Kinsley Hearing Still "Drags Its Slow Length Along."
SOME WITNESSES WERE ABSENT
But There Were Some Present and They Told Scraps of Conversation Which They Alleged They Heard. Fight Over the Admittance of Testimony and the Usual Wrangle Over the Scope of the Investigation.

Non-attending witnesses again made the conclusion of the Kinsley investigation an indefinite quantity. It was hoped to finish up the Sunday World side of the case last night, but the failure of two or three witnesses to answer the subpoena precluded the possibility of this.

As has happened every night so far, there was a wrangle over the scope of the inquiry. Last night it arose over the introduction of the testimony of Thomas Jones. Mr. Newcomb started out by asking the witness if he had ever heard Emmet Peet say anything about the ownership of the team belonging to Jones. Mr. Jones objected on the grounds that Peet himself had been on the stand and was as far as known a competent witness. Peet's declaration should not come second-hand.

Mr. Newcomb stated it was his intention to show by the witness that Peet had not told the whole truth. Mr. Watson raised a second objection that this would be an infringement of one of the best established rules of evidence, that is, a party cannot discredit the testimony of his own witness. Mr. Newcomb refused to pull the witness out of the investigation; that it is not a trial, and that he was not there as a prosecutor or the representative of Peet, but simply as a representative of the World people, who, through the graciousness of the mayor, had been permitted to have counsel present on either side.

Mr. Jones, in his charge, made a foundation in fact. There is no such thing as "one's own witness" in such proceedings. Mr. Newcomb continued.

After a long and somewhat fruitless effort of the committee the mayor directed Hennigan to answer the question.

WHAT HENNING HEARD.

Hennigan had two conversations with Peet during September. Peet's horse ran away one night on West Lackawanna avenue and Peet was caught and brought back Peet said: "The old man will give me Sam Hill for breaking this horse." Another night Peet refused to pull the whole length of the street-washing hose up a hill because he said Mr. Kinsley wouldn't want him to use his (Mr. Kinsley's) horses that way. By "the man" was meant Mr. Kinsley, who was thus dubbed by the street commissioner's gang, the witness said.

HE DROVE THE ANIMAL FROM BINGHAMTON TO THIS CITY—WANTED TO PART WITH THE OUTFIT FOR $18.

About 9 o'clock last night a smooth faced, well dressed young man, 22 years old or thereabouts, walked into the office of the Scranton Parcel Delivery company, Lackawanna and Wyoming avenues, and desired information from the manager, H. V. O'Malley, about whether or not there was a successful horse in the city yesterday. He said he had a horse he wanted to sell cheap.

Mr. O'Malley told him that the horse auctioneer is to hold the horse this week, and when he learned that he wanted to sell the horse the worst way to Mr. O'Malley. He was so persistent that he got O'Malley to let him see the horse's stable to look at the animal.

The stable was in a lather of sweat and had evidently been driven a long distance. It looked to be in good shape, a well shaped sorrel, and the carriage was a good one. So was the harness. The carriage has a rubber top and had a red running gear.

Mr. O'Malley told him the entire outfit for $20 and reduced his price to $18. The reason he was willing to part with such valuable property for a trifle he explained by saying that he had bought it from a place to place selling carriage oil and was in the habit of selling his horse every fall. He had not had a successful horse in the city yesterday. He was anxious to get enough to bring him back home to Boston.

Mr. O'Malley told him to be around the office in the morning, and he went to get a policeman. The first officer he met was Patrolman Lona Day, and they walked on a block and met Lieutenant John Davis. Within three or four minutes the stable, the young man was seated outside on the steps and he was placed under arrest.

He is now in the central police station in the bugger wagon, and a bag marked Binghamton, and when the officers charged him with the theft, he broke down and acknowledged it. He refused to give a name, saying that if he was going to suffer his folks would be none the wiser and he would not have them share his disgrace.

He admitted that the outfit at a livery near the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western station in Binghamton yesterday morning and drove it to the city, where he was yesterday to feed the horse so that it could make the journey.

"COAR DIDN'T DIVVY."

Thomas Coar, of 229 Emmet street, was also on the stand and worked for different times during the past two weeks. He kept no account of the periods he worked on the city streets. He is the driver of a team of the street commissioner's department, but denied that he ever paid Perigo money for employment. He denied that he ever told Dr. Beady or Frank Mann that he got work from Perigo and "divvied" up with Perigo. He admitted having worked on the grounds of the Country club last October, but could not give the number of days. He had a talk with George Perigo yesterday morning. To Mr. Newcomb's question as to how poor memory dates from this talk with Mr. Perigo? he answered "It certainly does." Mr. Burns, however, in cross-examination, elicited the fact that the witness did not understand Mr. Newcomb's question.

Mr. Newcomb said he had ransacked the directories and assessment books, but could find no such person as Eugene Rinehart, whom Harry Kinsley mentioned as one of his drivers. Street Commissioner Kinsley, in reply to Mr. Newcomb's inquiry, answered that Rinehart was still about the city and had been seen this week. To the best of Mr. Kinsley's opinion, Rinehart is not living in some lively street hereabouts.

BETCHER WAS RECALLED.

Jacob Betcher was recalled, in answer to Mr. Newcomb's question as to whether or not he was positive he never drove a team for the city prior to Sept. 5, 1895, said he might have helped a driver or taken the place of one who would be taken sick. He could not tell positively whether or not he drove a team prior to Sept. 5, 1895. He might have driven one of Kinsley's teams in October, 1895, for a day or two, but not more than that. He could not remember whether or not he drove a team in November, December or any succeeding month. His memory, he said, was not good. He did not talk with Perigo or Kinsley or anybody else about the investigation since it began.

Mr. Newcomb at this juncture announced that owing to the non-attendance of James Ryan and one or two other witnesses, he could proceed no further. He asked for an attachment for Ryan, saying that it had come to his ears that Ryan had stated that he "would be d— if he would go there and testify against Kinsley."

The committee met in the private office of the city clerk. Proposals were presented as follows for building a wagon patterned after those of the Brooklyn fire department for Chief Hickey: A. R. Gould & Sons, $200, year guarantee, lamp and all equipments and furnishings; William Blume

PROSPECTS CASE UNSETTLED.

Permanent Fireman Prospects, late of the Brooklyn company, who has been suspended by Mayor Bailey, will continue to draw pay indefinitely from the city if last night's secret meeting of the fire department committee of select council is any criterion. The committee intended considering the Prospects case along with discussing the matter.

It was claimed by the committee that the mayor was to have presented in writing the specific charges which led to the suspension and the mayor's recommendation that he be dismissed. The charges were not presented either in writing or verbally, and it is not likely that the report of the committee to council tonight will contain any reference to the matter.

COLORED BOY SHOT WITH A MUSKET

His Legs Were Riddled So That One of Them Had to Be Amputated.

GUN WAS FIRED BY A COMPANION

Injured Boy Is Son of Head Waiter Marshall at the Wyoming House. The One Who Shot Him Is a Boot-black at the Westminster—They Were Going Hunting--It Occurred on West Lackawanna Avenue.

Baxter Marshall, colored, the 19-year-old son of Randall A. Marshall, head waiter at the Wyoming house, was shot in the legs at 3 o'clock yesterday morning on West Lackawanna avenue at the intersection of Seventh street, by John Morgan, another colored boy, a year or six junior. The shot was from an old musket loaded with large buckshot, and it pulverized the knee bone of the right leg so that amputation had to be performed. A inch above the joint the charge entered the other leg, but it lacerated the flesh very seriously and the operation in removing the grains from the flesh was painful and tedious.

From all accounts the wounding was accidental, but as quick as the gun went off and Marshall dropped bleeding and fainting on the sidewalk, Morgan took to his heels up Seventh street toward Robinson's brewery, and over the Love road until he came to Carbon street bridge, where he crossed onto the Delaware and Hudson tracks. A freight train happened to be passing and he boarded it for Carbondale.

Chief of Police McDonald of that city, arrested him in the railroad yard there at noon and locked him up. A telephone message was sent to Chief Robbing to get to the city at 2:30 train, brought him down at 4:30, and took him before Alderman Miller for a hearing. He was charged with the felonious wounding of Marshall.

HORSE THEFT ARRESTED.

He Drove the Animal from Binghamton to This City—Wanted to Part with the Outfit for $18.

About 9 o'clock last night a smooth faced, well dressed young man, 22 years old or thereabouts, walked into the office of the Scranton Parcel Delivery company, Lackawanna and Wyoming avenues, and desired information from the manager, H. V. O'Malley, about whether or not there was a successful horse in the city yesterday. He said he had a horse he wanted to sell cheap.

STORY OF MORGAN.

Alderman Miller put him under oath and asked him to tell him the story of the shooting. He said that he and the wounded young man were chums and they started yesterday morning on a hunting trip to the mountains. They were with them army muskets and both were loaded. They were walking across West Lackawanna avenue, intending to go to the woods to the right of the road yard. Marshall was walking a few steps ahead of him and was eating an apple.

Morgan asked him for a piece of it and Morgan refused. He made a spring forward to snatch the apple from Marshall's hand, and as he was doing so the trigger of the gun caught in his coat and exploded. The barrel was pointed at the other's legs. As soon as he saw what he had done, he was so overcome with fear that he ran away as fast as he could.

The alderman asked him why he ran away if he had not meant to do the shooting, and he repeated that it was accidental. As to the whereabouts of the gun he said he is a bootblack and works at the Westminster. He came here from Toronto, Can., five years ago and has not been in the city since.

CAPTURED AT CARBONDALE.

Chief Robbing yesterday was notified of a shooting on West Lackawanna avenue. He started out at once to run the one that did it. Officers were sent in various directions to hunt the man and they tracked him as far as the Delaware and Hudson railroad. The chief sent a message to Chief McDonald to get on the lookout for a colored man, and at noon the Carbondale chief sent down word that the man was in custody here. Chief Robbing went up and got him. The alderman committed Morgan to the county jail in default of $500 bail.

The wounded youth made a statement at the hospital in which he gave as his opinion that the shooting was accidental. After he fell some West Side citizens who were riding on the rear platform of a car, got off at the station and a handkerchief around his thighs to staunch the flow of blood. The Lackawanna ambulance was sent for and soon arrived.

His pain during the day was intense. The operation was performed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon by Drs. Connel, Blumhard and McGrath. The report from them is that he is resting comfortably and the chances for his recovery are very good.

SUPERBA AT THE FROTHINGHAM.

Hanon Bros.' Greatest Spectacle Seen There Last Night.

Hanon Brothers have in years gone by brought some beautiful spectacles to this city, but in their new "Superba" last night at the Frothingham they surpassed themselves. They have done in the past to entertain the public. It was a marvel of cleverness, and even the biased individual who had seen that sort of thing over and over again, could not resist the attraction. He declared he was surprised and thereafter gave his undivided attention to the stage.

He tried to describe "Superba" as a wilderness of scenery and the mechanical effects are so perfect and work so cleverly that one is tempted to think that the inanimate things that move about in such mysterious ways are endowed with life. At the close of the second act the ride down from the foot lights in her "airy vessel" on a sea of roses, as the horses bills expresses it. This scene is one of the most beautiful ever presented on a stage in this city by any such attraction.

Besides the scenery and mechanical effects there are several very fetching ballets, vivandises, and other specialties by Miss Francis Hartley, who is also seen in the role of "Superba"; the Schrode Brothers, wonderful acrobats; Blanche Seymour and Lowry Lambert.

"Superba" will be repeated tonight.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH.

Driver Boy McDonnell Seriously Injured in Nay Gay Mine.

A 15-year-old driver boy, named John McDonnell, sustained serious injuries in the Nay Gay mine yesterday afternoon in the Nay Gay mine at Dunmore.

He was riding on a "trip" of loaded cars toward the top of the slope and in passing a row of empty cars his legs were caught and he was pulled from his seat. The space was narrower than his legs and he was forced along for quite a distance between the loaded and empty cars before the cars could be stopped.

One of his legs were fractured and his hips and lower body painfully bruised. He was taken to his parents' home, on Duck street, where he received medical attention.

Chief Robbing yesterday was notified of a shooting on West Lackawanna avenue. He started out at once to run the one that did it. Officers were sent in various directions to hunt the man and they tracked him as far as the Delaware and Hudson railroad. The chief sent a message to Chief McDonald to get on the lookout for a colored man, and at noon the Carbondale chief sent down word that the man was in custody here. Chief Robbing went up and got him. The alderman committed Morgan to the county jail in default of $500 bail.

The wounded youth made a statement at the hospital in which he gave as his opinion that the shooting was accidental. After he fell some West Side citizens who were riding on the rear platform of a car, got off at the station and a handkerchief around his thighs to staunch the flow of blood. The Lackawanna ambulance was sent for and soon arrived.

His pain during the day was intense. The operation was performed at 5 o'clock in the afternoon by Drs. Connel, Blumhard and McGrath. The report from them is that he is resting comfortably and the chances for his recovery are very good.

SUPERBA AT THE FROTHINGHAM.

Hanon Bros.' Greatest Spectacle Seen There Last Night.

Hanon Brothers have in years gone by brought some beautiful spectacles to this city, but in their new "Superba" last night at the Frothingham they surpassed themselves. They have done in the past to entertain the public. It was a marvel of cleverness, and even the biased individual who had seen that sort of thing over and over again, could not resist the attraction. He declared he was surprised and thereafter gave his undivided attention to the stage.

He tried to describe "Superba" as a wilderness of scenery and the mechanical effects are so perfect and work so cleverly that one is tempted to think that the inanimate things that move about in such mysterious ways are endowed with life. At the close of the second act the ride down from the foot lights in her "airy vessel" on a sea of roses, as the horses bills expresses it. This scene is one of the most beautiful ever presented on a stage in this city by any such attraction.

Besides the scenery and mechanical effects there are several very fetching ballets, vivandises, and other specialties by Miss Francis Hartley, who is also seen in the role of "Superba"; the Schrode Brothers, wonderful acrobats; Blanche Seymour and Lowry Lambert.

"Superba" will be repeated tonight.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH.

Driver Boy McDonnell Seriously Injured in Nay Gay Mine.

A 15-year-old driver boy, named John McDonnell, sustained serious injuries in the Nay Gay mine yesterday afternoon in the Nay Gay mine at Dunmore.

He was riding on a "trip" of loaded cars toward the top of the slope and in passing a row of empty cars his legs were caught and he was pulled from his seat. The space was narrower than his legs and he was forced along for quite a distance between the loaded and empty cars before the cars could be stopped.

One of his legs were fractured and his hips and lower body painfully bruised. He was taken to his parents' home, on Duck street, where he received medical attention.
