MARKETS AND STOCKS

Wall Street Review. New York, Oct. 31.—The stock market today displayed far more activity than had been expected. The difficulty experienced in obtaining funds was a drawback to the market from the opening of the week until yesterday. Saturday is always an off-day in the money market, so that nothing of an important nature was looked for this morning in the matter of call loans. The feeling among operators was decidedly bullish on stocks, and they utterly ignored the decline of 1/4 to 1/2 reported from London before the opening. At the start here, there was a regular push to buy, and the shorts in the market to cover bid prices up on each other. An advance of 1/2 to 1/4 per cent. was recorded right through the list, both investment and speculative stocks sharing in the appreciation.
