NICHOLSON.

Morris E. Bacon was quite seriously injured on Tuesday morning by falling from the porch roof of E. D. Bell's house. Mr. Bacon went on the porch to paint the tin roof, believing the frost and ice of the early morning to have all disappeared, but found himself mistaken. When his feet went out from under him, and he slid off the roof, striking his heels, then his back on the ground. The momentum received from the toboggan-like start, sent him with great force. He is confined to his bed, and suffers much pain. D. W. Titus and A. L. Titus are improving the appearance of their homes by new coats of paint.

It is lamentable that our younger generations should get impressions that honesty and trustfulness are foreign to politics. Conditions should be eign to politics. Conditions should be such that our youth would have nothing but the highest conception of the integrity of men chosen by the people for the administration of the affairs of state. The story is told that one of the teachers in our schools asked a class in civil government, What 16 to 1 meant? One little fellow only was prepared to answer.
