BIG MINE SQUEEZE.

Trouble in the Red Ash Vein of the Woodward Mine, Near Kingston. 800 Employes Idle.

Wilkes-Barre, March 26 .- A squeeze n the Red Ash vein of the Woodward mine near Kingston has been going on for the past twenty-four hours and tonight it began to extend towards the foot of the shaft. The ripping and tearing of the pillars of coal has become so general that the inside officers ordered all the men out of the mine and by 10 o'clock every miner and employe the pits below were landed safely on the surface. When the report first went into the mine that all should come out there was much excitement until the fact was made known. The squeezing has been located in the Red Ash vein, above the Bennett and the Cooper veins, the latter two being in imminent danger of being badly affected.

At this writing (II o'clock) it is imossible for the mine bosses to tell how Greece, and thus nip in the bud the serious the squeeze or cave-in may turn out to be. It may settle in a few days; and it may extend and involve a large portion of the mine. In addition to the squeeze is confronted with another difficulty. The mine is very gaseous and as the splitting pillars and settling of the roof goes on it causes the gas to accumulate in large quantities. The fans are kept under full headway and all efforts will be made to expel it.

This mine employs about 800 men and ooys and should work be suspended for a long time it will entail great hardships in many, if not all their families,

POLITICAL CONTEST OPENED

Lively Debate Provoked in the House by an Amendment Authorizing the Admission Free of Articles Pro-Charges and Counter Charges Hurled by Contending Orators.

Washington, March 26 .- With the exeption of the first hour the whole of oday's session was spent by the senate behind closed doors; where not only was the arbitration treaty discussed in some of its bearing, but also the party organization of the senate-no definite esult being arrived at on either subfect. During the opening session the civil service commission was subjected o another raking down at the hands of Mr. Gallinger, of New Hampshire, He said that as his statement the other day about the "hopping" test to which applicants for employment in the government printing office were subjected had been challenged by "Penny-a-lin-ers" in the press and by an official of the civil service commission, he had obtained a printed copy of the circular which contained that and other equally absurd requirements which would, he said, have prevented Phil Sheridan from making himself famous if the civil service commission had got a chance at him, and which would have even shut him out from employment in the government printing office. The circular was referred to the committee on civil service and entrenchment which is to investigate the whole sub-

Nothing Will Be Allowed to Interfere With That .- Cullom Is Opposed to Pools .- The Majority of the House Takes the Side of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, March 26.-There is no reason to believe that congress will take any action during the extra session looking toward the passage of a pooling law for the benefit of the various railway lines which may be afpreme court against traffic agreements There are, on the contrary, several reasons which argue against the undertaking of such legislatiion at present. One of these is the general policy of the leaders in the house at least not to transact any legislative business except the enactment of the tariff bill, another is the apparent disincilnation on the part of Senator Cullom and other members of the senate committee on commerce to see the necessity of a law to permit pooling. Colonel W. R. Morrison, of the interstate commerce commissions is pleased with the decision, and continues to express his gratifica-
