TO SAVE HIS FATHER.

Thomas Campbell, Jr., Causes the Arrest of His Brother Who, It Seems, Tried to Jump His Bail.

John Campbell, of Grant avenue, was charged several months ago with the theft of a number of pigeons from William Allshouse, of North Garfield avenue, and after a hearing before Alderman Blair, Campbell's case was sent to court.

Over 400 tickets were taken in at the welcome supper served last evening at the armory of Post 2, Volunteers of America. This nets at least $40 clear.

as the only expenditure was 25 cents for milk. Every one of the many delicacies served were contributed by the good people of the West Side.

WILL CHANGE THEIR QUARTERS. The West Side Wheelmen are not satisfied with their present suite of rooms on South Main avenue, and it has been decided to make a change as soon as other quarters can be secured.

HOW TO RECEIVE TREATMENT. Regarding Saturday evening's meeting of the Hospital association, Mr. Twining in last evening's Times says: "The secretary was instructed to make clear to the public, through the press, that in case of an accident, patients could be brought direct to the hospital without an order from physician or director; broken limbs, cuts or injuries of any description requiring immediate attention. These are called emergency cases."

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION. In honor of the birthday anniversary of their daughter, Miss Jessie Owen, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Owen, of Oak street, Taylor last evening entertained a company of friends. Rev. Thomas De Gruchy, pastor of the Jackson Street Baptist church, and wife were among the guests. The evening was pleasantly passed. Walter Prince and Peter Price, of Taylor, rendered selections on the clarinet and piano. Luncheon was served.

NOTES AND PERSONALS. Professor George Howell, superintendent of public schools, will lecture Wednesday evening before West Side club on the subject of "The Art of Teaching." In Robert Morris hall on the subject, "Words."

Day and Night Scholars Debate. Friday evening, Feb. 5, the lecture room of No. 27 school was the scene of an anti-climactic debate between representatives of the day and night schools of this building. "Is Africa likely to surpass North America in advanced civilization?" was the question debated. Youthful of the day school upheld the affirmative side of the question and won in the contest against young men of the night school. The many excellent points submitted by both sides indicated careful preparation and both schools say they know more of the dark continent than they ever knew before. The night school holds a debate once every two weeks.

DRUG CLERK'S GOOD EYE He Picked Out a Man He Thought Contemplated Suicide—Turned Over to the Police.

Another case of the suicide of a dependent by poison was only prevented last night by a good guess on the part of Drug Clerk Frank Beavers, of Phelps' pharmacy.

A well dressed man of thirty-five years came into the drug store at 8 o'clock and exhibiting some stains on the sleeve of his coat asked for two ounces of chloroform for the purpose of removing the stains. One of the boys in the store sold him the drug. Mr. Beavers, who was writing at a desk in the rear of the store happened to look up and noticed something peculiar in the customer's actions.

Mr. McBride and the clerk rushed into the hallway and captured him. He denied that he had bought any poison or that he intended to do away with himself. The man took a drink and then left going to the Westminister, Beavers keeping at his heels all the time and wondering how he was going to stop the suicide, which he now firmly believed was the purpose of the man with the poison in his pocket.
