Washington, Nov. 19 .- At the meeting of the national grange, Patrons of Husbandry, today, the report of the committee on resolutions, which was adopted, recommended a stable cur-rency, that United States senators be elected by the people; equal protec-tion for the farmer, pure food legis-lation, free rural mail delivery, and re-ferred to the value of the experimental stations and agricultural colleges; expressed sympathy with Cuba, and stated that the grange would receive with joy the settlement of the vexed ques-tions between England and America. It favored arbitration whenever it can be resorted to without sacrifice of hon-or. It congratulated the grange that political differences and heated contests had made no difference in the fra-ternal feeling of the order, and ended by pledging the united support of the order to the country and the flag. A lengthy report from the commit-

Gentry, the champion harness horse of the world, passed into the hands of Lewis G. Tewkesbury, of this city, for $19,900 at Madison Square Garden tonight. It was $.30 o'clock when the band which was stationed over the main entrance. was stationed over the main entrance of the garden struck up "Hall to the Chief," and Gentry was with difficulty brought through the crowd to the front of the auctioneer's stand. The whole section of the west side of the garden. boxes and reserved seats, were as full as they could hold, while inside the ring and on the miniature track the throng of people were pushing and fall-ing over each other in their efforts to get a good glimpse of the pacing king. Thirty-five hundred was a low esti-

Thirty-five hundred was a low estimate of the number present.

When the horse was fairly in front of Auctioneer Ban, of Lexington, Ky., who sold him here last February, when William Simpson was the purchaser at $7,600, the band ceased playing. It was not, however, until the assistance of the police was called that space was made barely sufficient to allow the made barely sufficient to allow the horse to move around. A cheer went up from the crowd, and in a few well chosen words the auctioneer called for bids for the champion harness horse of three heats ever accomplished, 2.03, 2.03¼, 2.03¼; had lowered the harness record to 2.01½, and to crown his glory and indelibly stamp himself lord and king of the turf, had covered a mile against time in 2.00½, a second faster than any other horse ever accomplished the distance in harness. Bids came in with such rapidity that he auctioneer could scarcely keep track of them. Four, six, eight, ten and eleven thousand dollars were offered from different parts of the house with scarcely breathing time between. But the real battle of bids was to come when the struggle narrowed down to two, Louis W. Wormser and Lewis G. Tewkesbury, both of New York. Mr. Wormser came into the battle at $12,-606, his bid being delivered in a loud, clear voice, and the crowd applauded. Fromptly Mr. Tewkesbury went $500 better. Thus the battle waged between the two with scarcely a moments hesitation up to $16,500, which was Tewkesbury's bid. Then there was a pause, followed by a round of hand pause, follower by a round of hand clapping from the audience who were by this time worked up into a state of excited admiration. The applause greeted Wormsers jump to $18,000. Scarcely had it died away when the other came back at him with his rise of $500. There was another short pause and Wormser shouted $19,500. No reply followed for a moment and then tension could be felt, "What is bid," asked Mr. Tewkesbury.

"19,500," was the reply.

Then I raise it $400. The auctioneer turned to Mr. Wormser expectantly. There was no reply and on the "three" the auctioneer's gavel fell, The gal-lant son of Ashland Wilkes and Dame Wood, who stood, like the thoroughbred he is, the pressure of the crowd and the strains of the band, became the prop-erty of the owner of Robert J., the only horse that had shown himself a dangerous rival to the king, who will in future be his comrade. With Gentry, Robert J., (2,011-2) and Mascot (2.04), Mr. Tewkesbury has a stable of phenomenal greatness. The rest of the horses sold today brought fairly good prices.

Milwaukee was selected as the city in which the next annual reunion in 1897 will be held and a vote of thanks was tendered to the mayor, chambe of commerce and city officials of this city for their invitation.

The date of the reunion will be de-cided upon by the president and local committee. Colonel Fred L. Grant, of New York presented an amendment to the consti-tution admitting to membership the sons of members of the society so soon as they reach the age of 21 years. The resolution will be voted upon at the next annual reunion.

The report of the committee accepting the contract of Carl Rohlsmith, of Chicago to erect a statue of General W. T. Sherman in Washington, was approved. It calls for an equestrian approved. It calls for an equestrian figure of General Sherman and the statue will be erected on a plot of ground nearly opposite the south end of the treasury building at Washington, where the Army of the Tennessee marched in grand review at the close of the war in 1865, and at about the great where Sherman staned and harspot where Sherman stopped, and bar-ing his head watched the army moving from the capitol to the treasury build-

SETTLED ONE QUESTION.

Proceedings of the Knights of Labor Convention.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 19 .- The delegates to the general assembly of the Knights of Labor settled one important question this morning. The question was that of dual membership, and was discussed all the morning. While it does not affect all trades, it affects that of the brewery workingmen, the mem-bers of which generally belong to both the Knights of Labor and the American Federation of Labor.

A year ago the American Federation decided that their members could not belong to other labor organizations, and today the Knights followed suit, so far as the brewers were concerned, and decided that they must withdraw and decided that they must withdraw from either one or the other. The question whether the general assembly shall simply endorse free silver, or insert a free silver plank, in the preamble of the order, was discussed again this afternoon.

At the conclusion of the debate the Knights voted not to put the free coinage of silver plank into their preamble, but adopted the plank as a principle. The idea of putting the plank into the preamble originated with General Master Workman J. R. Sovereign, but the Knights thought that by its being put into the preamble it would debar from the organization all who were not free silverites. The discussion occupied a greater part of two days.

Pittsburg, Nov. 19.-Patrick Cronin, aged 29, now a prisoner in the Western Penitentiary, made a desperate effort this morning while enroute from Eric to Pittsburg to escape from a fast moving train. His unsuccessful attempt cost the life of Thomas McCrea, war-den of the Eric county Jail. At 7 o'clock this morning Warden At a o'clock this morning warden McCrea and Deputy Sheriff J. F. Giebel left Erie on the Cleveland branch of the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railway, with sixteen men and one woman, pris-oners, who had been sentenced to serve terms in the Western Penitentiary in Allegheny City. Among the prisoners was Patrick Cronin, sentenced to serve five years for train robberies. prisoners were nervous and excited almost from the start, causing much anxicty to the officers in charge. All pos-sible precautions had been taken. Cronin was handcuffed to a convict named Shuhart. The latter was noticed to be especially restless and once or twice made movements as if jumping from the car window. He was quited, howthe car window. He was quited, how-ever, when Deputy Giebel presented his revolver and threatened to shoot him. Cronin had, however, been hard at work and had, unnoticed, slipped his handcuff.

when about if miles out of Pittsourg, quicker than a flash, he leaped from the car door, landing in a heap on the tracks. Warden McCrea leaped from the car after him and grappled with him. The train was quickly stopped and Deputy Glebel went to the assist-ance of Warden McCrea. The latter was found unconscious from numerous bruises and cuts and Cronin also seri-ously hurt. They were carried to the train and brought to Allegheny. At the depot an ambulance from the gen-eral hospital was in waiting to convey Warden McCrea to that institution, but he died before the hospital was reached. A patrol wagon conveyed Cronin to the Western penitentiary, where he now lies in the hospital department,

No further trouble was experienced with the other prisoners after the exciting escape from the train. Warden McCrea was married and has a large family residing in Erie.
