SERMON ON THE HOLY SPIRIT.

Preached by Rev. A. B. Simpson at Green Ridge Presbyterian Church.

For the past three days the Christian Missionary Alliance of this district has held a convention at Pittston, and the society connected with the Green Ridge Presbyterian church last evening listened to a sermon by Rev. A. B. Simpson, of New York city, president of the New York state Alliance, who was one of the prominent personalities at the convention. He spoke on "The Baptism of the Holy Spirit" and during the sermon Mr. Simpson showed the necessity of the Spirit in the life of the Christian and of Christians as the source of power for their own Christian character and the work of God and man.

The speaker attributed the generous support to the Alliance from the people not to transient emotional excitement, but to a profound belief in the Holy Spirit. Mr. Simpson left for New York city last evening.

PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL ADDRESS

He Made Some Sentencing Remarks with Reference to the Position Taken by the Old School Physicians--Dr. Brewster on the Care of Consumptives--Banquet at the Hotel Terrace Last Night.

The tenth semi-annual meeting of the Interstate Homeopathic Medical Association was held yesterday in Albrecht Library hall, and in the evening at 8 o'clock a banquet was opened at Hotel Terrace. The association embraced representatives from Pennsylvania and Southern and Western New York.

Those present were: Dr. J. W. Coolidge, the president, Dr. Anna Clark, Dr. Mary Shoberg, Dr. F. D. Brewster, Dr. F. W. Lange, Dr. T. H. Sureth, Dr. H. B. Ware, Dr. H. T. Holtzer, all of Scranton; Dr. E. H. Hill, of Wilkes-Barre; Dr. E. H. Hill, of Tunkhannock; Dr. E. E. Snyder, William H. Proctor, George F. Hand, L. A. Martin.

The dangers of bicycle riding were cited as being in many respects assuming improper positions on the wheel. This is not to be the case with young kids, he said, who imagine themselves the champions of the road.

With reference to the use of the wheel by women the doctor said that some contend that the exercise is not adapted to them, and that it is difficult to sustain this contention. Her chance for exercise outside her household duties are very slim. She is denied the benefit of the open air, and the many other outdoor exercises of her brothers. But, he said, in bicycling they must reform their style of dress.

They must go out minus their tight corsets, and in a costume which is attractive and healthful. The doctor said nothing about bloomers.

DISCUSSION OF PAPER. His paper was discussed by Drs. E. M. Santee, of Towanda, and L. A. Martin, of Binghamton. The former commended the paper very highly, and assured him that all physicians also do who have undergone the experiences of trying to get their drivers out of bed at night.

A paper on "Surgical Injuries of the Upper Extremity" was read by Dr. Hessler, of Philadelphia. In the absence of Dr. W. B. Van Lennep, of that city, one of the professors of Philadelphia Haberman College, the paper was devoted altogether to the treatment of appendicitis, and the discussion which followed was entered into by several of the physicians. Dr. Simmons, of New York, in his remarks, opposed the use of the knife in appendicitis. He does not believe that God placed any organ in the body that was meant to be cut out, and that there is about sixteen-fifths too much use of the knife.

Dr. DeWitt G. Wilcox, of Buffalo, read a paper on "Intestinal Anomalous with the Murphy Button," and Dr. F. W. Adrians, of Elmira, read a paper on "When Should a Gynecologist Examine a Woman?" Both papers were highly commended.

Dr. W. C. Goddard, of Philadelphia, was on the program to read a paper on "Protracted Typhoid Fever." He could not come, and Dr. Coolidge asked Dr. Sureth to read the paper, which Dr. Goddard sent accompanying his letter of regret.

Dr. A. D. Getman, of Oneonta, N. Y., read a paper on "Hereditry." He took the stand that heredity is overlooked too much in the treatment of disease. In the everyday conception of the term it is apt to regard it as only the transmission from father to son and from mother to daughter.

transmission from father to son and from mother to daughter. A thorough sifting of the qualities that descend from sire to son through the characteristics of race, nationality and environment, he dwelt upon the evils resulting from the free use of cocaine, opium and alcohol. The session closed with a paper on the "Abortive Treatment of Diseases," by Dr. E. E. Snyder, of Binghamton.

BANQUET AT TERRACE. The local society banqueted the delegates at the Terrace in the evening. Covers were laid for fifty. Dr. H. B. Ware was toastmaster and proved to be a very happy instrument of that situation. Toasts were responded to as follows: "Our Society in Northern Pennsylvania," Dr. Theodore M. Johnson, Pittston; "Toasts on Some Other Things," Dr. W. C. Goddard, Philadelphia; "The Interstate," Dr. J. W. Coolidge, Scranton; "Auld Lang Syne," Dr. J. T. Greenleaf, Oneonta; "Doctors and Clergymen," Rev. Dr. C. M. Gilchrist, Park church; "The Ladies," Dr. Hessler, Philadelphia; "As a Business Man," Dr. E. E. Snyder, Scranton; "Philanthropic Medicine," Dr. St. Paul Smith, New York; Dr. Wilcox, of Buffalo, and Dr. Martin, of Binghamton, also made speeches.

Dr. Greenleaf's response was in rhyme and it was a gem. Dr. Coolidge treated the guests to a very amusing account of the proceedings of a fictitious medical club, which abounded in wit and humor.

HIS BODY FOUND IN THE RESERVOIR

Mystery of James Kearney's Disappearance Solved.

WATER IS NEAR THE BLAST FURNACE

Remains Were Discovered Floating on the Surface at 6 o'clock Yesterday Morning by Two Men on Their Way from Work--He Left Home Accompanied by a Dog on Oct. 16.

James Kearney, who disappeared from home on the street on Friday evening, October 16, was found dead at 6 o'clock yesterday morning floating on the surface of the water in the reservoir alongside the blast furnace, and almost under the Roaring Brook bridge. The body was in the water evidently since the night of his disappearance. It was swollen and discolored and almost unrecognizable.

Some men employed at the blast furnace saw the dark object floating on the water as they were going home in the morning after their night's work. It was less than an hour the Roaring Brook bridge was lined with persons, curious to see the body. The men who discovered it by means of ropes with drags attached, towed it to the bank and then sent for Coroner Longstreet.

The doctor arrived later in the morning and empanelled a jury, consisting of E. R. Conley, W. A. Raub, James Raub, J. D. Campbell and James Feeney. After the remains had been viewed by the jury, Undertaker Raub conveyed them to his establishment on Spruce street.

THE BODY IDENTIFIED. Up to this time no one had identified him, but it was suspected by many that it was Mr. Kearney. The description given of him in the papers at the time of his disappearance corresponded to that of the body. Soon after Undertaker Raub had taken the body to his relatives called, and they confirmed the suspicion that had already gained general ground. It was almost impossible to tell by the features who the dead man was, no doubt about his identity when the clothing was examined. Miss Nellie Kearney immediately recognized the clothes as those of her father, and she is a shoemaker living near the Kearney's, and who had known the deceased for many years, recognized the shoes as a pair which he fixed a few days before Kearney left home. It is quite probable that the deceased had lost his way and wandered around the blast furnace, and in the darkness fell into the reservoir. His wife's death about a year ago wrought a great change in him. Since then he was in the habit of lapsing into spells of abstraction. The night he left home a large Newfoundland dog accompanied him, and was about 9 o'clock. His absence worried his family greatly, but they were not altogether uneasy until the dog returned home alone the following Tuesday. They had feared the deceased had been such that his absence was the surest sign that something had befallen him.

NINE CHILDREN SURVIVE. He was 50 years old and worked as a miner. His children survive him. They are Mrs. Edward Barrett, Mrs. Thomas J. Ellwood, Martin, Patrick, John, James, Nellie, Lizzie, and Mrs. Patricia Kelly, of the City. Monday the body was removed from Raub's to Cusack's undertaking rooms on Washington avenue, from where the funeral will take place at 3 o'clock tomorrow night. The funeral will be held at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Kearney, 100 Spruce street.

Coroner Longstreet and the jury will meet at his office on Wyoming avenue to-morrow night to hear testimony and to determine whether or not the body that fouled play had anything to do with death, and it is generally regarded as an accident.

TENANT GOT JUDGMENT. Landlord and Constable Sued for $100 Damages. E. H. Pickering, of Dunmore, landlord, and I. H. Dolphin, a constable, of that borough, yesterday had judgment in their favor in a case against them, by Alderman Millar for conducting an irregular constable's sale.

The plaintiff was Miss Tina Reiber, who and her husband recently began housekeeping in one of Pickering's houses. It was a rather dilapidated structure and it was agreed that if the tenants should clean it out and fix it up there would be an allowance made in the rent. A disagreement over this allowance brought about a constable's sale. There was no lease and according to the tenants should have been given three months notice, but according to the allegation of the Reiber's, the landlord and constable evicted them and sold their goods in the street sold them for $25. Mrs. Pickering being the purchaser. Among the goods were articles to the value of $50 which Mrs. Reiber avers belonged to her, and she has been given to her as wedding presents by her relatives. Her hat, dress and shoes were also sold, which under no consideration can be attached.

During the progress of the hearing James Mahon, attorney for the defendant, asked Mrs. Reiber what the alderman considered was an unfair question and he told her she need not answer. Mr. Mahon, thereupon gathered up his papers and books and left saying "If we can't try our case there's no use of our staying around here." The alderman after inquiring closely into the case gave judgment for the plaintiffs in the sum of $100.

AMUSEMENTS.

This evening at the Frothingham the world-renowned old Gilmore's band, old but new, will appear in a grand concert, fresh from an unparalled success in three engagements with the elite, continued from May 30 to Oct. 21. The genuine success which Victor Herbert and Gilmore's band has had this year is hardly equalled in the musical history of the country. This evening's concert will present much of special interest. The program number for the band are the "Tannhauser" overture, "Wagner," the "Fest" overture, Lassen, a Spanish ballet suite by Desormes, the Intermezzo from Cavalieri, Rusticani, Mascagni, "Starlight Waltz" from "Wizard of the Nile," Victor Herbert, and also his "American Girl" march, and (b) Scherzo, (c) "Wizard of the Nile," (d) Scherzo. Victor Herbert will appear in violin-cello solo (a) "In Dreamland," "The Comedy Music," (b) Scherzo, (c) "The Swallows," Cowen, and the famous "Three Solitaires," Messrs. Clark (Herbert L.), Hager and Schmidt, will play a "Polka Brillante" trio for three first cornets. The encore music will include the happiest sort of contentions and brilliant divertissement.

The attraction at the Academy of Music, Friday and Saturday, and Saturday matinee, Oct. 30 and 31, is that of those popular home favorites, "The power of the Organ," and "The entertainment," as is usual with this organization, will be given on the popular idea for brain and muscle workers, that is, simply, "The Organ," and "The entertainment," and interesting music, interpreted by a company capable of adding novel, new and original specialties. "The Kodak," a new play, has been written for this company, it is a wonder, being full of life and fun from start to finish. An admirable list of players has been engaged this season. The stage settings, costumes and scenic efforts will be appropriate and up to the usual high standard. A continued ripple of meriment is sure to greet the audience, testifying to its enjoyment.

The sale of seats for the engagement of the famous Bostonians will open at the box office of the Frothingham this morning. Unusual interest centers in the engagement of this popular organization, for their appearance is the chief event of the musical year. The year the organization is said to be considerably strengthened by the addition of several new artists, and the list of principals includes such well known names as Henry Clay Barnabee, William B. MacDonald, Jessie Bartlett Davis, Eugene Coles, George Frothingham, Hilda E. Clark, Alice Neilson, W. E. Phily, T. Kelly, George Joseph Bartlett, Gracia Quill, C. E. Landie, S. L. Studley, Merrill, May Von Dresser and Charles R. Hawley. It has been decided to present here that popular opera, "Mexico," next Monday evening.

One of the best of all American plays, "The Girl I Left Behind Me," which has made several fortunes for Charles Frohman, comes to the Frothingham next Tuesday evening. "The Girl I Left Behind Me" seems to have a charm of deliriousness, and a society. Perhaps the judicious mingling of social incident, the flirting and fun that are sure to happen when soldiers and pretty girls are thrown together, and the exciting war scenes explain this success with different classes. But even without its pretty girls and the brilliant play of Joseph Barnabee, there is enough fire and stir in the tremendous stockade scene to fill any audience with enthusiasm, no matter whether it is a purely fashionable one or not.

It being election night, the management has arranged with the Postal Telegraph company to furnish complete returns, which will be read from the stage during the performance.

WIDOW SUES TO RECOVER DAMAGES

Her Husband Was Killed by Going Over an Embankment. Mrs. Cordelia Alger began an action yesterday against the Township of South Abington to recover damages for the death of her husband. She is represented by Attorneys O'Brien & Kelly.

Mr. Alger met his death last spring by going over an embankment along one of the roads in South Abington township and it is alleged by the widow that the negligence of the township supervisors in failing to keep the road properly cared for and guarded caused the accident which resulted in Mr. Alger's death.
