Committee of Philadelphia Business League Scores Mr. Quay.

SAY HE OUT-BRYAN'S BRYAN Claims Are Also Made That the Senator Was Not Faithful to the Interests of Major McKinley.

McKinley's Endorsement. Philadelphia, Dec. 10.—The executive committee of the Philadelphia branch of the National League of Business Men...

Not only the members of the various business leagues in this city, but the great mass of business men generally...

One does not have to go very far back, however, to discern the reason for Mr. Quay's course and conduct in this matter...

A REMARKABLE AWAKENING. It is rather remarkable that Mr. Quay should have so suddenly awakened to the evils of "pulling politics."

Mr. Quay's utterance to the startling intelligence that he had not been elected to the office of "business man" enough to serve all legitimate purposes.

It is true that the business men have contributed largely to campaign funds, and in this respect they have been more liberal than for the last several years.

The National League of Business Men is the outgrowth of the McKinley and Hobart Business Men's national campaign committee, which rendered efficient service during the late presidential campaign.
