollar is backed by gold. Any one not satisfied with it can get a gold dollar for it by simply trading it at the bank for a treasury note and presenting that note at the United States treasury for redemption. If you don't believe this, try it and see.

"Have you any doubt of your election?" E. J. Gibson, the Philadelphia Press' special correspondent, asked Major McKinley, one day last week. "Not the slightest," was the prompt response. "This is a campaign of moral issues, and I have a firm belief that the right will prevail?" Does anybody really doubt it?

Since the Popocrats have no arguments to present and are not restrained by any considerations of decency, it is to be expected that they will make a big use of the campaign lie during the next few days. Look out for it.

While the Times is so bitterly denouncing Cleveland and Carlisle, does it ever stop to read over what it used to say for these men, four years ago? It wasn't the Republicans who elected Cleveland.

The shrievalty fight in Philadelphia has already reached the "you are a llar" stage. Yet after all, what does it really amount to?

The Times replies to one of this paper's sound money arguments by calling it "rot." The Times is an admitted authority on rot.
