The Opinions of Congressman Henry H. · Bingham.

NO HOPE FROM COMING SESSION

Measures for the Relief of the Financial World Will Probably Be Postponed Until the Meeting of the Fifty-fifth Congress-- Hanna as a Cabinet Possibility.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Hon, Henry H. Bingham, representing the First Congregational district in Pennsyl-vania, responding to an interview on matters likely to engage the attention of the next and forthcoming session of congress, expressed the opinion that financial legislation must run over un-til the Fifty-fifth congress. The at-titude of the members elected, said Mr. Bingham, is not known. They are for sound money, but the details covering a change and revision of laws are without limit. The Republicans com-ing into control in the house in the Fifty-fourth congress were compeled to recognize the deficiency and condi-tion of the treasury and to legislate at once for a revenue that would cover the economical expenses and expenditures of the government.

The Dingley emergency bill, as a temporary expedient was passed, said Mr. Bingham. It is now in the senate and it is mere guess work to proclaim its disposition. The personnel of the senate continues the same for the approch-ing session. There are many features and discriminations in the Dingley bill that will not be incorporated in a distinctive Republican measure, and many paragraphs that might embarrass legislation in the Fifty-fifth con-gress when the legislation must be considered ab initio. It is also an open question if the president would sign or let the bill become a law without his signature, for it strikes severely many of his well known and pronounced low tariff views. I am in favor of an im-Sale Price, 29c mediate extra session after March

ANCHORIA'S ACCIDENT.

Breaks a Thrust Shaft While at Sea. Repairs Made After Brief Delay. New York, Nov. 18 .- The Anchor line steamer Anchoria Captain Wilson, arrived tonight from Glasgrow and Mo-ville, with 126 cabin and fifty-two steer age passengers. Captain Wilson says that Sunday at 6.14 o'clock in the evening the engines stopped and an ex-amination showed that the thrust shaft was broken. The vessel was then 134 miles east of Sandy Hook, soundings were taken, finding 37 fathoms of water and the anchor was dropped and she soon rode smoothly. The weather being excellent throughout the detention. The cargo and part of the ball-ast was broken out, and when the break was uncovered, the thrust shaft was seen to be broken through. Luckily a duplicate length of shafting was on board, and all hands turned to help the chief engineer, Anthony Thompson, in taking out the broken part and bolting in the new one.

A record was made on the job, as the total delay from the time of the stopping to the starting of the vessel was only 59 hours and twenty minutes. During this time the vessel was lying quietly at anchor. The passengers were not alarmed, as the weather continued fine and there was every indication that the repairs would be completed quickly. The vessel is in as good condition as ever, and will require no additional repairs.

manager for Peter Maher, arrived Pittsburg from New York today. I said that there was no truth in the report that he wold not manage the Irishman. He said that "Buck" Con-nolly would act as Maher's backer and that he, Quinn, would manage Peter's fighting affairs for the present, at least. Maher received $1,900 for his share of Sale Price, 33c the fight with Choynski, and Connolly and Quinn a similar amount to be divided between them Choknski and "Parson" Davies received $1,100 each as their share of the reseipts. The expenses of all the parties concerned were paid. Quinn stated that Maher's next light would be with Steve O'Donnell on Christmas afternoon at Warren Lewis' Greater New York club, Coney Island. Maher will rest for a while, but will be prepared to challenge the winner of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight for the championship. the fight with Choynski, and Connolly championship.

GLASS WORKERS' TROUBLE.

Unable to Come to an Agreement

with Manufacturers. Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 18.—The wage committee on the window glass work-ers' and manufacturers' met here today ers' and manufacturers' met here today to endeavor to arrive at an agreement on the wage rates for the year ending June 30, 1897. The conference was brief. Each side stated its position, which was the same as when the last conference adjourned. The manufacturers asked for a reduction from last year's rates, equal to about 7½ per cent., and the workers asked for an increase over last year's wages of 714 per cent. After some little argument the meeting adjourned until tomorrow. The manu-facturers say they don't care if their factories are not started until next February. The workers are apparent-ly determined to hold out for what they ask. It is believed an agreement will be reached at tomorrow's meeting and about all the factories will be running in about ten days hence. Simon Burns was re-elected president of the Window Glass Workers' association and Joseph Cray treasurer.

M'KINLEY'S QUIET DAY. But Few Callers Yesterday .- Mrs.

McKinley's Health Improving. Canton, O., Nov. 18.—Not since his nomination for the presidency by the St. Louis convention has Major McKinley had as much time as he could call his own as he had today. There were but few callers, and they occupied only a small portion of his time. Even the latter carrier seemed disposed to afford. letter carrier seemed disposed to afford relief to the president-elect, and the great mass of correspondence that has been daily delivered at the McKinley residence was today reduced to not more than a couple hundred letters. Mrs. McKinley is rapidly regaining her health, and appears to be much stronger than at any time during the past two months.

JEWISH WOMEN MEET.

Interesting Convention Held in New York City---Address by Dr. Morais, of Philadelphia.

New York, Nov. 18,—At the conven-tion of the Jewish women today the motto "Faith and Humanity" was adopted as the most suitable one to be inscribed on the badges. The report of the committee on constitution was read by Mrs. Pauline Rosenberg, of Philadelphia. It sugested some changes in the constitution, chiefly in connec-tion with the duties of officers. Some of the delegates objected to the word "national" in the title of the organ-ization and the word was dropped, and the name of the organization changed into "Council of Jewish Women." It was also voted to amend the constitution so as to allow the election of two

Another amendment was offered, suggesting that a vice-president for each state, territory and foreign country be nominated. Mrs. Desola, of Montreal, protested against the words "foreign country," and a delegate in the rear of the hall cried out: "Canada will soon be with us." This was greeted with applause.

Finally the words "foreign country" were omitted, and "any other country where an organization exists" was substituted. Rev. Dr. Morais, of Philadelphia, was introduced and addressed the convention at some length on "Judaism." He said:

said:

I had entertained a disparaging conception regarding my sisters in the faith in the far west. I had thought they were so derelict in the observance of religion that their homes would cease to be recognized as Jewish and their children cease to be Jews. I was assured, however, by correspondents and by word of mouth that they are again in line fighting with spiritual weapons for Judaism. I beg of you to stand for your religion, and in order to stand you must understand what it is. Going to the synagogue is not to be Going to the synagogue is not to be a Jew; you must go to the source, the liv-ing fountain—the bible.

Dr. Morais condemned what he alluded to as the "higher criticism of the Bible, which," he said, "was doing great deal of harm."

"I beg of you, my dear sisters," he continued, "to study the Bible and not to be biased by any one and judge with your own minds." Dr. Morais' address was received with applause.

There was quite a duscussion about the article of the constitution defining the objects of the council, some claim-ing that the promotion of Judaism was not sufficiently brought out. This dif-ficulty was removed by making the article read: "The purposes of this organization are to serve the best in-terests of Judaism, and to bring about closer relations among Jewish woman."

The election of officers will occur tomorrow, and judging from the talk of some of the delegates this afternoon, it is likely to be a hot fight. Mrs. Ruskey, of New York, said New York was not represented on the nominat-ing committee, and Miss American, the secretary, replied that New York had but 386 paid members, which was much less than the membership of many other sections. The New York delegates are, it is said, determined that some of the national officers shall be selected from New York, at present all the officers are from Chicago.

The evening session was held at the Temple Bethel, Seventy-fifth street and Temple Bethel, Seventy-fifth street and This was the first time Fifth avenue. This was the first time any of the meetings has been held in a synagogue. Mrs. Hannah Solomon pre-sided. The first paper on "Circle Study," was read by Miss Elizabeth Hirschfield, of Buffalo. Mrs. Henrietta Fronk, of Chicago, read a paper on "Our Opportunities." "Mission Schools as an End and a Means" was the subject of a paper read by Mrs. Henry Hann, of Philadelphia. In part she said:

"Hampered by adverse circumstances attendant on the minority, the religious training of our children is difficult, but now much more so in our missio

The Merchant Prince Thinks His Presence in the Senate Would Make Things Ensier for the New Administration -- Claims to Possess, Information on the Tariff and Currency Questions Not Found in Books.

New York, Nov. 18.—"I am not with-out employment," said John Wansmak-er today to a reporter in answer to an inquiry regarding his announced candidacy to succeed Senator Don Cameron, "but if the people of Pennsylvania want me to represent them in the national senate I am willing to do so. I am a merchant, not a politician, and I am not seeking particularly after public office, but I have said through the National League of Businessmen in Philadelphia, in response to their message that I consent to be a candidate for United States senator. Yes, there will be other candidates, no doubt. No one has an exclusive patent right on the title of a senatorship, and if several people seek it, all there is left to do is to submit the matter to the commonwealth for decision. That I telegraphed last night to the Philadelphia Businessmen I would do. What others may do, I am not informd. I speak for myself alone. My candidacy is not based on antagonism to any one. If the people want me to go to the senate, well office, but I have said through the Napeople want me to go to the senate, well and good; if they prefer, some one else, why, as I have said, I shall not be with-out employment.

NEEDED BY M'KINLEY. I believe that the time is here when certain well defined practical principles must be applied to our national legismust be applied to our national legislation, if we are to conduct the nation's affairs on as sound a basis as we would run our own individual interests. President McKinley has a difficult task before him. He will need all the aid he can get, particularly in the senate, for his function as president is purely executive. The two questions of tariff and finance are to be me conspicuous problems of the new administration and the conflict between business methods and theories in their solution was not ended by the recent election. I may say that I did not get the information I possess on these subjects from books, but from a long procession of incidents in a mercantile cession of incidents in a mercantile career, running back some years. My belief may not be the correct one, but I am of opinion that such an experience is not without value in the considera-tion of the revenue and financial poliles that must be formulated during the next national administration."
"Is Senator Quay taking any part in the contest over the selection "That inquiry must be made of the senator himself," replied Mr. Wana-maker. "I cannot undertake to speak for him."

DEATH OF E. W. CURRY.

The Direct Result of His Initiation into a Lodge of Elks. Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 18.—E. W. Curry, chairman of the Democratic state committee, died this morning in his room at the Hotel Savoy. His death was the direct result of injuries received by being admitted into a Des Moines ledge of Elks about two months ago. As part of the ceremony he was blindfolded and placed in a chair with an iron seat. Then a lighted lamp under the seat, with the expectation when it got too hot he would get up. But he der the seat, with the expectation when it got too hot he would get up. But he sat still until he was badly burned. His trousers were burned away and the flesh fearfully scorched. He was put in new clothes and did not realize at the time that the injuries were serious. In a few days blood poison set in and he grew worse steadily. It was his desire that the real cause of his injuries should not be made public, and anshould not be made public, and an-other cause was assigned for the ill-ness, the truth only becoming public toness, the truth only becoming public to-day. An evening paper published a highly sensational story that the in-juries were caused by placing him, in the process of the initiation ceremony, in an electrical chair and turning on a current which burned him badly, but this is denied by the Elks.

GREAT FLOODS IN WASHINGTON

The Residents of Seattle Flee to the Mountains.

THE EXPERIENCE OF PROSPECTORS

They Lash Themselves to Trees While the Snow Slides Down the Mountains -- One Man Becomes Raving Maniac by Reason of the Suffering Endured -- A Train Stalled

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 13.—Residents of Seattle and vicinity who by reason of the floods and snow have been virtually prisoners in the Fastness of the Casade mountains since Friday last, are coming in, some on gravel trains, some afoot and others by boat. They tell harrowing tales of suffering, devastation and destruction. The situation as described in the dispatches from day to day has not been exaggerated in the least, if indeed, the fury of the storm has been fully portrayed. There has been human suffering, and no doubt many miners and prospectors in the Cascades have been either drowned or have met death from snow slides. Four prospectors, headed by Joseph Nicholson, arrived this afternoon. One of the men is a raving maniac by resson of the suffering and hardships en son of the suffering and hardships en-dured in their effort to get out of the mountains. Saturday night to prevent being swept down the mountains by snow slides they lashed themselves to trees where they remained in the drenching rain for six or eight hours. Meanwhile great boulders of earth and huge sections of snow kept sliding down into the converse and sulches below into the canyons and gulches below. Trees were torn up by the roots and carried away by the avalanche and the noise was horrifying. At day break on Sunday the prospectors tore away the lashings and began their per-ilous journey out of the mountains. They followed Gold Creek to Lake Keeschler, tramping through snow. Keeschier, tramping through snow four and five feet deep, crossing small streams on logs, finally finding their way to the point where the Northern Pacific crosses the Cascades and thence they proceeded down the railroad track to this city. They were three days walking thirty-five miles, crossing small streams by means of driftwood and the larger ones in row boats. They report that the great Northern west bound overland passenger train with

A TRAIN STALLED. When last heard from twelve first-class passengers on the train were be-ing supplied with half rations from the dining car, while the day coach and second class passengers, including twenty-four Chinese, managed to procure scant food supplies from Welling-ton. The gentlemen giving this infor-mation say that there are ten wash-outs on the Great Northern between Index and Sultana, a distance of four-teen miles; that on the upper falls of the Skohomoish river two bridge are gone, together with 1,200 feet of track. When the flood was at its height, the Great Northern line between Monroe and Skohomish, a distance of seven miles, was inundated to a depth of from 6 to 15 feet. Todays advices, however, are to the effect that the waters of all rivers have receded except at Skohomish. In the flats and bottoms water covered thousands of acres of rich farm land, leaving nothing but wreck and ruin behind. The Great Northern is making no attempt to run trains, say on the coast line north to Standwood Large forces of men are now at work on the coast and main line, but there is little prospect of early resumption of traffic. On Sunday night three min-utes after the Northern Pacific passen-ger train from Portland had passed Ainslee, half a mile of track and roadbed near that place slid into the Cow-litz river. The eastern mails due here Saturday and Sunday were received to-day, but there has been none from San Francisco and the south since last Friday night.
