BRYAN GREETED BY A SHRIEKING MOB

Painful Enthusiasm is Manifested or His Arrival at Chicago.

EGGS THROWN AT THE BOY ORATOR

They Miss the Mark and Land on the Reception Committee -- In the Wild

A wild shrick that continued to grow A wild shrick that continued to grow in volume went up from the big crowds lining every approach to the Union depot when Bryan's special pulled in at 3.30 o'clock, exactly on time. The police had done very well in their endeavor to keep the people out of the enclosure where the trains stand, but a couple of thousand men and boys eluded the blue coats and made a dash for the private car in which Mr. Bryan for the private ear in which Mr. Bryan has traveled for the last three weeks. The police were almost powerless in their attempt to keep the shouting enthusiasts from overwhelming the can-didate and his wife, and it was only by a hard struggle that they were pushed pulled and wedged to a stairway lead-ing to the street. This proved an is-land of safety, for the police turned on land of safety, for the police turned on the excited mob following Mr. and Mrs. Bryan and kept them from coming farther. Outside the street and side-walks were erowded. A great cheer went up as the candidate stepped into a carriage drawn by four white horses. After some delay the procession start-ed, the carriage containing Mr. and Mrs. Bryan passing through a double line of political organizations, which line of political organizations, which fell into line and followed after it.

The candidate had as his personal campaign. (Great cheering.) escort a large body of men composing the Chicago reception committee who marched beside his carriage over the entire route.

The procession proceeded up Canal street to Madison, to Fifth avenue, to Washington street, to Clark street, to Monroe street and to Battery D, at the intersection of Monroe and Michigan avenues. All along that roundabout line avenues. All along that roundabout line of march the greatest enthusiasm was manifested. Hisses were heard frequently. They came principally from people who swarmed in the windows of business houses and brought vigorous responses of an uncomplimentary character from those in the line. Nearly everybody in the procession carried an American flag.

NUMBER OF EGGS THROWN. It was just before Mr. Bryan reached the armory building on the lake front that the only incident that marred the demonstration occurred. A number of eggs were thrown in the direction of his carriage from the Metropolitan business college on the fourth floor of the building situated on the north side of Monroe street, near the corner of Michigan avenue. ssiles reached the candidate or his wife, but several members of the reception committee marching beside them suffered.

The spacious armory capable of holdling ten thousand people standing, had been kept clear by the police until the arrival of Mr. Bryan. A wild rush of the people followed Mr. Bryan's entrance. So quick was the charge of those anxious to get inside that Mrs. Bryan had not time to allebt before Bryan had not time to alight before a wild cheering mob separated her from her husband. She therefore remained in the carriage and was driven to the auditorium annex, where the nominee will make his headquarters while here. When Mr. Bryan reached the stage and had shaken hands with national committeeman, the doors were opened and the outside crowd poured in. By that time, however, many thousands of those who had welcomed Mr. Bryan's arrival, had gone away, but those who remained were sufficient in number to crowd, without too much discomfort to themselves the entire floor space. Alexander Jones, chairman of the Cook County Democratic campaign commit-tee, made an eloquent address of welcome that was frequently cheered. He was followed by John Welburg, who presented Mr. Bryan with a silver star in behalf of the Democratic club.

Then the candidate rose and a scene that he has witnessed so frequently in the past three months, was repeated with vigorous enthusiasm. Many people in the audience carried American flags and these they waved in accompani-ment to their cheers. Hats were waved and handkerchiefs flaunted, and for a minute or two the building resounded with thunder rolls of applause. A bugler in uniform blew a call and thus secured partial quiet, but before Mr. Bryan could speak there was much confusion caused by hisses that seemed to proceed mainly from the rolls are the confusion. to proceed mainly from the gallery and shouts of disapproval, from the more ardent of the Bryanites.

BRYAN'S SPEECH.

Finally things became still enough o let the candidate breathe and he began his speech in a voice somewhat hoarse, but which could be heard disover the hall. He said: Chairman, fellow citizens: I came to Chicago as I started on my way to New York to open this cam-paign, and I return to your city to take part in the closing exercises of this campaign. I have witnessed today a scene which impresses me and leads me to believe that this great city of the west, which rests upon the prosperity of the great mass of our people, which cannot prosper without them. which cannot prosper without the prosper, that this great city will cast its influence, one week from today its influence, one week from today, on the side of the American financial polfey of the American people. (Ap-

My friends, I am not vain enough "My friends, I am not vain enough to believe that any part of the extraordinary enthuslasm which I have witnessed between the Missouri river and the Atlantic coast, is rendered as a personal tribute (cries of "Yes it is.")
No, my friends, I want you to believe me when I say that in this great contest it is the principles for which the candidate stands, and not the candidate himself, that has called forth candidate stands, and not the candidate himself, that has called forth these demonstrations. (Applause, There is only one thing for which claim any credit. I believe that you and others who have expressed them and others who have expressed them-selves as you have expressed your-selves, have confidence that I will carry out the plan which I have made in this campaign. (Applause.) But, my friends, what credit is it to a man to be what he seems to be? Why, if I were other than true to the principles which I advocate I would be beneath the contempt of those whose suffrage I ask. (Applause.) I do believe that in this campaign a great question is to in this campaign a great question is to be determined, for the present at least; I do believe that the settlement of that question affects every man, woman and child in all this land; and man and child in all this land; and were torn down to make room for a when I see the people stirred as they new Sunday school building. NEVER CLAIMED INFALLIBILITY. My friends, I may be wrong (cries of 'no, no, and cheers.) I have never claimed infallibility; but when I examine and question and reach a conclusion which I believe to be right; when I take a position which my judgment supports. I am willing to stand ment supports, I am willing to stand by what I believe, I care not what may happen. And in this struggle, for

Chicago, Oct. 27.—A conquering hero returning home from victories galore, could not have been more royally welcomed than was William J. Bryan on his arrival in Chicago this afternoon. The enthusiasm was remarkable. Crowds lined the entire route over which he passed from the railway station to the scene of his initial speech in his fight for Cook county, and maintained a continuous cheering. Many organizations pledged to support the Democratic nominee were in the escort procession; brass bands played patriotic marching airs with a vigor born of the excitement along the way, and altogether from the time his train came to a standstill in the Union depot until he concluded his address at Bat-

If there is anybody in this city who believes that the free coinage of silver will be injurious to this country, he has a right and a feason for voting against those who stand for free coinage; but I do not want any person who is in favor of the money of the constitution to be deterred from voting for those who stand for it by any ing for those who stand for it by any abuse that our opponents may use against us between now and election day. (Great cheering.) I shall be in this city for a few days and shall see as many of your people as is possible for me to see in that time; and I shall defend the principle for which I stand defend the principle for which I stand before these people, and I am going to talk to the people themselves and not go to the employers and bargain for the delivery of the votes of the people. (Great applause.) I have been taught to believe that the ballot was given to the individual for his own use, and that the citizen who has the right to vote who has the abil. has the right to vote, who has the abil-ity to determine how he ought to vote. Therefore in this campaign, I want to address my arguments to the individ-ual voter and not to the head of a firm or the president of the railroads or the boss of a corporation, (Wild cheering and a voice: "We'll be with you Tuesand a voice; day.")

Now, my friends, I only came here this afternoon to greet and receive your words of welcome and I must go now in order to be ready for the evening

TOPIC AT THE VATICAN.

The Coming Election in the United States Regarded with Interest.

London, Oct. 27.—The Pail Mail Gazette publishes a despatch from its Rome correspondent in which he says: "The coming presidential election in the United States is the absorbing topic at the Vatican, owing to the strides made by Catholicism in America, now one of the largest sources of income the church has. It is recognized that the standing danger to Romanism in the United States is the independence of the American bishops, noticeable since the time of Pius IX. The latter fully recognized that these bishops en-joyed greater power than their breth-ren elsewhere and he showed better ren elsewhere, and he showed he understood this by his answer to some linglish priests who asked for certain privileges. He said:

privileges. He said:
"I am, as you say, Pope, yet I cannot accept your request. But I can show you a way to obtain your desire. Go to America, for there the bishops are greater than the Pope." On the accession of Pope Leo matters assumed a different aspect. He charged Monsignor Satolli with the duty of intimating to the bishops in unmistakable lanto the bishops in unmistakable lan-guage the limits of their powers, and the result was something like a split which it took Monsignor Satolli two which it took Monsignor Satolli two-years to heal. But his mission had good results." The correspondent adds that the Vatican does not wish the clergy in the United States to take part in the campaign, lest there should be a new division in the ranks and an outburst of intemperate appropriate of willten of intemperate expression of political opinion on the part of the more impetuous bishops.

AMERICAN WHEAT WILL RISE.

English Newspapers Expect Too See Grain Go Up With a Baug.

London, Oct. 27 .- In an article on the demand for wheat and the supply of that cereal the Dail Telegraph says: "The stock of foreign wheat at the principal British ports, it is said, would not suffice to feed the country for a fortnight. The slight fall in American exchanges on Saturday gave the English market a downward tendency, but it is the opinion of one of the best known corn factors in Mark Lane that American wheats will speedily rise with a bang, and that by Christmas prices will be much further enhanced. ing the recent excitement speculation in England and America was carried beyond reasonable bounds, but in the beyond reasonable bounds, but in the market the opinion is positive that at least a proportion of the rise will be retained and the area of low prices is for the time being ended."

The Evening Standard says: "The tendency in wheat is for higher prices, adding: The failure in India will divert Californian and Australian wheat from Europe there. Only the tremendous effort in the United States to hurry wheat across the Atlantic in exchange for gold prevented a much greater increase in prices and when the greater increase in prices and when the in-rush is past there will be a further rise."

ASKED FOR LOWER SALARY.

Pastor's Unusual Request Made

From the Pulpit. Easton, Pa., Oct. 27.—Rev. L. W. Eckert, pastor of Brainard Union Presbyterian church, created a surprise yes-terday by requesting from the pulpit that his salary be reduced $500.

carried a red, white and blue umbrella. They marched well and had several bands. The ladies were greeted with cheers and applause along the line of march. Mrs. A. T. Bloxom was marshal and Mrs. L. C. Laylin made the address to Major McKinley. It was a ringing political speech and she was freely applauded. Mrs. George S. Titus presented Mrs. McKinley with flowers. The Norwalk ladies were introduced to Major McKinley by Mrs. W. R. Day, of Canton. After Major McKinley's remarks to the Norwalk ladies they sang "The Red, White and Blue."

INSURANCE MEN. The last delegation today was a sprightly one, composed of about 399 members of the Underwriters Sound Money club, of Cleveland. Major McKinicy made the most stirring speech of the day to the underwriters. He said:

"I do not know of any agency that has been more effective in its nature or that has furnished more and bet ter reasons for the maintenance of money and sound policy than the insurance companies of the United States. (Cheers.) Some of the best literature touching the whole money question has ematted from the insurance companies and it is a great triance companies, and it is a great tri-bute to them, this magnificent stand they have taken for the maintenance of an honest dollar, to insure private and public confidence to the citizens of the country. I am glad to meet and greet you all. You know quite as well as the men in any other calling or profession when we have prosperity and when adversity. Therefore you are in? terested in that policy that insures to the American resident the greatest de-velopment." (Cheers.)

THE ANDRUS MURDER.

No Apparent Solution of the Myster

at Present in Sight. Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 27.—No apparent solution of the mystery surrounding the death of Hamlin J. Andrus, who was killed by the explosion of a bomb in the office of the Arlington Chemical works last Wednesday morning, is in sight. The correspond the Pinkerton sight. The coroner and the Pinkerton detectives, who have been running down all sorts of clues for the past week, have made very little progress.

During the past two days suspicion seems to have centered about an employe of the factory, it being claimed by the investigators that many strange circumstances seemingly connect the individual with the death of Andrus. There was no motive. The man's name had unfortunately been men-tioned by indiscreet persons and the tioned by indiscreet persons and the people demanded that the coroner should show his hand. In the face of such criticism, he was forced today to make a statement, adding, however, that he still believed that Andrus was assassinated. It now looks as if the case would never be satisfactorily cleared up.
