WILKES-BARRE. SCRANTON GOLFERS

Second Game of the Match to Be Played on the Country Club Course Today -- Members of the Prominent Social Set Are Prostrate Before the New Game -- Resume of the Week's Many Weddings -- Personal Mention.

What has been written during past weeks of the doings of those in the city's most prominent social set might be applied to the present time. Goif has swallowed and overshadowed everything else. When the game first made its appearance the number who were attracted by it was large, but its were attracted by it was large, but its followers have increased until now about everybody on the Country club list plays it indifferently or well. Cer-tainly the game is engaging such gen-eral and constant attention that its followers are prostrate before it and will not desert it even momentarily for other social shrines.

Today on the Country club's course will be played the second game with the Wilkes-Barre golfers. The Scran-ton team won the first leg of the match ton team won the first leg of the match in Wilkes-Barre last Saturday. To-day's will be the last game unless the visitors win, in which event the odd game will be played, the location to probably be decided by lot. The Wilkes-Barreans will reach here this morning and will make their head-quarters at the Hotel Jermyn. Play will begin at 1.20 o'clock. Lunch will be served at the club house during the afternoon. T. H. Watkins, the Scranton club's golf captain, had not selected his team last night, but the six men ed his team last night, but the six men will probably be chosen from the fol-lowing: T. H. Watkins, H. P. Simp-son, John H. Brooks, A. E. Hunt, Jr., F. W. Stilwell, F. C. Fuller, J. R. Ath-erton and C. R. Manville, Tonight is Hallowe'en, when the witches, fairies and all manner of sprites of the air and earth are supposed to make merry. In Scranton not much attention will be paid to them by society folk, though the irrepressible small boy and maiden may be expected to have their fun out of it. One of the very few of the Hallowe'en parties an-nounced for tonight on the hill is that to be given by Miss Augusta Archbald.

parler musical to introduce Mr and Mrs. Ernest Thiel, late of New York city, was given by Mr, and Mrs. E. Moses last night at their home, 536 Washington avenue. It was a pro-nounced success musically and socially. Mr. and Mrs. Thiel were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Thiel were assisted by Miss Katharine Timberman, contraito; Miss Jennie Buckwald, pianist, and Al-fred Pennington, pianist. The result of the musical was a favorable verdict upon Mrs. Thiel, as soprano and her husband as violinist, and makes it cer-tan that they and Miss Timberman and Mr. Pennington will be given a hearty velcome at their public appearance in the concert to be given by the four in Frothingham on the evening of Monday, November 9. The audience which heard last night's concert was a large and enthusiastic one, there being comparatively few declinations of the many invitations is-sued early in the week. The programme

Mr. Pennington and Mr. Thiele.

Mrs. Thiele showed herself deserving of the many encomiums bestowed upon her in New York city and elsewhere. She is an able artiste and merits the honors she has shared with such noted ones as Miss Aus der Ohe, Dr. Mans, William Sherwood, Professor Scharwenka and others. The same is true of Mr. Thiele, who is one of the few native violinists of repute in this country. That he was worthy to have been one of the Mendelsshon Quartette club and of the Christine Neilson concert party, which toured this continent and Australia, was evidenced by his ad-mirable work last evening. Of Miss Buckwald's, Miss Tunberman's and Mr. Pennington's performances, their worth, already made known to Scranton critiques, applies to their last evening's performances.

The announcement of books this year seem to be fewer than usual. Hard times and the bleyele are some of the causes.

Dr. Weir Mitchell's new story in the Century will be a tale of the Revolutionary War, and it will contain incidents of personal interest to the old families of Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities. In Maurier, having gone to Mars for his latest hero, a Boston man has gone him one better by writing a book describing the visit to earth of the lord commissioner of Mars, with incidental criticisms and a love story.

The poems of Johanna Ambrosius, the remarkable German peasant who has come to the front by the pure force of her genius, have gone through twenty-six editions in Germany. They arep ublished by Roberts Bros., in this country.

POLITICS AND THE TYPES. From the Rochester Post-Express.

From the Rochester Post-Express,

"The types," says the Scranton Tribune, "are the real instruments of political battle; they are the grape, the shell, and the camister that lay low the enemy's forces." It is a truth well phrased. There has never been a campaign when printers' ink did so much and dowed so freely as in this, and it is the little black types that have done most to riddle the silver "arguments." We referred yesterday to the wenderful outpour of campaign literature, unparalleled heretofore, and counterbalancing in cost, and probably in efficiency, all the speeches, and processions, and freworks that the parties have used. But the ceaselessly working types are not content with the printing of pumphlets. Countless millions of books and speeches and leaders are published bearing on the issues at stake, but even greater has been the work of the types in the daily press.
The Republican cause has had no champion more powerful than the newspapers;
the co-operation, for a common end, of the Republican press has been the most striking and most powerful conflition of the campaign. The weakest point in Bryan's canvass, after the inherent weakness of the cause, has been his lack of newspaper support. He might be ever so inspiring and eloquent and imposing in the brief speeches of his strange stumping tour; but without the surport and argument of the press, the enthusiasm and hurrah surely dies away as the crowds dispers; and so it has happened that the Illusion has been quickly dispelled by the daily bombardment of carnest and reasonable editorial utterance in the behalf

BRYAN'S ROTTEN EGG ARGU-MENT.

Mrs. Joseph Richards, of Forty Fort, has been the guest of Mrs. Thomas Morgans for the past week.

A regular meeting of the board of health will be held at the council chambers this evening. As a contribution to financial and economic thought the following utterance of Mr. Bryan, made in Kentucky, is the mest remarkable yet offered even by him: "If any man in this community would offer to buy all the eggs produced at 25 cents a dozen and was able to make good the offer, nobody would sell eggs for less, no matter what the cost of production, whether I cent for a cents a dozen. So with sliver, Free coinage would establish the market price of sliver at $1.25, and nobody would sell it for a cent less."

Why limit the price of eggs to 25 cents and of sliver to $1.25? If the reasoning is sound, the price in each case might easily be doubled, and the consequent benefit to the human race correspondingly increased, And why stop with eggs and sliver? Why not mark up the price of everything you

THE PARITY QUESTION.

Why Silver Dollars Under Free Coinage Would Not Be Equal in Value to Gold. "The proposition is that if we in this

"The proposition is that if we in this country shall open our mints to the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 silver to 1 of gold, the use of the money thus created will make all the silver now in existence and all the silver yet to be produced of the value of $1.29 in gold for each ounce of silver, githough at the present time an ounce of silver is worth only about 60 cents in gold.

"This is a theory. We had experience during the year 1861 which throws some light upon the correctness of this theory, we had then in circulation in paper money seme $82,600,080. It was the only money that our people used. That paper money had some qualities which the sliver now proposed would not have; for it had the promise of the United States to pay it in gold. It also was limited definitely in amount. And yet the value of that money in gold varied greatly from month to month, as follows:

That's all you have to do—hold it there? "Nohody would sell it for a cent less," says Bryan, so long as you held it, So with silver." And the man who is putting forth such thought as this is a candidate for the presidency of 70,000,000 of people in the closing years of the nineteenth century!

Can we say that the use of sliver by this country as proposed, with no credit of the government to sustain it, with no definite limitation as to the amount of such silver money, will put all the silver in the world now in existence and that may yet be produced at the value of $1.29 an ounce in gold, and maintain it there, when the use of the comparatively small amount of $700,000,000 of people in the closing years of the nineteenth century!
