This evening at the Green Ridge library at $0°clock will be delivered a most interesting lecture on "Prison Life During the War," by Colonel Ezra H. Ripple, of this city. We trust that the attendance will be large, as we feel sure that all will be highly interested in the colonel's description of his experiences while in Andersonville prison. The lecture will be illustrated by colored views, made under the direction of Colonel Ripple. Admission, slaver offering at the door.

This city was recently made the base of operation for a gang of elever swindlers, working a modification of an old-time skin game. They inserted advertisements in the leading papers of distant cities, stating that upon the receipt of $2.50 the Keystone Milling company of Scranton would send a barrel of their new XXXX flour, just to introduce it. How many people sent the $2.50 is not known, but there is flour in return. That some people were caught is proven by the fact that the post-office authorities have received numerous requests from Syracuse asking why the keystone Milling company didn't answer letters addressed to it. The case is now being investigated by United States Marshall John J. Shea and Chief of Police Frank Robling.

DESPERATE ASSAULT ON A PUBLIC STREET

Vincenzo Rossi Used His Knife With Terrible Effect.

JOHN CAPONE WAS HIS VICTIM

The Blow Was Evidently Aimed to Kill but Capone Dodged His Hend in Time to Save His Life .- Sustained a Painful Wound on the Face, However, and Fell Bleeding to the Payement.

John Capone, an Italian baker in the employ of Joseph Cassesse, had a close call from being murdered at 7.39 close call from being murdered at 7.30 last evening at the corner of Penn avenue and Center street. Vincenzo Rossi, an Italian shoemaker, came up behind him made a furious slash of a knife at his throat. The blade cut a deep gash five inches long from Capone's left ear around in semi-circular shape to the corner of the mouth. It cut almost through the flesh of the cheek.

Capone is 25 years old and has a wife and three little children. His old mother makes her home with them. Rossi is about the same age as Capone, but is not married. He lives with his brother, Peter Rossi, who lives in one side and Capone in the other of a double tenement house in Raymond court between Spruce and Linden streets, Rossi's number is 229 and Capone's is 231.

streets, Rossi's number is 25 and a pone's is 231.

After Rossi did the deed he made his escape. The wound was inflicted with a pointed knife used by Rossi in cutting leather, and it was almost as sharp as a razor. He came up with a cat-like spring behind Capone and aimed for the throat but the latter felt the stealthy movement and dodged his head quickly from the blow in time to save his life.

WOUND BLED PROFUSELY. Capone fell flat on the sidewalk and the blood from the wound gushed out and bestrewed the sidewalk as if a half dozen murders had been committed.

Some passersby picked him up and carried him to Harris' drug store. Dr.

Longstreet was sent for and he responded quickly and stopped the flow of blood, then afterward he sewed up from the saloons nearly all day and was drinking it with some companions assembled in Roesl's.

Mrs. Capone crossed his path on one of his trips with the beer pail and he called her a vile name and also threat-ened, she said, to do something to the family before many days. She paid no attention to him and it angered him so that he scowled fiercely. When her husband came home she told him.

CAPONE WAS FOLLOWED. After supper Capone dressed up in his Sunday clothes and started out toward the fruit stand at the Coyne House for a paper of tobacco. As soon as he left the house some one, he said.

The street when he got to the sidewalk on Penn avenue he heard rapid footfalls behind him and some one hissing falls behind him and some one hissing out vile words. This warned him and he turned and dodged his head but he got the blow across the cheek. Capone sank down without a scream, but the deed was witnessed by several people passing at the time and they saw Rossi flee down Center street with oriental rugs and draperles and crockery. It is the one which is taking place at the Oriental Art company, at 207 Wyoming avenue. People who have attended the sales there are wondering at the low prices they have been selling the goods. The sale will continue all this week at 2 and 7.39 p. m. each day.

ANDREW SCHULTIS MAY DIE.

Seriously Injured During a Drunken Brawl at Old Forge.

There was almost a murder in Old Forge between 1 and 2 o'clock yester-day morning and there is no telling but that such may be the result yet as the fruits of a drunken orgie in a Hungar-ian boarding house. Andrew Schultis is the injured man's name. He was resting comfortably last night, and Dr. Adam Stegner, of Rendham, has hopes that he will recover unless some intercurring complication such as brain fever evelopes.

Schultis' nose was pounded almost into a jelly. There was a compound fracture of the bridge of it, and his left eye was injured so that if he recovers he may lose the sight of it. The other eye is closed up and surrounded with contused wounds. There is hardly a square inch of skin on his face that is not blackened and bruised.

of blood, then afterward he sewed up the cut, bandaged the wound and Capone walked home; but when he got home he was very weak and had to go immediately to bed.

A Tribune reporter called at the house at 9.39 and found Capone resting comfortably reading a book. He said that he had been told that Rossi was promised $300 if he would do some serious harm to Capone, Mrs. Capone or Capone's old mother, any one in the family. The money would be paid by Peter Rossi, Vincenzo's brother. There has been bad blood existing between the two families for some time.

The reporter asked Capone what was the cause of it and he said he didn't know, that he never did anything to him to warrant ill feeling. Yesterday, he said, he was at work and when he came home in the evening his wife told him that Rossi had been carrying beer from the saloons nearly all day and was dealed by the woon commanions.
