HOW IT WAS OBSERVED.

Numerous Celebrations in This Part of the City.

It certainly was a shame that Washington couldn't have arranged for fair weather on his birthday at least, but last night was a mean one and positively insulted the many affairs on this side, which were conducted for the purpose of honoring the first president and to replenish the treasuries of the concerns, Yet everything fared well. At the Jackson Street Baptist church probably the most unusual entertailment was offered-the Canadlan Jubilee singers and the Imperial quartette, The troupe consists of a dozen colored people, who are educated and capable of giving a refined entertainment. It has been several years since the Judisingers have visited these parts. The audience last night comfortably filled the auditorium. The concert will be repeated tonight, when all children attending the public schools will be admitted into the lecture room for 10 This is by special arrangement with W. Carter, the manager of the

At the Scranton Street Baptist church a patriotic festival was held, a large crowd attending. The feature of the entertalnment was the drills of a band of girls under the leadership of Miss Anna Morgan, the talented daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Morgan. Their exhibition, in the fancy Bar Bell drill, especially, was very fine. The rest of the programme, as printed in yesterday's Tribune, was rendered. Fern, of Griffin post, No. 139, Grand

Army of the Republic, gave a delightful reminiscence of his war career, takink his hearers through an interesting series of movements of his regiment. Camp 33, Patriotic Order of True Americans, assisted by Bauer's orchestra, gave a dramatic entertainment and social hop in Mears' hall, "Our Country" was the name of the drama. The play carries its auditors through series of events famous in American history. The play was well interpret-ed, so well, in fact, that it would be superfluous to mention any particular person. J. F. Pfeiffer was prompter of the social. Mrs. Mary Boston-Willlams and Mrs. Randolph Jones were the solists, and Miss Marion Hutchinson planist. At the Plymouth Congregational church the Ladies' Aid held a Martha Washington entertainment and social. Eddie and Edith Davis, Edith James, Misses Lulu Sylvester and Irene Kahn were the entertainers. Miss Anna R. Williams, planist, favored with a lection. The feature of this celebration was the impersonation by ladies of the church of the wives of eight presidents, as follows: Mrs. Adams, Mrs. A. B. Eynon; Mrs. Washington, Mrs. Maria Allen; Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. T. W. Phillips; Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. Richard Owens: Mrs. Cleveland, Mrs. P. H. Warren; Mrs. Garfield, Mrs. John Evans; Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Joseph Hughes. A flash light photograph of the celebrities was taken after the entertainment. James Powell, photographer, Enterprise lodge, Loyal Knighs of America, held a smoker after the regular business session in Red Men's hall. Worthy Master William Bacon was chairman over the social session. During the evening, whee cigars were being smoked, graphaphone selections were given under the direction of W. H. Fuller, of Eynon street.

Globe lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, listened to an address on Washington delivered by Attorney L. M. Bunnell, A big attendance enjoyed the eloquent effort.

Sumner Avenue and Taylor Churches

Have Not Yet Been Successful. The condition of affairs at the Sumner Avenue Presbyterlan church and the Taylor Presbyterian church is worse even than it was several months ago, when both churches lost their pas-tors. When it was discovered that the ducted at the German Presbyterian churches could not stand alone, it was decided to unite them under one pastor. His duties will be to preach alternately at each church. To this end three candidates were heard and last Thursday night Rev. J. P. Moffat, moderator of the district, presided over a meeting of the Sumner Avenue church members, which had been called to select a pastor. Two candidates were balloted for, Rev. Dr. Hunter, of Montoursville, Pa., receiving on the first ballot 12 votes, and Rev. L. F. Foster, a student at Auburn Theological school, receiving 18 votes. On motion it was agreed to the League will play another "cinch" hold another ballot.
