The Thurlow Medical Institute was opened three months ago at No. 303 Spruce street. Most of the cases to which their physicians have been called had been given up by the family physician and in some cases after calling another in consultation. Yet the Physiclans of the Institute have not had to write a single death certificate. Such a record in curing disease is marvelous; yes, almost miraculous. Over three thousand cases treated and not one death. They employ eminent special-ists for all diseases. You get their services free. If you need a physician send a postal card and they will send one to attend you until cured. They have a separate cure for each disease approved and recommended by homeopathic physicians and endorsed by prominent people all over the country They could publish several thousand cures right here in Scranton if the patients did not object to having their names in the papers. A few are published in their advertisement on another page. The success of these cures has made the name of "Thurlow" famous all over the state.

The 1896 reports of Edward Rederick and Henry O. Prytherch, mine inspec tors of the First and Second anthracite districts, respectively, have been for warded to James W. Latta, secretary of internal affairs at Harrisburg. Inspector Roderick's report is his fifth annual document and when issued in ts usual form from Harrisburg wil reveal a fund of statistical informa-tion of mining in the First district. The district mined 6,227,447 tons, or 283,37 tons less than in 1895. Of accidents there were 5 fatal and 13 on-fatal, those killed leaving 21 widows and 53 orphans. For each acci-dent, fatal and non-fatal, 23,694 tons

An average of 179.1 days were worked by each mine, as against 182.3 days in 1895. The report indicates the general condition of the mines as healthful and a disposition by the companies to guard against accidents and establish modern methods of ventilation and op-

IN THE SECOND DISTRICT.

Henry O. Prytherch, mine inspector they have occupied for one year.

of the Second Lackswanna district has completed his report for the year ending Dec. 31, 1896, and it has been transmitted to the state authorities at Harrisburg. It is not accompanied by any suggestions or recommendations as the new inspector felt that he should gain a thorough knowledge of the condition of the mines in his district before attempting anything of the kind.

Mr. Prytherch's report shows that dur-ing the year 1896 5,895,669 tons of coal were mined in his district and 16,353 men employed by the various companies. The number of fatal accidents in his district was 39 which shows that 151,171 tons of coal were mined for each life lost. Ir. and John F. Scragg and the defendIn addition to their report of the ants by Attorneys Thomas F. Wells and C. R. Pitcher.

While the proceedings are for a new trial the main effort of the attorneys is to secure the release of Gannon, withor the court. The contention of the plaintiff is that the verdict, which brought about Gannon's imprisonment for contempt was obtained by fraud or mistake and therefore anything consequent woon it must fall.

They strove to show that Gannon never consented directly or through his attorneys that the action in the trial of the case in 1887 should be amicable ejectment or that a conditional or moulded verdict should be found, but that he and they understood that it was a ommon law ejectment.

Mr. Eusteed presented the affidavits f Gannon and the attorneys in the case lenying any agreement to a conditional verdict. Mr. Eurns pleaded that something should be done to effect Gannon's so severely for simply refusing to do what his conscience tells him would be a great wrong.

Messrs. Wells and Pitcher argued against the new trial, setting forth that the form under which the case tried was regular and agreed to by the parties in action.

From this grave and serious case court next passed to one that was hu-morous from beginning to end. It was an orphan's court matter in which the estate of Alexander Doake, deceased, was the point about which the action revolved. Attorney T. J. Duggan did some work for the estate and charged up $125 for fees and expenses. The lier creditors of the estate excepted to the size of the bill and upon bringing the matter to court Attorney C. W. Dawson was appointed auditor to adjudicate the differences. He cut Mr. Duggan's fees down to $50 and fixed his own compen-sation for this labor at $40, all of which saved the estate the vast sum of $10. Mr. Duggan filed exceptions to the report, protesting against the cut in his own fee and avowing that Mr. Dawson's fee was exhorbitant. Mr. Daw-son's report was funny, to say the ince every day during the week, the east, but it wasn't a circumstance as a against by the willy ex-burgess of

The way in which he hurled his shafts | ance. of irony, satire and ridicule at Mr. Dawson and his report and also against Attorney C. F. Bohan, of Pittston, who argued for the lien creditors, kept the court and all the listeners in an almost ntinuous roar of laughter The ground upon which he built up his argument was that he objected to having his fees regulated according to the ideas of fees held by bucolic attorneys from Pittston or by Mr. Dawson to whom he also paid some undesirable ompliments.

The case of the Standard Life Acciient Insurance company, of Detroit, Mich., against its agent, Arthur Hitchcock, was argued by Major Warren, representing the company, and Mr. Scragg as counsel for Mr. Hitchcock. The company claims that the agent is guilty of retaining illegally $705.50 and has instituted proceedings against him. Mr. Hitchcock puts in an offset of $800 for office rent, fees for settling cases and commissions or re-

Three rules were argued. The first was a rule for judgment on account of the insufficiency of the affidavit of defense. The second was for a bill of particulars and the third for security for costs, the latter two being contended for by the defense.

The contested elections from the Secnd ward of Dickson City were argued by ex-Judge Stanton for the contestants and Mr. O'Brien for the respondent. James Caygili, school controler for three years, received 81 votes, and Francis Simms, his opponent, re-ceived 79 votes. Fred Reis, school di-rectir for two years, received 83 votes, and his opponent, E. Eley, 81 votes. The commissioners, John E. Wat-kins and H. W. Mulholland, reported that seven illegal votes had been cast, two votes not having been naturalized and five not having paid a state and county tax within two years prior to the election. Both sides made exceptions to the commissioners' findings son as Only the Ex-Burgess Can. and the arguments yesterday were on these findings.

Judge Stanton presented the evidence as taken by the stenographer at the hearing and pointed out where there terday made in the famous case of were many more illegal votes cast than James Gannon against Thomas Rice the commissioners reported. The eviand others. Judges Gunster and Ed- dence, as presented by Judge Stanton, would indicate that the Baker ballot law must look like a sieve when the ness. Judge Stanton says this will not seriously affect the contest as there is sec ondary evidence of the desired nature in the admissions of the witnesses at the hearing as to how they voted.

IS DIVORCE A FAILURE?

Rothermel Says No, for She Wants It Repeated. Attorney John F. Scragg yesterday

instituted proceedings in Prothonotary Pryor's office to secure a divorce for Carrie E. Rothermel, of this city, from her husband, E. D. Rothermel, against whom she charges cruel and barbarous treatment, desertion and unfaithfulness, Ada Smith being named as the co-respondent. The peculiar feature of this case is the parties were divorced once and re-married. Their first marriage occurred in 1869. They were divorced on Mrs. Rothermel's petition in 1887. Rother-mel promised to reform and for the sake of their two children Mrs. Rothermel agreed to live with him again and they were remarried in 1899. They parted in 1894 and now Mrs. Rothermel once more seeks a divorce.
