Great Revival of Interest at the Jackson Street Baptist Church—A Brass Band a Possibility.

Rev. Thomas DeGruchy, who recently entered the pastorate of the Jackson Street Baptist church, has attracted crowded houses since his advent.

The result of Mr. DeGruchy's novel efforts thus far has been to increase the attendance to the services and to revive interest in the church.

"You don't know how fine 'Nearer My God to Thee' sounds when a congregation sings it to the accompaniment of a brass band.

Mr. DeGruchy's former church at Wakefield, R. I., had its own brass band. Since the new minister came to the Jackson Street church he has changed the seating place of the choir from a high gallery, over his head, and behind him, to a place on the pulpit where he stands.

SHE DESERTED HER CHILD. Young Woman Arrested at Pittston for the Inhuman Abandoning of an Infant on the West Mountain.

A male infant child was found near the Diamond reservoir on the West mountain on Thursday, August 20 last, by an Italian and his wife who were out picking huckleberries.

She was arrested yesterday in Pittston, was given a hearing before Alderman Dyer and committed to the county jail, as the offense is not bailable before an alderman.

She admits the charge against her and says that the father of the child was killed in the mines. She thinks, but is not sure of it, that he was one of the victims of the Twin shaft disaster.

The child died at St. Joseph's Foundling home on September 10, and that makes the case against her more serious.

Patrolman Peters brought it to the central police station and Chief Robling turned it over to Mrs. Duggan, who placed it in St. Joseph's Foundling home, subsequently died in that institution.

Chief Robling swore out a warrant for the mother's arrest on August 26 before Alderman Howe and thought he had her located in Pittston, but when he went down there she was gone.

She is a good looking young woman and was well dressed. She is 20 years old. When she gave birth to the child she was employed as a domestic in the family of a man named Cusick living in the 1900 block on Washburn street.
