INSULTS SHOWERED ON HIS HONOR

Little Done at the Kinsley Investigation Last Night.

SCOPE THE INVESTIGATION

It Led to a Very Heated Discussion During Which Attorney E. C. New-Things About the City's Chief Executive -- Mr. O'Toole Declared That He Will Force Certain Words Down Mayor Bailey's Throat.

Virulent abuse of the city's chief executive and an hour's wrangle over echnicalities was the sum and sub-stance of the first night of the Kinsley nvestigation.

The session was held in the mayor's The session was held in the mayor's office. Colonel George Sanderson, president of select council; James J. Grier, president of common council; C. E. Chittenden and J. J.Loftus, chairman of the respective streets and bridges committee, who had been invited by the paper to sit with him as advisors were committee, who had been invited by the mayor to sit with him as advisors, were all present at the appointed hour, 7.30 o'clock. Mr. Kinsley was there with ex-City Solicitor I. H. Burns and George M. Watson as his attorneys. The Sunday World, which printed the charge upon which the investigation is based, was represented by John H. Blackwood, M. J. O'Toole and Attorney E. C. Newcamb. H. C. Mayor Bailey opened the ball by announcing that he had been instructed by select council to investigate charges excited. He was pre-pared to proceed with the investigation and would welcome suggestions as to how it should be conducted.

At his suggestion Secretary Beamish read the communications which passed between the mayor and councils regarding the matter. First was read the concurrent resolution directing the mayor to investigate the street commissioner's to investigate the mayor's letter. department; then the mayor's letter asking for specific charges, and finally the resolution of select council.

SELECT COUNCIL RESOLUTION. Resolved. That it is the sense of the se-lect council that the charges made by the Sunday World against Street Commis-sioner Kinsley, should be investigated by the mayor.

COLONEL SANDERSON'S POSITION. COLONEL SANDERSON'S POSITION.

Colonel Sanderson—My position is not that of one who would shield anything that should come out. I merely have a personal repugnance to participating in a dragnet inquiry and prefer not to do so without direct instructions from ccuncils.

Mr. Chittenden—Representatives of the paper are present. Why not let them put the charges more clearly or more specifically if they can do so?

Mr. Newcomb—That's my idea, but a member of the committee wants to limit the investigation. Let us go over the pay roll.

roll.

Mayor Balley-Here! I am waiting to go on with this investigation. Where are your charges?

Mr. Newcomb-Do you want them to Mr. Newcomb—Do you want them to be in writing?

Mayor Bailey—I want the charges contained in the Sunday World if you are prepared to present them.

Mr. Newcomb—Very well. I would now ask if the management of the Sunday World will be permitted to be represented by counsel?

Mayor Bailey—I see no objection.

Mr. Newcomb—Well, I will say in the outset that this stiffing of the investigation will not be borne by the public.

Mayor Bailey—You will please remember that you are before the mayor. You have got to observe decency, at least, if not respect. Confine yourself to the case or you will be removed from it.

Mr. Newcomb—The Sunday World asks for the pay roll of the street commissioner's department.

Colonel Sanderson—What for?

for the pay roll of the street commissioner's department.
Colonel Sanderson—What for?
Mr. Newcomb—To show that there were men carried on those pay rolls who never worked for the city.
Mayor Bailey—Just hold on. Was that charge printed in the World?
Mr. Newcomb—If you think, Mr. Bailey, that you can conduct this investigation in a high handed manner you may find yourself mistaken. I appeal to the members of this committee. Here is a copy of the pay roll which I wish to offer.
Mr. Chittenden—Let the clerk read a few pages of it and then we can judge as to whether or not we should admit it.
Secretary Beamish was about to pro-ed and weigh them. VERY HARSH WORDS. WERY HARSH WORDS.

Mr. Newcombe in his most caustic manner remarked that all with the exception of the mayor wanted to make an honest investigation. He intended to proceed farther, but was interrupted by the mayor with a reply to the effect that Mr. Newcombe was anything but a gentleman. Mr. Newcombe retorted in kind, and then raising his voice, said with most emphatic earnestness: "I believe the City of Scranton has never humiliated itself so before in selecting a chief executive. I for one share with many the humiliation of having helped make you chief executive."

The mayor made no reply to this open insult, but glared like a tiger at his maligner.

After some more parleying it was agreed to adjourn to Wednesday night, and in the meantime the World people would formulate their charges. Mayor Bailey said he would entertain any charges that might be presented, and Colonel Sanderson said if what was to be presented next Wednesday night was nothing more than an elaboration of the charges that have been printed During Which Attorney E. As the meeting was breaking up Mr. Newcombe in a somewhat conciliatory tone said: "Jim Bailey, you didn't act right with us to-night."

"I treated you as fair as you treated "Well, I dont' think you are alto-gether responsible to-night."
And still the mayor made no move to resent the imputation. After a majority of those who had been present were gone the World rep-resentatives, Messrs. Blackwood and O'Toole,had a whack at his honor. They insulted him with almost every sentence they uttered, and in one of them, Mr. O'Toole, went so far as to make the threat that he would force certain words of the mayor's down his throat before many days had passed. the rooms of the Central club. In the main room the members of the first named club assembled, and addresses were delivered by William Connell and Major Everett Warren. Dr. W. F. Conners was the chairman in the absence of Senator J. C. Vaughan.

Mr. Connell spoke only briefly. He thanked the members for the kindly interest they are taking in his candidacy for congress. He preferred to make way for Major Warren to talk to them on the issues of the day. The latter's address was delivered in an interesting and entertaining style and its arguhow it should be conducted.

Colonel Sanderson—I suppose this proceeding is to be confined to the Sunday World charges.

Mayor Bailey—That is my idea.
Colonel Sanderson—I ask this question because I want to know before agreeing to act what the breadth of the investigation is. If you confine yourself to the charges contained in the Sunday World, I am willing to serve, If you go outside that I must decline to act with you, as I do not think it is our place to go beyond what we were directed to do by council.

onel Sanderson, in regard to the scope of this investigation? Would the pay roll for the street department during Mr. Kinsley's term be a subject of investigation?

Colonel Sanderson—I understand that the charges are that he used his own teams on city work. Further on in the article are statements of rumors that there were assignments of wages to men closely associated with Mr. Kinsley: that he had used city teams on the excavation for the Frothingham theater and charged the work in his office for which no provision was made by councils and that the clerk was on the pay roll as a laborer, and that Mr. Hatton, the person designated by councils as street commissioners' clerk was on the pay roll as a laborer, and that Mr. Hatton, the person designated by councils as street commissioners' clerk was on the pay roll aduring Mr. Kinsley's term?

HALLOWE'EN AND ITS MEMORIES

Superstitions Which the Celtic Race Surrounds It With.

CALEDONIANS MET AT MUSIC HALL

A Fine Musical and Literary Pro gramme Was Carried Out -- Refreshments Provided and Dancing Followed .- Fourth Annual Social of Columbus Council Young Men's Institute at Excelsior Hall -- Committee in Charge of It.

To the Celtic race, the Scotch and the Irish people, Hallowe'en possesses a strong superstious charm which never fades. It is surrounded with delightfully welrd memories of spirits, fairies, ghosts, giants, leprechawns, pookas, demons, banshees and witches.

In Scotland, as related by the poet Burns, the evening is celebrated by meetings of young people of both sexes, when various mystical or playful cere-monies are performed with a view of revealing future husbands or wives. It is an occasion when all animated creatures not human but akin to mankind are supposed to be specially active. The same credence surrounds the oc-casion among the peasantry of Ire-

Under the auspices of the Scranton Caledonian club there was a most pleasant Hallowe'en social conducted at Music Hall. Ar oil painting of Burns, whom every Scotsman idolizes, was hung against the back wall of the stage and around it was draped the American flag. On the stage a table was set with an abundance of fruit and cake and confectionery.

The hall was filled with clansmen and their wives and daughters and little ones and an unusually fine programme of musical and literary numbers was carried out. It was in two parts and the interim was occupied with enloying cake coffee ice green. with enjoying cake, coffee, ice cream and candy. An active and ready corps of young lads and lassies bore the trays around to the folks and a half hour was thus engaged. Boxes of candy were distributed to the little ones to keep them from going to sleep, in which they would surely dream of every var-lety of hobgolbin, Chief William Scott Collins, of the Caledonians, opened the entertainment with a few remarks, and during the evening brief addresses were made by Mr. Connary and ex-Chief James Moir. The gallant captain delighted his hear-ers with stories of Hallowe'en superstitions, and by turns made the cold chills creep up and down their spinal columns, and then sent them into roars of laughter. The other persons who favored with their talent were: Misses Russell, John Sherldan, William Harry Mellett, Al Austin, Ed-Kelley, Lindszy McMillan, ex-Chief James B.
