TWO CHILDREN AND A WOMAN DROWNED

Knocked by an Engine From a Bridge Into the River at Moosic. WOMAN WAS THEIR GRANDMOTHER

the Was Mrs. Mary McCarthy, of Kirst Court, South Side, and the Children Were Daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Klink, of Connellton .- News Kept From Mrs. Klink

A dreadful drowning accident hap-pened at Moosic yesterday a few min-utes before noon, by which two little girls and their grandmother met a shocking death in the Lackawanna river. The bodies have not been recov-ered.

for Fear It Would Kill Her.

river. The bodies have not been recovered.

The woman was Mrs. Mary McCarthy, 55 years old, wife of James McCarthy, who lives on Kirst court in the rear of 432 Pear street, South Side. The girls were Marguerite, 4 years old, and Mary, 2 years and 6 months old, children of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Klink, of Connellton. Mr. Klink is employed as hoisting engineer at the shaft of the William A. colliery of the William Connell Coal company at Duryea. He and his wife were brought up on the South Side and are well known in that section of the city.

Mrs. Klink gave birth to a baby girl last Tuesday, and the sad news has not been broken to her for fear the shock would kill her. But last night she was ill at ease and restless, and she told those who came to call upon her that she had some strange terror possessing her. Before any one was admitted to her bedroom warning was given not to say anything about the three deaths. They are waiting until she grows stronger. What aroused her suspicion stronger. What aroused her suspicion was her husband's coming home excited from work at 1 o'clock and changing his clothes in a great hurry.

Mrs. McCarthy left her home on the South Side Wednesday afterneon and went to Connellion to care for her deputing many and the street of the daughter. The latter was feeling good yesterday morning with the prospect of being able to be around in a few days. and it was thought best that the grandmother should take the two little girls back to the South Side with her for a

STARTED FOR SCRANTON. Accordingly the old lady dressed the children up after breakfast and got them ready for their journey. Just as they were ready to start out the chil-dren kissed their mother and their baby ister and their brother, Terence, who is the only other one of the family. He is about 6 years old. They were immensely delighted to visit Scranton.

From the house of Mrs. McCarthy first brought them to the store across first brought them to the store across the river, and after making some purchases, which she sent home with a neighboring woman, they turned in the direction of Moosic to reach the street car track. For one of her age she was exceptionally spry and active and she had no misgivings about taking the two children out, nor was her daughter disturbed about letting them go with her. From the Lawrence store they went turbed about letting them go with her.

From the Lawrence store they went up the back road as far as the wagen bridge, which crosses the river at the Lackawanna station. Then they cut across the field until they came to the branch of the Erie and Wyoming Valley railroad running up to the Old Forge colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal company. The path leading through the field brings one to a row of stone steps running up the embankment to the railroad. And after getting on the railroad, about ten steps brings you to the bridge crossing the river.

At this point the stream is wider and deeper than in a majority of places

ENGINE STRUCK HER. The woman picked the younger child up in her arms and was carrying her across the bridge, leading the other one by the hand. They had reached the middle of the bridge when an engine and tender came along behind them. The noise at once attracted her atten-tion. Realizing her peril she made a heroic effort to grab up the other child and step to one side out of the way, but there is no room on the bridge to get out of the way in an emergency of this kind, and the engine struck her and sent her down into the river carry-ing the two children along.

It is 30 feet from the bridge to the

It is 30 feet from the bridge to the water and when the three went down they were seen no more. The engineer, who is Andrew J. Decker. of Dunmore, saw them on the bridge, but not in time to stop the engine and prevent the accident, and he saw them knocked off the bridge and strike the water. He only took his eyes off them long enough to shut off steam and put on the air brake, but when he looked again they were nowhere to se seen and the river swept on as before.

The bridge is not one for public travel, although it is used extensively. It cuts off a long way round for one goling from Moosic over to Lackawanna. After getting off the Pitiston street car

After getting off the Pitiston street car at Butler's corner in Moosic the traveler usually chooses the route along the railroad over this bridge rather than go around the Bend.

SEARCHING FOR THE BODIES. The accident happened at about 11.40 and in an hour the bridge and along the river for a great distance were lined with people. Men traveled up and down the banks until if got dark to see if any trace of the bodies could be found, but their search was not rewarded and the probability is that it may be a long time before they are recovered. The rains of this and last week have swollen the river to a high point, and the current is strong and rough. The river dashes over rocks and it will be days before its seething settles.

Mrs. McCarthy is survived only by her husband and daughter. She was a devout member of Rev. Father Meiley's parish and was highly respected among her neighbors. Mr. Klink, the grief stricken father, is between two sorrows, the one, the loss of his children accen-tuated by the fact that the bodies are yet undiscovered, and the other the dread and fear that the news will in some way reach his wife before she ought to hear it and that it will kill

SEHMO MURDER CASE HEARD.

It Was Heard by the Grand Jury at Lesterday's Session.

The only case of any great importance heard by the grand jury yesterday was that against Andrew Pallyo, who s charged with the murder of Andrew Sehmo at Dunmore a few weeks ago. The murder was the result of a drunken brawl and the presumption is that Seh-mo was hit on the head by a blunt in-strument in the hands of Pallyo. It is expected that the jury will com-plete its labors today and present its final report to court, in which recom-mendations will be made concerning the bridge petitions that have been considered during the week.

URAEMIC POISONING CAUSED HER DEATH

So Says the Coroner's Jury in the Kelly Case.

HUSBAND RELEASED FROM CUSTODY

Witness at Inquest Could Give No Direct Evidence of a Quarrel but Several Testified to Statements Made by Mrs. Kellevs-Dr. Haggerty Ascribed Death to Injuries Kelley is Accused of Inflicting.

Despite the very palpable evidences of criminal neglect and shameful abuse the coroner's jury last night exonerated Michael A. Kelley for the death of his wife which occurred Thursday after-noon at 5 o'clock under such suspicious circumstances, as told in yesterday's Tribune.

Deputy Coroner E. M. Pennypacker

Deputy Coroner in the Brick Row, on went to the house in the Brick Row, on Pittston avenue, yesterday morning and impannelled a Jury consisting of Dr. W. E. Keller, Louis Neuls, O. M. Custard, Charles Helm, John H. Flack, and Thomas Cain and after performing a post mortem exoneration adjourned the inquest until 8 o'clock p. m. in the arbitration room of the court house

At re-adjournment there was a large attendance, many besides the witnesses being there out of curiosity. Chief of Police Robling sat beside Dr. Pennypacker and directed the prosecution. James Cullen, a brother-in-law of the dead woman was the first witness called. He knew nothing of the quarrell's betwkeen Kelley and his wife, which are alleged to have taken place. which are alleged to have taken place two weeks ago Sunday night and the night before her death.

On election day he went to Kelley's house to induce Kelley to come out to vote and saw Mrs. Keley sitting in a chair mending a pair of boy's breeches She looked as if she was ill and a cut on her face heightened her delicate appearance. The day before she died he again saw her She had a strip of flannel tied over her forehead When he asked her how she came by the cut on her head she said that during the night she had occasion to come down stairs to get a drink of water for one of the children and made a misstep which caused her to fall. Witness was of the opinion that Mrs. Kelley indulged more or less in alcohol. He also saw her on the morning of the day she died. One of the neigh-boring women told him that Mrs. Kel-ley was very low. He went to the house and suggested that a doctor be sent for Kelley said he had sent for one already and so witness departed

MRS. KELLY SEEMED AFRAID. Mary Cullen, a sister of the previous wary curien, a sixer of the previous witness, testified that she went to Mrs. Kelly's house. Wednesday at noon, and found her getting her husband's din-ner. She complained of pains all over her body and that it was difficult for her to walk. Witness insisted on sending for a doctor, but Mrs. Kelly said she didn't want one as she was ashamed she didn't want one, as she was ashamed to have anyone see her face. The husband was lying on the floor, drunk, at the time and when asked why he didn't send for a doctor repiled that the wife didn't want one. Mrs. Kelly seemed afraid, witness said, to tell how she received the injury on her face and when pressed for an explanation stated that she had fallen down stairs.

Dr. Haggerty testified that he was called to see Mrs. Kelly and arrived at the house at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, two hours previous to the reported time two hours previous to the reported time of her death. Her face was all black and swollen, the abdomen discolored and distended and many bruises were found on her body. She complained of a pain in the stomach and soreness all over, and said she felt as if her lower extremities were paralyzed. When the doctor asked her what was the cause of her injuries she replied that she had been kicked and abused by her husband. He did what he could to relieve her pain and then left, after prescribner pain and then left, after prescrip-ing how she should be cared for. "Do you ascribe her death to the in-juries she received?" was asked by Dr. Pennypacker."

"I do. That is the opinion I formed at the time; but I may have been mistaken," Dr. Haggerty answered.

Mrs. Sophia Durkin, a neighbor, knew nothing of the alleged fights between Kelly and his wife. She knew that Mrs. Kelly was a drinking woman.

Patrick Roche heard that there was covered between Mr. and Mrs. Kelly.

a quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, two weeks ago Sunday night, and again on the night before she died; that he whipped her; that her face was badly done up, and that "she was a show." He, however, had no personal knowledge of any of these things.

WAS BADLY TREATED. Mrs. Elizabeth Schnefef testified that Mrs. Educated testined that she went to Mrs. Kelly's house one week ago Monday in response to Mrs. Kelly's request, and found her in bed suffering terribly. She told witness that her husband had licked her at midthat her husband had licked her at mid-night the night before. She was very low at the time. She had "poor rising —we all could see that," the witness went on to say. She never heard Mrs. Kelly complain of any illness. She heard nothing of the fight until Mrs. Kelly's children called her in the morning to come to see their mother. Wit-ness saw Kelly put her out of the house several times, but not recently. Mrs. Kelly was a good, steady woman until about two years ago, when she took to drink. Mrs. Patrick Kennely, who lives next door to the Kelly home, heard nothing of the fights except what the neighbors of the fights except what the neighbors told her. Kelly and his wife got along pretty well as far as she knew. Witness was with Mrs. Kelly just before death came. Mrs. Kelly said to her, according to her testimony: "Grog caused this. If I ever get well I'll never taste it again," This was about an hour and a half before she died.
