In Durr's hall on next Wednesday evening the Volunteer Firemen's association will conduct the installation of officers for the ensuing term. Letters testamentary in the estate of Frederick Jane, late of Scranton, were granted Saturday to his daughter, Emma Blackwood and Lizzie K. Zang. The Philadelphia, it is said, are trying to acquire possession of the lake. The coroner's inquest into the death of Willie Bough, who died recently of arsenical poisoning in Rendham, will be held tonight. The report of the analysis of the contents of the boy's stomach will be presented by Chemist Benjamin. A sleeping car has been attached to train No. 11 on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road and its time lessened fifteen minutes between New York and Binghamton. The train will leave at 1:15 a. m.; it now leaves two minutes earlier. The funeral of Owen O'Malley, who died Friday at his home, on South Washington avenue, will take place this morning. A high mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. Peter's cathedral and interment will be made in Hyde Park Catholic cemetery. Harry Swank was arrested Saturday by Constable Yeomans, and arraigned before Alderman Howe. He is charged by John Lamulunas with assault and battery. The evidence of the complainant was considered insufficient and the alderman discharged Swank. Edward Casey was arrested Saturday on a warrant sworn out at the instance of E. Robinson's Sons. The latter charge the prisoner with obtaining goods under false pretences. Before Alderman John T. Howe Saturday afternoon the prisoner was taken to the county jail in default of $500 bail. Clearings for the week ended Jan. 15, 1897, $83,707.35, business increase of $14,669.41. John Hinton, the prisoner whose thumb was painfully crushed on Friday, as detailed in Saturday's Tribune, was arraigned in police court Saturday morning. His arrest was made by Patrolmen Kalrus and Block at the Lackawanna station, where he was found in an intoxicated condition. He was fined $2 by the mayor. There will be a good lecture delivered at the Calvary reformed church, corner Monroe avenue and Thistle street, on Tuesday, Jan. 19, 8 p. m. The subject of the lecture will be "Pompeii" and will be delivered by Professor Hower, of this city. The lecture will be illustrated by lantern slides. The lecture will be for the benefit of the Sunday school library. In order to clearly show the allotted territory of each public school of the city, Superintendent Howell is preparing a map of the city showing the dividing lines between each school district. This map is designed to obviate all disputes as to the proper school views. The lecture will be for the benefit of the Sunday school library. A meeting of the Teachers' Mutual Benefit association was held Saturday afternoon in the city hall. Miss M. J. Chase presided and the association decided to give a musical and literary entertainment in the near future, the financial proceeds of the same to accrue to the teachers' association. During the deliberations it was decided to change the initiation fee of the association from $5 to $3, until July 1, 1897. Treasurer A. Stone reported a balance in the treasury of $200. On Friday evening Hon. M. T. Corcoran, of Cincinnati, O., will deliver a lecture in St. Thomas' college hall on Wyoming avenue under the auspices of John Boyle O'Reilly county Young Men's Institute. Mr. Corcoran's subject will be the "Cloister and Studio." A quartette consisting of the following will sing under the direction of Professor Hower: Evans; Mrs. Frank Brundage, soprano; Miss Margaret Jones, alto; Thomas Heynon, tenor; Richard Thomas, basso. John Gerrity, a miner, had in his employ in Spencer's mine an Italian laborer who was instantly killed by a fall of roof Saturday morning. The miner and laborer had taken a car from the chamber and were about to return to continue operations. Mr. Gerrity lingered behind a few moments, but the laborer entered just in time to be caught in the fall. The dead man came to this city recently from Buffalo, and is survived by a wife and three children. The funeral of little Edna Bull, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Bull, of New York street, who was burned to death Friday morning, as detailed in The Tribune, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral services were conducted at the family residence, which was filled by sympathizing friends and neighbors. Rev. Mr. Dunn, of the Second Presbyterian mission, conducted the ceremony, and interment was made in the Dunmore cemetery. John Boyle O'Reilly council, Young Men's Institute, has vacated the apartments over Collins & Hackett's store, on Lackawanna street, which they occupied for several years, and on Saturday took possession of the entire fourth floor and a portion of the third of the old Traders' National bank building, where Professor Siegel had his dancing academy for so many years. Professor Siegel's academy is now located in the handsome new building at Adams avenue and Linden street. At a meeting of the Ladies' auxiliary of the Union Veterans' union, precinct command, No. 25, Department of Pennsylvania, held last Thursday afternoon the following officers were selected for the ensuing term: President, Mrs. Scull; senior vice-president, Flora McFarland; chaplain, Mrs. Sam Bryant; conductor, Miss C. Adams; guard, Mrs. Davis; secretary, Lou McFarland; treasurer, Mrs. E. Hass; assistant secretary, Mrs. Bortree. The next meeting of the auxiliary will be held in Falter's hall next Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The match at Cheekers, between E. G. Worden, of this city, and Mr. Adams, of Sayre, Pa., to determine the state championship, was declared off by mutual consent. Two of the twelve games in the series have been played with honors even between the contestants. Their reason for this was the match's lack of time. Mr. Worden is very busy preparing a course of lectures, soon to be delivered, while Mr. Adams is deeply engrossed in attention to orders received in his architectural office. Mr. Adams has for many years been considered an authority on the game, but Mr. Worden is pushing him closely in the contest for the championship of the state, which the latter has held for some time.

SAW A FROTHMAN SHOW. The Gay Parisians Entertains Two Audiences at the Frothingham. After a long siege of tanks and fire engines the Parisians were on Saturday afforded the opportunity of seeing a Frothman show. It was "The Gay Parisians" and was given at the Frothingham. It is not the best show that Frothman has on the road but it is a good one. It is his best and is a very interesting and quite as amusing as the other first class comedies of his kind. At times it approaches what prudishly inclined people might consider indecent, but it is very cleverly avoids a too close approach to the dividing line. It is unnecessary to say it was adapted from the French. In the cast are such well known Frothman people as Sadie Martin, W. J. Ferguson, James E. J. Theaters, Charles R. Wells, James O. Barrows and Geraldine de Rhone. J. A. ROBERTSON IS IMPROVED. Has Been Seriously Ill, but There Are Hopes for Recovery. J. Atticus Robertson, of the Insurance firm of Robertson and Hitchcock, who has been critically ill at his home in Green Ridge, is slightly better. Since early last week there had not been up to Friday, much hope for his recovery. On that day, however, there was a perceptible and favorable change in his condition. Thus far there has been no relapse. Double pneumonia, an affection of both lungs, is Mr. Robertson's ailment.

LOCATION OF THE BULLET NOW KNOWN Successful Use of the X-Rays on William Widener by Dr. Longstreet. WAS SHOT THANKSGIVING DAY Since Then One of His Arms Has Been Paralyzed—Location of the Bullet That Was Causing All of the Trouble Was Unknown Until Yesterday Afternoon, When a Photograph Located Its Hiding Place. The most signal of recent discoveries made by science in the mysterious investigation, or X-rays. This peculiar light has already demonstrated that in the practice of medicine and surgery it will become an invaluable factor. Throughout the world there are now hundreds of professional and scientific people who are experimenting with the seemingly magic phenomena. Among them are Dr. S. P. Longstreet and Fred Hummeller, the photographic artist. The results of their works are of local interest. In Dr. Longstreet's office yesterday afternoon an interesting and successful effort was made to locate a bullet, which was lodged in the body of William Widener, who before being disabled by this same bullet was an employee of Schank and Spencer, Spruce street shoe merchants. WIDENER WAS SHOT. Last Thanksgiving day William Widener was accidentally shot by his brother-in-law while they were on a hunting trip in the surrounding hills. Widener was lying on the ground at the time when his companion began examining a revolver they had taken with them. It was the same old story, of "didn't know it was loaded." The bullet, of a thirty-two caliber, passed into Widener just below the left clavicle, at the point indicated on the accompanying reproduction of the X-ray picture by a black dot. Widener was given surgical attention and the wound healed rapidly, though he lost the sense of touch in the left arm. It also refused to move as a well behaved member should. In other words the arm was paralyzed. Weeks rolled past and the arm became more useless. Hearing that Coroner Longstreet was using the X-ray in his surgical work, Widener requested the doctor to search for the bullet, the whereabouts of which was not known. Dr. Longstreet decided on yesterday afternoon as the time to look for the unwelcome piece of lead. At 4 o'clock the apparatus, comprising a minishurst rotating generator of static electricity, a Crookes focusing tube, two condensers and various minor devices were put in use. The voltage attained in the tube was over one million. Among the gentlemen present was Mr. Hummeller's brother, August, a practical electrician of this city, who aided in the manipulation of the apparatus. When Widener was placed on the doctor's operating chair and swung around so that the Crookes tube was over the region where the bullet entered a sheet of specially sensitized bromide paper, enclosed in an air tight holder, was placed under the neck and chest of Widener directly beneath the tube. The controlling lever was swung back and instantly a pale, yellowish light beamed from the tube, which seemed animated with waves and dashes of the peculiar light. Meanwhile between two brass balls a current of static electricity played continuously with incessant clashes, the effect being not unlike lightning which in reality it was. The current was retained for twenty minutes after which it was turned off, and another sheet of the sensitized paper placed under the subject in nearly the same position as the first. This time the current was retained for thirty minutes. The sheets of paper, still in the light proof holders, were then taken to the photographer Hummeller's studio, where they underwent a process of development and toning. When returned to the doctor's office, where the spectators were anxiously waiting, the photographs showed plainly the location of the bullet. The lodging place was a few inches back and above the point where it entered, the spot being indicated on the reproduction of the photograph of the X-ray picture, herewith represented by a white dot. The photograph was entirely successful and the deductions made by Dr. Longstreet upon investigating the photograph are that the ball after entering took an oblique course upward and injured the nerves, brachial plexus, as they are called, which give impulse to the movements of the arm. If these nerves are all severed Widener will never regain the use of his left arm, but if there are only one or two of the four or five branch nerves injured he may reasonably hope to again move his disabled member. The bullet had been associated with Mrs. Stelle in work for the Young Women's Christian association, Home for the Friendless and other public institutions. The rooms were laden with the beauty and fragrance of a great quantity of flowers, remembrances from the associations with which Mrs. Stelle had been identified from near friends. Mrs. Lizzie Humes-Brundage sang "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." The remains were taken to Paterson on the 9:30 Lackawanna train. The pallbearers, all deacons of the Penn avenue church, were L. M. Gatos, M. D., D. A. Capwell, M. D.; B. F. Fillmore, L. M. Horton, Charles Henwood and J. C. Highfield.

THE SPORTING CRAZE. It is a Very Laughable Budget of Nonsensical Fun. Of its kind, "The Sporting Craze" is as good a show as has visited these parts in many a day. It is a whole lot of nonsense cleverly brought together for the sole aim and purpose of making people laugh. It succeeded well in its purpose at the Academy of Music Saturday night, where it was received by a good sized house. In the company are the famous Adamses, George H., the old time Humpty Dumpty, his wife and his very lithe and active daughters. Among the specialties introduced are George Adams' marvellous work on the stills and an exhibition of bag punching by Frank Parsley, who was exceptionally clever at this sort of thing.

NEW PITCHERS SIGNED. Scranton Gets Morse and Proctor from Two Minor Leagues. Two new pitchers for the Scranton club have been signed. They are Morse, of the New England League, and Proctor, of the Virginia league. The men are said to be fast and tried and of the kind that will not necessitate a "trying-out" process. The pitching corps will undoubtedly begin the season as it is at present: Gilton, Harper, Wilmer, Morse and Proctor. Harper is holding out for a bigger salary than Manager Griffin will

LEWIS TOOK LAUDANUM. His Wife and the Physicians Prevented Serious Consequences. Frank Lewis, aged 29 years, of Throop street, took a dose of laudanum Saturday night about 9:30 o'clock with suicidal intent. His wife observed him with the bottle to his lips and snatched it from him. In consequence of this action Lewis succeeded in swallowing but a small portion of the poison and the prompt arrival of a physician prevented any serious consequence. Lewis is one of the best known young men in the North End and has a wife and three children. He had been drinking heavily during the latter part of the week and it is supposed his disipations induced a condition of suicidal mania. FIRST NATIONAL BANK ELECTION. President Linnen, Vice-President Dickson, Cashier Post, Re-elected. The First National bank directors for 1897 organized Saturday morning by re-electing James A. Linnen, president; George L. Dickson, vice-president, and Teano Post, cashier. The bank statements at the close of the year indicated deposits of over $2,200,000, a surplus of $850,000 and $150,764.50 of undivided profits. As much as $650 for the bank's stock has been publicly bid, with no sellers. Traders' Bank Officers. Last year's officers of the Traders' National bank were re-elected at Saturday afternoon's meeting of the board of directors. The officers are: John T. Porter, president; W. W. Watson, vice-president, and Frank L. Phillips, cashier. According to the report of the directors on Dec. 17 there was on deposit $254,802, which was $17,405 more than shown in the bank's preceding report; $114,253 in resources, an increase of $201,658 since Aug. 1.
