How Money Due Heirs of Late Nelson Anderson Has Been Expended by Lodges He Held Membership In.

Nelson Anderson, a Swede, who died at the Lackawanna hospital from injuries received while at work in the Hyde Park mine, came to this country eight years ago and after a while he joined Slocum Lodge, No. 576, Improved Order of Odd Fellows, and Navajo Tribe, No. 105, Order of Red Men. He was also a member of Electric City Commandery, Knights of Malta. He was in good standing in these organizations at the time of his death and the Slocum and Navajo lodges will be bound to pay $100 each to his relatives. He had no one dependent upon him and the lodges would have been at liberty to keep the money, but they did not do so.

They have expended the sum in this way, each bearing half of the expense: burial, $35; casket, $74.40; flowers, $15; monument $80; sodding $1. The total is $176.40. This money will be laid aside and will at times be spent in keeping in condition the dead man's grave. The Knights of Malta have no indemnity clause in their constitution. The erecting of the monument in the Washburn street cemetery was done last Friday. It has on it inscribed the man's name and age at time of death, and also the emblems of the orders.

Diphtheria is raging to an alarming extent among children of Minooka and parts of this side, and the death rate is unusually large. In houses where diphtheria exists in either a mild or severe form, there is nothing to prevent the children who are not sick from attending school or mingling with other children. The funeral has been held and was publicly attended. Only in sections on the South Side has it been very severe and these places are in the upper part of the town. It has been held along South Washington avenue flats.

INJUNCTIONS DISSOLVED.

Names of Candidates at Philadelphia Will Be Placed on Regular Ticket.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 27.—Judges Simonton and McPherson sat this afternoon to hear argument in the matter of the injunction to restrain the county commissioners of Philadelphia from printing on the official ballot the column of the McKinley citizens party at Philadelphia. In the answer Secretary Reader denied the jurisdiction of the Dauphin county court and avers that no objection has been filed to the McKinley citizens' ticket within the time required by law. He followed the precedent of the department in certifying the ticket. He says that the continuance of the injunction would seriously interfere with the printing of the ballots, which has been commenced by the printer. Argument was also heard in the injunction proceedings of William L. Carson, of the Twentieth Legislative district, to restrain the Philadelphia committee from printing the name of Milton W. Korkeslager on the ballot, alleging that his name was improperly certified by the state department. At the conclusion of the argument, which was mainly on the jurisdiction of the court, the court took the papers and stated that an early decision would be given. Judge McPherson announced verbally that the injunctions in both cases had been dissolved and that a short opinion would follow.

IN ARGUMENT COURT.

The Award Given to Mary Marvel for Breach of Promise Will Stand.

Owing to the fact that many of the cases on the argument list are continued, Judges Archbold, Edwards and Guster got through with those on for yesterday, early in the afternoon. There was an argument on the rule to set aside the sheriff's sale in the case of Richard Caffrey vs. John R. Caffrey. The court discharged the rule and the sale will stand. The case of J. B. Caffrey vs. Alderman P. DeLacy, growing out of the same matter, was marked off the list.

Argument was made in the case of Mary Marvel against George Phillips, George is a Russian and the proprietor of a grocery store in Jessup, besides owning two or three houses and lots. He is young, but a shrewd business man and through his enterprise and industry he amassed a comfortable fortune.

Looking about for a young woman to share his joys and sorrows, he wooed and won. The day for the wedding was set and about a week before hand they were at court house and got a marriage license. She proceeded to have her trousseau ready.

But he changed his mind and refused to marry her. She sued him for breach of promise, the case was heard before arbitrators, and she was awarded $1,000. It was then that Judge Phillips, in the opinion of the court, the case will come up for another trial.

WANTED TO COLLECT STORAGE.

The spectacular production of the new "Spider and Fly" will be the attraction at the Academy of Music Friday and Saturday night. It requires a special baggage car to haul the scenery, while a second car is necessary for the costumes and the general baggage of the company of forty-two people. One of the features of the "Spider and Fly" is this season is the grand and bewildering transformation, which represents the history of the United States from 1892 to the present year. There will be no matinee on Thursday, the immense scenery requiring too long to be put in place.

AMUSEMENTS.

Probably the largest and most expensive theatrical organization which Manager Long will present to his patrons at the Academy of Music this coming season will be Thomas D. Van Osten's "Miss Philadelphia" extravaganza company, numbering one hundred people.

"Miss Philadelphia" was written by Edgar Smith and composed by Hermann Peitot. It is a stupendous burlesque production, and was produced in Philadelphia April 20th, 1896, when it ran for twenty-one nights. The plot hinges on a dream in the course of which William Penn, Jr., a fast descendant of the original "Willie," finds himself in the present aspect of the city and the proud state of Pennsylvania which he founded way back in the past. It is extremely witty, featuring a number of short scenes and there with veins of the keenest and most trenchant satire upon the most notable and prominent characters of the present time.

"Miss Philadelphia" accompanied by her 100 fully trained musicians and star orchestra of fourteen musicians. "Miss Philadelphia" accompanied by her 100 fully trained musicians and star orchestra of fourteen musicians.
