SCRANTON, OCTOBER 23, 1896.

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET.

NATIONAL.

President—WILLIAM MCKINLEY. Vice-President—GARRET A. HOBART.

STATE.

Congressmen—at-Large—GALUSHA A. GROW, SAMUEL A. DAVENPORT.

COUNTY.

Congress—WILLIAM CONNELL, Commissioners—S. W. ROBERTS, GILES ROBERTS, Auditors—A. E. KIEFER, FRED. L. WARD.

LEGISLATIVE.

Senate, 21st District—COL. W. J. SCOTT, Representative, 1st District—JOHN B. FAHRE, 2d District—A. C. MACKAY, 3d District—JOHN F. REYNOLDS.

The citizens of Dunmore are recommended to hear ex-Senator B. F. Hughes speak at Odd Fellows' hall tonight.

Make Mackey's Majority a Stunner.

While in the nature of things the Third legislative district may safely be called Republican, no effort should be spared by the Republican voters in that district to elect Dr. N. C. Mackey by an unusually large majority.

But more important than any personal consideration is the fact that his election would not only insure capable representation of the district at Harrisburg but it would also help to swell the general volume of Republican triumph which is necessary one week from next Tuesday.

Republican interests, local and national, are all in one boat. They cannot safely be divided. The party cannot be weakened at any one place without being weakened all over.

We appeal in Dr. Mackey's behalf to Democrats as well as Republicans. Nothing is to be gained by the former in the election of a free silverite as state representative.

When you come to think that Ohio stove factory's 10-per-cent-wage-increase-if-Brown-is-elected proposition over, it grows much clearer.

The Baker Ballot.

The disposition to poke fun at the expansive proportions of the Baker ballot breaks out every year about this time; and this being presidential year, with the ballot larger than ever, the raillery is naturally keener than usual.

The electors of Pennsylvania have used the Baker ballot for several years, and it does not appear that any considerable number of them were unable to comprehend it.

Every year of use lessens the liability to mistake. On the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number, ber, even if a few voters are yet confused by it the freedom from espionage and meddlesome interference which it vouchsafes to the great majority of citizens stamps it as a decided improvement.

The retirement of Populist Candidate Lennon from the Fourth district legislative fight, because of ballot complications, simply means that friends of John F. Reynolds will have to work a little harder, but they clearly have it in their power to win.

Will Keep Their Eyes Open.

The office of county auditor is generally regarded as of minor importance; and while so long as the fiscal affairs of the county are in honest Republican hands there is usually small need of extraordinary vigilance in this office, it nevertheless requires business ability, quickness of perception and a knowledge of accounts all of a high order.

The candidates for auditor named on the Republican ticket, A. E. Kiefer and Fred L. Ward, are bright and wide-awake young men, both versed in book-keeping and both familiar with the kind of work which the auditorship involves.

On next Tuesday evening, one week before election, there will be a parade in this city of every Republican club in Lackawanna county.

"Government by Injunction."

A considerable portion of Governor Altgeld's New York speech was devoted to a statement of his objections to "government by injunction."

I have not time to point out the alarming encroachments and usurpations of the federal courts since the days of Jefferson, but will only allude to their most recent and astounding pretension and usurpation of power.

When the law forbids a thing there is no need of an injunction. When the law is violated provision has been made for punishment, and if it is found at any time to be inadequate it can always be remedied by legislation.

The governor charged that Judge Jenkins issued an injunction forbidding the employees of the Northern Pacific railroad from quitting work when their wages were reduced.

Formerly, when a man charged with contempt filed a writ of habeas corpus, the matter ended, all that could be done was to prosecute him for perjury if he had sworn to what was not true.

There is no particular glamor or magnetism about Benjamin Harrison, but we notice he has no trouble in drawing larger audiences than Bryan.

One of the encouraging signs of the times is the decision of sound-money Democrats to save time and energy by voting for McKinley directly.

of the United States senate and the senate by a practically unanimous vote of both parties passed a bill providing that where arrests are made for contempt of federal courts in disobedience of injunctions relating to interstate commerce, the accused shall be entitled to a trial by jury, with right to employ counsel and summon witnesses.

The point on which we take issue with Governor Altgeld is not, then, as to the justice of "government by Injunction," the faults in which are in a fair way to be remedied by congress acting without partisan bias; but as to the propriety of using this issue so as to give encouragement to every law-breaker in the land, and hope to every influence which aims at the tearing down of our social structure.

"Our opponents cannot ignore the fact that gold is now going abroad in spite of all laws and prohibitions which prohibit silver is coined to take its place."

Yes, the gold which went abroad in the fiscal year 1896 amounted to $28,548,449 in excess of the importations of gold; but if Mr. Bryan will examine the imports of merchandise for the same year, he will find that they were $24,725,462 in excess of those in the last year of the McKinley law.

"We believe that the free coinage of silver will bring gold to this country, and that, too, without the aid of syndicates."

That is the effect of the free coinage of silver, why does it not do so in the countries which now have free coinage? The South African mines have had free coinage of silver for many years, yet the gold does not appear to be drifting to them.

Campaign managers all agree that this year there is an unusually large element among the voting population which declines to label itself for the guidance of the guessers, and the Popocrats exultantly aver that this element is going like an avalanche for Bryan.

If the Times wants to quote Secretary Carlisle on the redemption of the silver dollar in gold, why doesn't it reproduce his letter of six weeks ago, in which he said if it ever became necessary to preserve all our dollars at a parity, as required by law and dictated by national prudence, fairness and honor, the government would not hesitate to exchange gold coin directly for silver?

Herman H. Kollman, the editor of the Chicago Times-Herald and the man who forestall just what McKinley would do at the Illinois primaries last spring, now says McKinley's plurality in that state will be 200,000.

"If you try to help one class by allowing it to repudiate its debts and cut down the wages of labor, and then, as an offset, offer to the turbulent free riot, all you do is to insure the degradation of every class in the community."

Judging from last evening's mass meeting there does not appear to be anything the matter with the Republicanism of Carbonade.

It must be admitted that the Boy Orator's speeches are getting decidedly threadbare.

Bryan will find on Nov. 2 that the tariff issue is not half as dodgeable as he fancied.

David E. Hill seems bent on establishing himself in the past tense.

Missstatements of Bryan Dissected

"This conspiracy which we have met in a conspiracy which has for its ultimate object the striking down of silver as one of the standard moneys of the world."

Mr. Bryan assumes that this "conspiracy" has been in active operation since 1873. Yet, according to the director of the United States mint, there is much more than double the amount of silver money in use in the world today than there was in 1873, and practically all of it is a full legal tender.

"We complain of the gold standard because an increased demand for gold has raised the price of gold and lowered the price of silver, thus making it difficult to get the 'conspiracy' go on?"

How can there be an increased demand for gold, when gold, silver and paper money, as such as bank notes, have increased much more rapidly than the population in the past few years?

"Our opponents cannot ignore the fact that gold is now going abroad in spite of all laws and prohibitions which prohibit silver is coined to take its place."

Andrew Jackson was a gold bug. In his message Dec. 2, 1834, he said: "The progress of our gold coinage is creditable to the officers of the mint, and promises in a short period to furnish our country with a sound and portable currency."
