

The Scranton Tribune Daily and Weekly, No Sunday Edition. Published at Scranton, Pa., by The Tribune Publishing Company.

Now would be a good time to suggest that Pennsylvania get a new capital as well as a new capitol. Why not move the whole business to Scranton?

The Immigration Problem. It is announced by Major Carson in the Philadelphia Public Ledger that President Cleveland will probably veto the amended immigration bill which has lately passed the house and is to be acted upon today in the senate.

Use and Abuse of Wealth. The Philadelphia Inquirer occupies two broad columns on its editorial page with a defense of the Bradley-Martin fancy dress ball.

STATE LEGISLATIVE TOPICS. Manufacturers and dealers interested in oleomargarine will, it is announced, make another attempt this winter to secure some concessions from the Grangers.

THE BURNING OF THE CAPITOL. Perhaps the first thought which arose in every Pennsylvania mind upon receipt of the news of the destruction yesterday of the state capitol by fire was that at last this rich and populous commonwealth may have a capitol worthy of its rank among the states.

AN INTERESTING CASE. From the Wilkes-Barre Record. That school boards and similar bodies should never act in matters of importance to the people without having first had the benefit of some legal advice has been the subject of a recent case in the court of school directors of Old Forge township, Lackawanna county.

moreover, All Europe might simultaneously fall into our war, yet the Suez canal must remain open. Likewise the Nicaragua canal must necessarily be an open highway for the entire commercial world, and the United States could never be able to maintain over it the position of a private owner.

Unless we can get out of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty by honorable means, it is Mr. Henderson's contention that the United States must abandon its dream of a controlling voice in the management of this prospective waterway; and he suggests that our government must seek a new treaty with Nicaragua and the other interested states looking to the building of the canal by international concert at joint expense, and upon terms which shall guarantee in future the absolute neutrality of the canal to all nations, in peace or war.

Governor Pingree of Michigan, in trying to hold the office of mayor of Detroit, claims that he does this to keep the corporations from perverting the popular will. This excuse may be sincere but it is unsatisfactory.

It seems to us that the approach of March the Fourth is becoming daily more decided value to the country, says the New York Sun. Strange, but that's just the way it strikes us.

With a new capitol to build, Pennsylvania ought to go slower than ever on legislative "jobs."

An investigation of the Harrisburg fire department is in order.

As the new building is far advanced toward completion the board over the contractor nearly the full amount called for by the contract, and has not resources in sight to meet this just indebtedness.

THE MAN AT THE WHEEL. The foreboding bar the moonlit sand, The port fall laps the sea; Aloft all last, where the wind clings low, Now to the cutter's snug and trim.

common sense verdict. In a case where the tariff is a human life, we cannot have testimony from too many points of view.

According to the Philadelphia Press "decreasing profits in anthracite coal are inevitable." Not necessarily. When nature poured practically all her anthracite wealth into four Pennsylvania counties and made no provision for its renewal when once mined, it offered a fine opportunity to the anthracite interests to maintain a just profit even though other and renewable commodities should decline in price.

Private advices from San Luis, Fla., state that Senator Quay, during the past week, had an operation performed on his left eye to relieve the paralysis of the upper eyelid, the dropping of which has gradually become more and more marked in late years.
