King George Declares Crete's Fate Must

The Recall of the Greek Troops from Crete Would Be Followed by a Mas. sacre of Christians---Albanians Show a Disposition to Take a Hand

Athens, March 5 .- A statement just made by King George during the course of an interview is probably a forecast of the reply which Greece will make to the identical notes of the powers insisting upon the withdrawal of the Greek fleet and troops from Crete within the six days which commenced at noon on Monday last, the time the notes referred to were delivered. His majesty said:

"The Greek nation is unable to bear any longer the strain and excitement caused by constant Cretan revolutions and our finances will not permit us to support the refugees, who now number 17,000. Nothing will prosper in Greece until the question is definitely settled. The autonomy of Crete is out of the question, because the Cretans rejected it and have lost faith in the promises who arived here last night from Wash- of the powers. The insurgents | There is not the slightest foundation have stopped all communications with for the report which undoubtedly had the town by land, and it is certain that unless the foreign war ships actively intervene in behalf of the Moslems the town will shortly be compelled to surrender. The small detachments of sailors and marines landed from the still in the Cabana fortress and as far various warships still occupy the town, but without the aid of the fleets they could make but feeble defense against the overwhelming numbers of the in position they have taken, and it is ominous that in face of the threat of combined Europe the war-like preparations are being carried on with feverish activity. The most intense enthusiasm is everywhere displayed, and President Cleveland would be on her. The the people display no fear of the result of an appeal to arms. They know full well that the Greek army by itself is no match for the numerically superior Turkish forces, but they also know that in the event of war the whole of southern Europe would be set on fire. It is this that the powers wish to prevent, but if they attempt to use force to compel Greece to accede to their denent with the other powers. mands there is a very strong probability that Greece will apply the torch that will start a conflagration the re suit of which no one can foretell. It is believed here that the powers, seeing the chance of their becoming involved in a general war owing to their conflicting interests, will make haste slowly in attempting to force the Greeks to withdraw their support from the Cretan Christians. It has been decided that there shall be a general mobilization of the Greek forces, and to this end the two classes of reserves that had not been summoned previously have now been called out. The reserve forces alone give a total of 104,600 men and behind that is what is called the territorial army, which numbers up-wards of 145,000 men, a not by any means insignificant force. #### WEYLER INTERVIEWED.

He Has No Hesitation in Pronouncing His Own Campaign a Success. Pleased With McKinley.

Havana, March 5 .- While at Remidos Captain General Weyler was inter-viewed by a corespondent of La Lucha of this city. General Weyler, among other things said:

"Believe me, pay no attention what-ever to what is said or murmured about me by the newspapers here or outside of Cuba. I have a fixed and invariable plan which I intend to follow with all the tenacity of which I am capable, and nothing will make me de viate from that line of conduct. My columns are now imposing peace with the muzzles of their guns. Nothing was heard of peace in the provinces of Pinar del Rio, Havana and Matanzas until I began operations on a great cale, pressing, pursuing and corralling the rebels on all sides. The same thing will happen in the eastern provinces as oon as I begin operations in that part of the island."

All the local daily papers, in their comments upon President McKinley's inaugural address, express satisfaction ecause of the fact that he did not allude to the Cuban question. This is taken to indicate that he will adopt a policy of abstention, leaving Spain to settle her affairs alone.

A number of inquirles were received here today regarding the report that the Spanish authorities had released the captured filibustering schooner Competitor and her crew and that the its origin in the mind of some imaginative reporter.
