Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Susquehanna, Jan. 26.-While blasting rocks near Starrucca, a few days since, a nest of blacksnakes was unearthed. The greater portion of the reptiles were killed by the concussion, but a large specimen survived, and one of the workmen carried it home in a basket and placed it in the barn. In the morning, when he went out to milk the cows, he witnessed a fight to the finish between the snake and a big rat. The rat was cautious, but quick in its actions, and at every opportunity teeth through the hide. The snake falo announce a pleasant wedding, to pounced upon the snake and drove its would coil and dart at the rat, striking it squarely each time, and frequently knocking it up into the air or over on its back. The rat would speedlly re gain its feet and renew the attack. At one time it grabbed the snake just be-low the head and held it for some time, until the snake worked itself loose and returned the compliment by catching around the corner. It is right to send the rat by the neck and shaking it as dog would have done. The rat then resorted to startegy and climbed into further away. Don't hesitate about giving a Presbyterian coat on a Methography of the coats. would quickly drop to the floor, while the snakes head would pass through the straws, giving the little four-footed strategist a chance to grapple with The fight fasted about three quarters of an hour, and resulted in a vic tory for the rat, which dragged the corpse of its opponent into a hole

REVIEWING HIS AGE.

John Adams, of Starrucca, aged 85, if reports are correct, is a very quick old man. Until recently he was baid, tooth-less and almost blind. He can now see really as well as ever, has cut several teeth, and his hair has grown out. The finer hair is dark brown. His eyes are clear. At first glance he looks like a man of 40, but a closer view shows him to be much older. His brown hair and bright eyes seen to emphasize the wrinkles and skin that looks like parchment. Mr. Adams has an idea that newer skin will grow and the wrinkles disappear. He is in excellent health and spirits, and believes he will live many a year yet.

ROMANCE OF A RING.

Some months since, a party of Binghamton and Albany gentlemen were bass fishing on the Susquehanna river, between Great Bend and Kirkwood. They had a fine catch, and returned to Binghamton with full creels. In preparing the fish for the cook, Mr. James E. Houston, of Albany, discovered a lady's gold ring somewhere in the interior of a big bass. With close scrutiny, the letters, "M. E. D.' were discovered on the ring. Careful search for the owner of the article was made, but without success. At last advertisements were placed in several papers of wide circulation in New York state, and a few days latter a letter was received from Miss Mary E. Doremus, of Buffalo, claiming the ring. She lost it last Summer while boating on the Susquehanna near Blnghamton, with a party of lady friends. Several letters passed between Mr. Houston and Miss Doremus, and the latter was soon called to the Lake City "on business." The society papers of Bufoccur in the merry month of March. Truth is stranger than fiction.

DR. JOHNSTON'S TRIAL.

Witnesses for the Insanity Defense Give Evidence That Prisoner Has Looked Wild and Has Acted Strangely.

New Bloomfield, Pa., Jan. 26.-Dr. Thomas L. Johnston appeared somein Wayne, And Wayne county hopes to what brighter today, when he was brought into the court room, than a any time since the opening of the trial He did not seem to be very much worried about the progress which was being made by the court in trying him for murdering Dr. George S. Henry, the wealthy and popular Duncannon druggist, last fall.

The court opened at 10 o'clock this morning. W. R. Swartz, of Penn township, and Joseph Coup, of the same township, testified to the absent mindedness of Dr. Johnston and of his peculiar actions. Mr. Coup had Mr. Johnston as his family physician for many years, but on account of his apparent insane conduct he quit him. When they separated Dr. Johnston and he had a vordy quarrel.

John W. Snyder, of Duncannon, an attendant in the insane hospitals, of Trenton, N. J., Warren, and Harrisburg, Pa., testified that he had experience with over 3,500 inmates and he expressed his belief that Dr. Johnston was of unsound mind, he having seen him acting in a very peculiar way upon many occasions. He cited instances of such conduct. Mr. Sayder was to be an expert witness, but the defence failed to qualify him as such.
William F. Darby, a lawyer of Steel

Dr. Moulton said he had arrived a the clear, certain conclusion that Dr Johnston, at the time of the commis-sion of the crime, September 28, 1896 was crazy. He declared there is no doubt in his mind about this and termed it neurasthenia as the condition which had caused the prisoner' insanity. It was due to overwork and

Wall Street Review. New York, Jan. 26.-The transactions at the Stock exchange today were 83,000 shares, the smallest total for a very long time past. The dealings were confined to the room traders and were entirely devoid of significance. The trend of prices was upward almost from the very start. The coalers were strength-ened by denials of some of the sensational reports current concerning the affairs of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company by President Olyphant and they advanced 1% for Jersey Central and Delaware and Hudson. Reading gained about a point. Failing in other directions, operators working for lower prices finally made an attack upon New York Central, which declined 1%. This raid failed to influence the market in the slightest degree and toward the close there was an advance all along the line. Final quotations, which were generally the highest of the day showed net gains of anywhere from 5 to 1% per cent. New York Central was the only stock among the leading shares that showed loss of any consequence. Furnished by WILLIAM LINN, AL-LEN & CO., stock brokers, Mears build-ing, rooms, 705-796.
