FAIR WEATHER AND A BIG VOTE

They Were the Leading Features of Yesterday's Voting Hereabouts.

NO DISTURBANCES WERE REPORTED
In All Parts of the County Grounds of Earnest Workers Surrounded the Polling Places and Cheered and Talked and Worked for Their Candidates—Vote Cast Was Exceedingly Large in Every District.

"Never saw a finer election day," was heard on all sides yesterday and truly it was an ideal day.

No chilling winds, no rain, but on the contrary a bright sky and a warm sun that filled Republicans and Democrats alike with good cheer and gave their spirits that exuberance so essential to the successful party workers.

The weather was altogether too fine to suit many of the Popocrats. They took it as a bad omen.

"We always vote better in bad weather," said Colonel Fitzsimmons as he talked over the situation with several friends. "You know the Democrats are not afraid to come out and vote no matter what kind of weather the Lord provides and this fact has contributed to win several notable victories for us. I'd feel better if it was rough and blustery or even wet today and I think we would have a better showing to make tonight."

This opinion was generally shared by Popocrats.

The weather had something to do with the large vote, for it was large, probably the largest that Lackawanna county has ever recorded. During the day a number of requests were made by county commissioners for extra ballot boxes, those sent out being insufficient to hold all of the ballots cast in some districts.

Many of the mines and workshops of the city were closed down and of course the banks, postoffice and public offices respected the legal holiday. The schools kept their front doors closed and blinds drawn but some of them did a very active side business.

In the first district of the Fourth ward the vote was conducted with great dash and vigor. In the First district John R. Farr lost some Republican votes in the evening. A. T. Connell lost some on the South Side and in the central city wards. John F. Reynolds put up a gallant battle against M. Padden in the Fourth district and the same was true of Dr. N. C. Mackey, the Republican candidate in the Third district. Through activity opposed by some of the Republicans of the district the Republican voters refused to follow the dissatisfied ones in any considerable numbers.

If the weather was a factor in bringing out the large vote it was not the only one. The great interest taken in the presidential, congressional, county and legislative fights had their influence in bringing out the voters. So anxious were the people of the Thirteenth ward to cast their ballots that at 6.30 about every vote that the ward is entitled to was safely stowed away in the ballot boxes.

At every polling place red-hot McKinley supporters were on the premises and their favorite candidates in some instances the arguments between the partisans were very heated. It is commendatory to the manner in which the disputants conducted their emperors, that no disturbances of any consequence were reported.

IN THE CENTRAL CITY.

In the central city wards, the incidents of the day were as expected at the usual local election, although it was known early in the day that the heaviest vote would be cast in the city.

Eight and eight ward district, containing a large population of laboring men, many of them Irish, after a long and hard day of voting, the number of votes polled early in the day was phenomenal, and in the Sixteen ward the vote was almost proportionately heavy. In some districts at 3 o'clock the total number of ballots cast equaled the total Scranton-Merrill field vote in those districts in 1894, which was the largest ever recorded in Lackawanna county.

It was noticed that the voting was somewhat slower than in 1894, but subsequently with more rapidity than at any election since the adoption of the new ballot law. This was considered somewhat strange on account of the large size of the ballot and its complications, but was explained by the fact that the X in the circle was being used for the first time and that the workings of the new system were better understood than formerly.

The only particular election board excitement in the central city, was the business center, which always has its troubles if trouble is rife, was in the First district polling place at Raub's O'Malley, democrat, judge of elections could not serve and presented as his substitute John Welsh. The change was acceptable to both the Democratic and Republican members of the board, but the physician, after installing his substitute, insisted on remaining in the polling place and discussing the work of the board. It resulted in fifteen minutes of wrangling to convince the doctor that his place was outside. He was angered by the controversy.

The incident was trivial, but was a sample of several equally as important misunderstandings that took place in the business center.

In 1894 the district of the Seventeenth ward polled a total of 383 votes for Scranton and Merrill. This total in the Third district of the Fifth ward was polled at 2.30 o'clock yesterday. In the Third district of the Fifth ward 100 votes were cast within an hour and a half after the polls opened. At noon in the Second district of the Ninth ward 200 votes had been cast as against a total of 258 in 1894.

The large voting was equally as apparent in the Sixteenth. In the Second district, one of the heaviest in the city and which usually polls about 300, as many as 280 ballots had been cast at 1 o'clock.

ON THE SOUTH SIDE.

From the opening of the polls until they closed last night at 7 o'clock large crowds gathered at the various voting places on the South Side, and all day long kept up a discussion of the issues upon which the battle was being waged. There were Bryan men at each election district, and they made their presence known to all. The oratorical fever has spread from the "Boy Orator" to his followers, and many of the South Side admirers of the Nebraska candidate made important addresses at the polling places yesterday, in which the orator's ideas about the silver question were more or less lucidly set forth for which the audience held the English and American titles.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday next, Willis and Hastings' Roof Garden high-class vaudeville company will be seen at Davis' theater. It includes some most excellent people in their several lines and should draw crowded houses. The Birmingham papers speak of the show in flattering terms. A feature is Miss Riatta, in her "Electric Blue" dance, for which she claims to hold the English and American titles.

FOOT BALL NOTES.

The Crescent foot ball team challenged

SCRANTON PLAYERS ON THE GRIDIRON

Boys from This City Doing Good Work with the Pigskin.

TWO GOOD FINDS THIS SEASON
Lathrop is Showing Up in Great Form at Princeton and Cosh is Considered a "Phenom" in Pennsylvania—Ideal Team That Could Be Organized Here Next Year—Thorne Is to Take Up His Residence in Scranton.

Why foot ball is not more popular in this city is a question that is asked when one contemplates the large number of good men that Scranton has contributed to the college gridiron. A search of the Green Ridge and other papers in this region are following the work of one or more Scranton stars on the bigger college teams and a host of boys doing the best work on the eleven of the smaller schools.

This year is no exception to the rule. Gelbert continues his great work at University of Pennsylvania. The two Lathrops are showing up in good style at Princeton and a number of others are attracting wide attention by their play with less famous colleges. Lathrop is now first substitute on the Princeton team and will undoubtedly be a regular next year. He has played with the varsity of Pennsylvania and would have been played in all of them but for the fact that he is ineligible for the big games on account of his year's residence in this city.

George Lathrop is also among the promising players and has played in a number of games. It would not be surprising if he, too, would wear a big coat on his sweater next year. "Nick" Stahl, Green Ridge, who is a full back at the Princeton training table, Stahl is a reserve and will next year play at the Princeton position. Princetonians consider him one of their most promising youngsters.

CONSIDERED A PHENOM.

Pennsylvania also has a Scranton "phenom" on her reserve list. He is James Cosh, of Pine Brook, who went last month to study dentistry. Cosh learned foot ball at the Ottawa University and played full back on that team. He was considered to be a first class full back and to find out whether or not their estimate of him was right he determined to go out in practice with the Pennsylvanians.

Brooke, who is a full back and center of the coaches and he was placed in charge of Brooke, who is coaching his full backs. Brooke considers him a first class player and he is expected to be back next year's varsity eleven he is no judge of full backs.

Conroy, who went up to St. Bonaventure's seminary, who is a full back and center, is also a promising player in the games with the York state teams. He is easily the star player of the eleven, according to reports received.

THORNE IS COMING HERE.

The announcement that "Brinkey" Thorne, Yale's great back, will come here to coach the foot ball team to accept a position with the Pennsylvania company in Dunmore, suggests the possibility of an ideal team in Scranton next year. Thorne, full back; Bliss and Gelbert, half backs; Murphy, quarter back; Cleveland, center; Schock and Conroy, guards; Zane and Corning, tackles; Wagonhurst, Decker, Lathrop, Owens, Walsh, Lynch or Weber for ends and substitute backs.

The other players are all on the gridiron this season and would be ready to jump into the game at short notice next year. Enthusiasts hereabouts are talking up the prospect of such a team and it is not altogether impossible that it may be a reality.

PLAYED A FURIOUS GAME.

Darkness Prevented a Decision in Wyoming-Scranton Contest.
The Scranton foot ball team journeyed to Kingston yesterday afternoon and played a furious game with the Wyoming Seminary boys. The game was called off at 4 o'clock and was called shortly after 4 o'clock and during the first half neither side scored. The Seminary team had the ball within a few inches of the Scranton goal when they lost on a fumble.

Sinclair kicked the pigskin towards the Seminary lines and caught the ball with a fumble that was kicked from and dashed down the field at a rapid rate, running about ninety yards, and being brought to earth on the Seminary line. The Seminary team's magnificent tackle by Gendall. In the second half several Scranton men were crippled and unable to play and the game was called on account of darkness, neither side scoring. The line up was as follows:

Ward & Edwards, afterwards the firm of Ward & Horn. His earlier education was acquired in the public schools and Wyoming Seminary.

Mr. Thomas was born in Schuylkill county, moving to this city with his parents in 1877. After being admitted to the bar he arose rapidly in his profession until now he is one of Scranton's leading lawyers and most prominent citizens. He has taken an active part in politics and has attended several state conventions, besides nearly all the county conventions, where he has gained much prominence in making nomination speeches. On the stump also he has been a great help to the Republican party.

He was elected to select council to succeed Reese G. Brooks, from the Fifth ward, and eight years ago was a candidate for the legislature in the First district against Hon. John P. Kelly. Mr. Thomas is at present a member of the Associated Board of Charities and also its legal adviser.

AN EXPERT AT HIS BUSINESS.

Mr. C. C. Taylor, the New York piano expert, now works in the interest of the U. P. E. A. of New York, has overhauled a great many pianos that were in a ruinous condition on account of the moth destroying the action felting, and wishes to state to the owners of pianos to have them looked after by a competent workman. Mr. Taylor will be unable to take any more orders in Scranton, as he leaves November 7.
