At this season we are accustomed to take a retrospect of the past, and look take a retrospect of the past, and took inquiringly into the unknown and uncer-tain future. We have rounded out our twenty-live years of life, as an organiza-tion. The new year has already begun its onward course. There is probably no in-stitution among all those which are main-tained to Scenther today, better known of tained in Scranton today better known or more endeared to the hearts of the pea-ple than the Home for Friendless Women and Children. The adoption of the word "Home" by our predecessors has proven no misnomer, for all who are familiar with the life within its walls realize how well the name has been lived up to and also how natural it seems that the one place for which must people have a latent love has become a famillar one in that

The spirit of home life that now per ades our institution is largely due to the notherliness of the matron, the gentle, unobtrusive work of her sister, combined with the enroful administration of the

The Scranton police are looking for Walter Force, wanted for robbery at Belvi-dere, N. J.

Attorney J. M. Walker has removed his law office, 227 Washington avenue, to $19 Mears building.

A stereoptican lecture, "Pompell," will be given at Calvary Reformed church to-night by A. V. Bower. A patent for a clothes drying apparatus has been granted Adolph Josephs and L. Feldman, of this city. There was no inspection of the night schools by the teachers' committee of the board of control last night, as had been intended. The Tribune acknowledges the receipt of a handsome calendar from the Great Eastern Suit and Pants company of Lackawanna avenue.

Cornelius Tracey, of Mineral street, died Monday night. He was 52 years old, a tinsmith and is survived by a wife and four children: Ella, Mary, John and never dies out entirely and consists of Dr. Murrington Emery Malaun, a gradvarious minor noises. uate of the University of Pennsylvania, registered as a practicing physician yes-terday in Prothonotary Pryor's office. He will practice in Carbondale.

The Roesch-Schultz case, which was to have been tried before Alderman Howe yesterday afternoon, was withdrawn, This ends a proceeding that promised to devel ope some very unsavory details.

A lecture, "In and Around the Mines and Breakers," will be delivered in the Pena Avenue Baptist church tomorrow even-ing by M. A. E. Sloan, of this city. The price of admission will be 15 cents.

The board of trade rooms will be closed today owing to the meeting there of the Pennsylvania Bankers' association. Sec-retary Atherton will spend the day in Wilkes-Barre on board of trade business

Michael Byan, the miner of Taylor, who was injured in the Archbald mine last Friday by a fall of roof over the spot where he was working, died yesterday morning in Moses Taylor hospital. He was married and leaves a wife and fam. fly of several children.

On Monday the work of removing coal from the Twin shaft, at Pittston, was again begun. Two gangways have been opened on the opposite side of the shaft from the place where the accident of last June occurred. At present only a small force of men are employed,

Edna Bull was held Mohday even-ing in Coroner's Longstreet's office. The verdict given was: "Resolved, That Edna Bull died from burns received in a fire in her parent's home, Friday, Jan. 15, by the accidental dropping of a lighted match by the victim herself, thereby setting fire to the bed clothing."

Thomas Hopkins, of Hyde Park, was thomas Hopkins, of Hyde Fark, was arrested yesterday afternoon at the in-stance of Evan Jones, who alleges that the defendant stole a pair of barbar's clippers. Afexander Silkofsky also gharges the defendant with obtaining goods under false pretenses. Hopkins was arraigned before Alderman Millar on the two charges and was sent to jall in de-fault of $600 ball.

A sacred concert will be given on th evening of Jan. 21 in College hall. It will be conducted by Professor Schilling, the cathedral music director. The Christmas * usic rendered at the cathedral will be t neated. Rev. D. J. McGoldrich will de liver an address on the classical musi d the life of Chimarosa, the composer, ere will be selections by Bauer's orches-arm of Verner de Guise on the Have never farm in New Jersey, and there is a pair of unassuming pigeons that bear the distinction of having traveled to and fro, between Scranton and New York twelve times. In the line of quadrupeds there are rabbits that have traveled from the famous Himalaya mountains, north of India, from the black forests of Ger-many, and so on, all of which brings one to the conclusion that the poultry show is a decidedly cosmopolitan aggregation.

As may be imagined, the music of these captives is of a varied and un-conventional kind. They have had no chorus organization, no patient drill master or kindly conductor, so that their vocal efforts, taking the air inces santly during the day and much of the night, break upon the ear, a veritable edlam. Here in a corner a broad fluffy, Wyandotte cock granes his neck and oudly crows, a deep bass legato, which o sooner ended, than the deep throaty Brahman, the high toned Shanghis, the strident games, the baritone Minorcos, the trebble bantams and sta-catto gobblers join their solos to the chorus. This chorus, by the way, consits of a sort of bass viol effect, which the cooing of doves, the cackling of countless hens, the hissing of geese and be mentioned individually It is a show at once entertaining, instructive and amusing and will undoubtedly receive liberal patronage through its duration, which will be very afternoon and evening until and including Saturday.

The exhibition is given by the Scranton Poultry association and is its secand annual exhibit, a fact which reflects much credit upon the association when the high standard and excellence of the show is considered.

LARGE SALE OF SEATS.

Ben Hur Spectacle Will Be Seen by Large Audiences.

Yesterday morning the sale of seats for the Ben Hur spectacular panto-mime at the Frothingham on Thursday, Friday and Saturday opened at orce of men are employed. The coroner's inquest into the death of seats was phenomenally large. All of sale was conducted in the fairest possible manner. Not only was the sale for Thursday large, but for Friday and Saturday as well. There was a very brisk demand for Saturday matines tickets also. Those who have not yet ecured tickets need not be discour aged, however. There are still some choice ones left for the various performances, but it behooves those who want them to apply early.

W. C. Clark and the ladies who will postume those who take part in the spectacle arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and today the various re-hearsals will be given under Mr. Clark's personal direction. The dancers and those in the cast are wonderfully pro-ficient and Thursday night's production will in no sense be a dress rehearsal. It will be as perfect in every detail as the succeeding ones.

Persons who apparently are not fully acquainted with the character of this be made later.
