Select council had a wrestling match last night with the case of William T. Sproats, the deposed permanent man of the Franklin Fire Engine company, and after a close fight the result was in favor of the removal of Sproats by Mayor Balley. Councilman Wagner was in the chair in Colonel Sanderson's absence. On November 19 the mayor submitted

On November 19 the mayor submitted to the fire department committee of councils charges against Mr. Sproats of sufficient nature in the mayor's judgment to cause his removal. The charges consisted of continued absence from duty, abuse of his horses, insubordination, and his own admission that there could never be harmony in the company while he is a member.

Under the head of reports of committees last night, Mr. Fellows presented a report from the fire department committee bearing upon the case ment committee bearing upon the case

AGREES WITH THE MAYOR. AGREES WITH THE MAYOR.

Your committee on fire department to whom was referred the communication of the mayor in regard to the removal of William T. Sproats, permanent man for cause, beg leave to report that we have investigated the charges preferred against Mr. Sproats and believe them to be true. We also believe that it would be a detriment to the Franklin Engine company and a tendency to create disorder and confusion in the department to retain him as permanent man for said Franklin company. We therefore recommend the approval of the mayor's action in removing said Sproats and that said removal date from the approval of this report. Signed, H. T. Fellows, Edwin Frable and W. M. Finn.

In the matter of investigating charges against William T. Sproats for direliction of duty as permanent man of the Franklin Engline company, we respectfully report that after having heard the allegations and evidence we find nothing therein that would warrant the removal of Mr. Sproats. We believe that he is efficient and willing in the performance of his duty and that there is no reason whatever for his removal. We therefore recommend that he be retained in said position as permanent man and that the mayor be requested to reinstate him. Signed, Fred Durr and M. J. Burns.

A WOMAN'S PAPER.

Binghamton Ladies to Show Editors How the Thing Is Done.

The ladies of Binghamton are just arranging to issue an edition of the Binghamton Daily Republican in the second week in December in the interest of the Commercial Travelers' Home Association of America, the entire proceeds to be applied toward completing the home now in process of construction. They desire that this paper shall find a large circulation in the city of Scranton and are seeking advertisements from here.

The expected circulation in Binghamton and surrounding towns is not less than 100,000 and the paper will be given as a souvenir from the "Home City" booth at the Commercial Travelers' fair, to be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, Dec. 15 to 26 inclusive. IN THE MARKETS. Food Inspector Cullen's report showed that his inspection of food and milk was as follows: Number of milk inspections, 197; meat and fish market inspections, 480; pounds of fish confiscated, 580; pounds of dressed poultry confiscated, 174; of beef, 150; gallons of tub oysters, 30; barrels of shell oysters, 7; one slaughter house nulsance was abated. The general condition of the markets was good and the quality of the milk, with the exception of five cases, which were remedied as soon as the dealers were cautioned, was good.

The renort of H. W. Loftus, superintendent of the crematory, set forth that 1,578 barrels of garbage and 13 dead dogs were reduced to ashes. It required twenty-four tons of coal to keep the fires going.

The report of Secretary Briggs showed that 63 cases of contagious diseases were reported, the births for the month were 151, 81 males and 70 females; 53 marriages and 137 deaths.

HIGH APPROVAL SURELY MERITED

The fourth concert of the Symphony Orchestra society last evening at-tracted to the Frothingham theater an appreciative audience, which found much in the societys work to indicate much in the societys work to indicate broadening, understand and developing capability. The programme which it offered was one that might well have caused less effective interpretation to pass approval; but the society not only carried itself bravely through Mozart's

COUNTY FARMERS' INSTITUTES.

Arrangements Completed for a Series Beginning Next Week.

Lackawanna county farmers' insti-tutes will be held at Clark's Summit, Dec. 7 and 8; at Fleetville, Dec. 8; at Wallsville, Dec. 9; at Tompkinsville, Dec. 9 and 10; at Madisonville, Dec. 10 and 11; and at Bald Mount, Dec. l 12. Lecturers will be present Pennsylvania, Ohlo and New from York.

These meetings are arranged through the concerted action of the Pennsylvania state department of agriculture vania state department of agriculture and the Lackawanna county Agricultural society. The programme contains a long list of speakers who are experts in the branches of which they treat. The day sessions are devoted largely to general agricultural topics—the "Good Roads" movement coming in for a generous share of attention. The evening sessions are largely in the interest of education and country hom

On each programme one of the most important topics and some of the strongest speakers are scheduled for the morning session of the first day. In most cases the dairy interests will be considered at this session, and farmers should make note of this fact or they miss that part of the meeting they most desire to get. Programmes for any of the meetings may be had by applying to J. L. Stone, Waverly, Pa., chairman of the county board of institute managers. On each programme one of the most

The story is pure and thrilling. A young woman (Miss Martha Conway) is the ideal of two hearts—one good, one lad. She loves Philip Northcotte, an artist, and the rejected suitor, a Frenchman, by way of satisfying his revenge kidnaps the girl and locks her in a den of thieves. Her rescue by Philip Northcotte, assisted by a "dude dutchman" and Daisy McMooney is given with much dash and cleverness. There is the murder of the Fench man's wife who has escaped from the mad house and for this the young man Northcotte is accused, but he cludes the officers by jumping from the Brocklyn bridge. All of this requires good scenery and it is furnished, even to two live horses and a police patrol in the last act in the last act.
