AMUSEMENTS. "Look out for the brick" is seen on all sides for the past few days and many have wondered what the signification was. All was mystery until the arrival of the advance guard of Murray and Murphy's comedians who gave the public to understand that "funny little man" Mark Murphy, was still on earth and would again be with us when the operatic comedy of "O'Dowd's Neighbors" would hold the boards of the Frothingham tonight.

Few melodramas of the day have gained a more general approval from the local play patrons than Messrs. Piton and Jessor's "Power of the Press," and the rule is remarkably fine audiences in attendance to enjoy the stirring scenes, strong situations and healthy sentiments of this excellent dramatic production. The play meets the tastes of the general public in a happy fashion, and its story serves to interest and entertain from the first to the last scene. The elaborate character of the production, the realistic reproductions of scenes in and about New York and the wealth of incidents which are seen all go to add to its value as a play suited to all classes of amusement seekers.

Friday night Peter F. Dailey, the popular comedian, will be seen in his new comedy, "A Good Thing," at the Academy of Music. LEMON DID NOT COMMIT SUICIDE

Coroner's Jury Decided That He Was Foully Murdered.

WALTZ PLACED UNDER ARREST. He Denies Having Shot Lemon, but Says He Knows Who Did—Evidence Heard Before the Coroner's Jury. The Verdict Was Returned. Waltz Has Been Lodged in the County Jail at Montrose—The Grand Jury Will Probe Into Case.

Developments of yesterday indicate that Jaber Lemon, of Forest City, did not commit suicide, but was foully murdered. John Waltz, who lived with him, was yesterday placed under arrest to answer the charge of having murdered Waltz.

Lemon was over 60 years of age and conducted a pool room in the Higgins building on Depot alley, Forest City. He lived in apartments in the rear of the pool room, which he shared with Waltz. Early Sunday morning the latter notified the neighbors that Lemon had committed suicide. He said that during the night he heard a sharp, cracking sound which awakened him. Hearing no further noise he again fell asleep, supposing that a bottle of soft drink in the pool room had exploded. When he awakened again he found Lemon dead, sitting bolt upright in a chair with a revolver lying at his feet and a bullet hole in his forehead.

A jury was empaneled by Justice of the Peace D. H. Gorman, which cleared the remains and adjourned until Monday at 2 p. m. Considerable testimony was heard then and at 5 o'clock the jury adjourned until 7 p. m., when further testimony was heard.

RESULT OF INQUEST. The result of the inquest was a most startling one. From the evidence given the jurors were convinced that Lemon did not take his own life, and brought in a verdict to the effect that he met his death by some unknown hand and recommended that Waltz be arrested to await further developments of the case.

There were no powder marks on the face and the fact that Lemon was unable to move on account of sickness caused a little suspicion. The doctor who attended him previous to his death claims that he could not live but a few days, his condition being so critical. Waltz made a statement some time ago that Lemon had killed his business to him when the end of life came. All those incidents were the cause of suspicion, hence the close examination of the witnesses.

One witness testified that he heard a quarrel in the pool room previous to the shooting. Another stated that he positively heard Lemon beg Waltz not to hurt him. Other witnesses produced evidence equally as startling.

Waltz swore that he called his landlord, William Higgins, at 8 a. m. on Sunday, but Mr. Higgins testified that it was at 8 a. m. when the verdict was given Waltz was immediately placed under arrest. Officer Ledyard accompanied him to the lockup, and on the way down Main street the prisoner told the officer that he did not shoot Lemon, but he knew who did it.

He made the same statement yesterday morning while at breakfast in the Davis house to Mrs. J. E. Davis, and mentioned the name of the person who did it. He went when he departed for Montrose and reportedly proclaimed his innocence. He will be taken before the grand jury at Montrose, where the mysteries of the case will be further investigated. It is the general opinion that Mr. Lemon was shot while in the chair in which he slept. He was too weak to go to bed.

ANSWER TO GANNON'S SUIT. Another Move in the Now Famous Election Suit.

Mary Riel, through her attorney, C. R. Pitcher, yesterday made answer to the declaration in the proceedings for a new trial for James Gannon, the man who has been in the county jail since June 1895 for contempt of court.

Gannon's attorneys, L. H. Burns and Richard Busted, Jr., on January 8, last asked for a new trial on the grounds that the verdict was rendered through fraud, accident or mistake. The trial was brought under the form of an amicable election with conditioned verdict. It came to Gannon's attorney's ear recently that this form of proceeding was adopted at their request. Such was not the case, they say, and they now believe they should be given a new trial under the usual form of a common law election and without any agreement as to conditional verdict.

In the answer of Mrs. Riel it is set forth that Gannon's attorneys did openly and unreservedly agree to the form of procedure which was followed and that a new trial was refused once before on an application based on the same grounds as the present one.

The unusual object of Gannon's attorneys at present is to secure his release from jail. He will never obey the order of court, which refusal keeps him in jail, and the present proceedings are as much as anything to give him his freedom without compromising Gannon or the court.

Basket Ball Game. The Scranton Turner Basket Ball team defeated the strong North End Star team in a game of basket ball at Turner hall Monday evening. The game between the Turners and North Side team was cancelled, and so the North End Stars, as a team, were defeated. The game, however, came down to play the game. Two 20-minute halves were played. At the end of the first half the score stood Turners, 4; North End Stars, 0. At the end of the game the score stood the same. William Schmitt acted as referee, while James Lyndon, manager of the North End team, acted as umpire.
