WEST SIDE EVENTS.

Insane Man Uncontrollable in the Police Station—Joseph Singers Banquetted.

George Peck, red-haired and thought to be insane, was locked up in the West Side police station at 10:25 o'clock last night by Officer Lowry for disorderly actions in the saloon at 10th and Marshall and White on West Lackawanna avenue. No sooner had he been placed behind the bars than he began to hammer the iron work with his hands. His fingers were slashed and bled until the flesh was covered with blood. Tiring of this Peck sat on the bunk and began an insane harangue which his feet on the sheet iron which divides the cell.

The noise could be heard two blocks away. Lieutenant Williams and Police Officer Zank forthwith took out the shoes of the insane man, thinking that this would stop the feet rattle. But Peck knew no pain. He hammered the sheet iron until his hands were almost swollen. He continued this until long after midnight and when he did stop it was from pure physical collapse. Peck is a young man about 25 years of age. He seems to talk with delirium and makes use in part of the deaf and dumb language. He is from over the mountain.

CANTATA SINGERS BANQUET.

So successful from artistic and financial standpoints was the recent performance of the cantata Joseph at the Jackson Street Baptist church that the participants in the production were last evening given a complimentary banquet in the church, given by the choir which directed the cantata. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. David Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. A. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. George Widdick, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bowen, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. James Prothrope, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Davis, Miss Sarah Lewis, Winifred Harris, Viola Evans, Mary E. Nichols, Martha Hitchings, Cassie Bowen, Gertrude Thomas, Sarah Davis, Gwen Davis, Mae Samant, Margaret Thomas, Norma B. Nichols, Alice Thomas, Anna Williams, Lizzie Lake, Margaret Morgan, Mattie Thomas, Lizzie Haggard, Helen Harris, Hattie Reynolds, Cassie Harris, Olivia Bowen, Anna Lewis, Rhoda L. Thomas, Alice Jones, Via Jones, Edith Davis, Anna Davis, Margaret Jones, Norma Williams, Ann Jones, Elizabeth Price, Mary A. Morgan, Rachel Roberts, Jennina Roderick, Belle House, Margaret E. Edwards, Jennie Davis, Albert Davis, W. Byron, Edna H. Moore, David Davis, Morris Thomas, William Lewis, Roy Williams, B. J. Griffiths, Charles Holly, William G. Thomas, George Nichols, Jenkin Jenkins, Benjamin G. Jenkins, David Gibbs, John Reese James, Robert Owen, Edward Watkins, Will Davis, Thomas Abraham, W. J. Davis, John A. Davis, Olyphant, T. L. Matthews, James E. Griffiths, A. Widdowfield, Olyphant, Ed James, Jr., Mendie Davis, John W. Jones, Edith Davis, H. C. Hank, T. H. Jones, David Phillips, Harry B. Decker, David Davis.

At 9 o'clock the guests retired to the large dining room where the tables had been arranged in a three-sided square with the open side leaving an entrance to the well furnished kitchen of the church. Next linen and silver tableware added to the inviting aspect of the scene. The guests, nearly 150 persons, were called to silence from a merry disorder by Richard Nichols, who in a happy mood introduced E. B. Griffiths as president of the evening's festivities. Mr. Griffiths' remarks in response were suggestive of the good time just begun. He called for the "sweet songs" from the cantata. This was accompanied by Miss Norma Williams and led by the rising young musician, Lewis Davis, the entire assemblage sang the merry melody. The feasting then began.

Throughout the evening an impromptu programme was carried out. Edwin Bowen was first called upon to sing one of his sweet solo selections. Mr. Bowen responded with a solo part from "Joseph," in which he essayed the title role. John W. Jones sang a solo in his fine bass voice. "The Water of Life" was introduced. G. A. Williams, Martin O'Malley and Emerson D. Owen were asked to say something for the press. Messrs. Williams and O'Malley responded with thanks for the courtesy extended, while Mr. Owen recited a humorous piece. Richard Nichols paid tribute to "The gifts of the cantata." Miss Norma, who accompanied the cantata, spoke a few complimentary

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

[Under this heading short letters of interest will be published when accompanied, for publication, by the writer's name. Tribuna will not be held responsible for opinions here expressed.]

An Appeal for Aid.

Sir—As I am appointed by the president of the Lutheran conference, Rev. L. Lindquist, to visit the Polish miners of this town (Mazurek) the Gospel in their own language, to bring them, by teaching in their own tongue, to higher standards of culture, and make them familiar with our habits, so I will do my best in this line. Still I cannot perform my work efficiently without sympathy and help of Christian fellow-citizens. The members of the mentioned German-Silesian congregation of Providence, consists mostly of coal miners who have better homes for themselves but a house for public worship of God. They are poor, but they have an immortal soul and can be transformed in their hearts into a new man, if only an organ to lead the songs in the service and to teach them to sing in the choir.

May God bless the reader that my heartfelt-submitted appeal may not be in vain. Yours in the Lord, John Kowala, 210 North avenue.

AMUSEMENTS.

This evening brings to the Frothingham that charming actress Margaret Fuller, who so cleverly captured a Scranton audience on a former occasion this season. Miss Fuller, while scarcely more than a girl in years, is possessed of high ideals and overwhelming ambition, and adding to these the uniform excellence of her acting and really remarkable beauty, she is sure to push herself to the front. Miss Fuller does not come of theatrical stock, the only member of her family upon the stage being the daughter of her great uncle, the late Justice Fuller of the supreme court. At her second engagement in the city tonight Miss Fuller will offer "The Princess of Bagdad" the vehicle that carried the Italian actress, Eleonora Duse, to fame, for it was while playing the "Princess of Bagdad" at Venice that Duse, overcome by her superb acting, changed the end for her and in the profane ears of the last edition of his plays, regretted that this "unrivalled" actress was not French.

Rumor says that John Philip Sousa and Charles Klein's new comic opera "El-Capitan," has scored a great success in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Boston, and other large cities, and that it is nightly testing in the capacity of the largest theaters wherever presented. The production from all accounts is of high class and of the stage settings, costumes, draperies and effects are the finest seen in comic opera for years. The music is just the kind and of the highest quality. Mr. Sousa would be expected to write, as it is lively, rippling, and melodious, and a major portion of it is written in march tempo, which is just the kind of music for the unique position among modern comic operas, for the graceful, undulating waltz movement so prevalent in recent comic opera productions, has almost if not entirely ignored in favor of the sprightly, inspiring two step, and it is said that "El-Capitan's" score is blithful of this character of melody and the kind that is apt to set the feet in rapid and spirited motion. Mr. Hopper as "El-Capitan," has never been given such splendid chances heretofore by author or composer, and the many who witnessed his initial presentation of this character in the large cities, and who have seen him in former roles, assert that he not only found a part that admirably fits his mimetic talents but also that he secured another great winner. "El-Capitan" will be given its premier performance at the city on tomorrow evening at the Frothingham.

BASKET BALL.
