TRYING TO PROVE HER INSANITY

Anna Dickinson was insane on the day she was taken to the Danville asylum.

RESISTED TOO MUCH.

On cross examination Mrs. Griffith said she was an aunt of Dr. Hellman. one of the defendants. She said that in her opinion Miss Dickinson resisted more than a person with a well-balanced mind would when the party called to take her to the Danville asylum. Witness assisted in placing the straight jacket on Miss Dickinson, but it was not fastened tightly or laced all the way down. The jacket was put on the plaintiff so that she could be properly restrained if she became violent. After the jacket was on her for a few moments it was taken off when it was found that she was not inclined to be violent. Mrs. Griffith gave in substance several statements made by Anna Dickinson which indicated that she was afraid she would be poisoned. She thought that no woman would remain voluntarity in the room occupied by Anna for twenty-four hours. There were all kinds of impurities in the room and it was a very unhealthy room to remain in. From Susan E. Dickinson she learned that Anna had been in the room for forty-eight hours. HAD HER BY THE THROAT,

James Eggleston, son of Allen Eggleston, one of the defendants, testified that in February, 1891, Martha, Miss Dickinson's maid, came to his father's store and asked him to go to the Dickinson house. Martha ran back to the house and witness followed her. When she arrived there he found Anna standing inside in her room and she had Susan, who was standing outside in the hallway, by the throat. He forced the door open which caused Anna to loosen her hold on Susan's throat. Martha then went into the room and got a tray of dishes which was the cause of the trouble. George James was a brakeman on the Delaware, Luckawanna and Western train on which Miss Dickinson was conveyed to the Danville Insane asylum, No violence was used in putting her on the train. On the train she talked quite loud and at Kingsten she tried to leave the train. At Danville she got off at the asylum platform. As she alighted she told the conductor she was going to have him discharged. She noted as if she was very angry.

Bridget Doran said she saw Anna Dickinson following Martha Griffith a few days before she was taken to the asylum. She was very angry and was shouting at the top of her voice, "I'll show you, you little devil you, if I catch

DR. OGLESBY'S DEPOSITIONS.

The deposition of Dr. James Oglesby of Danville, taken March 5, 1897, was read. Dr. Oglesby is suffering from beart trouble and believed that it would be dangerous for him to attend the trial. On February 25, 1891, he was called to the Danville Insane asylum to examine Miss Anna Dickinson, He was taken to the female ward where Miss Dickinson was by Mrs. Frost, the matron. He examined her with reference to her appearance, nervous condishe had a wild look in her eye. Her apearance indicated that she had been subject to a long mental strain and had the delusion that a conspiracy had been formed to deprive her of her liberty. His judgment was that she was After the reading of this deposition court adjourned.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT.

Case Aghinst James Hill Given to the Jury.

The case against James Hill, of Wilkes-Barre, charged with fraudulent se of the mails, went to the jury in United States court just before ad-journment yesterday afternoon.

Abraham Beales, of Clearfield county, was called by the prosecution at the opening of court and gave testimony similar to that given by the others who were duped by Hill. Evidence was also brought forward to show that the prices quoted by Hill in his circulars higher than the current prices in the districts in which he caused the circulars to be distributed.

Postmaster F. M. Vandling was called by the government to testify that Hill & Connell, "shippers to Wilkes-Harre and Scranton" were not known ere and that the real Hill & Connell of Scranton, is a firm with wide business reputation and unimpeachable After a period of lively sparring between counsel Judge Buffington declared the testimony irrelevant.

Attorney John Shea made the oper ing for the defense. In eloquent and forcible language he claimed Hill's of fense was nothing more or less than that of being unfortunate in business. He stated that Hill had been in business in Luzerne and Lackawanna counties for thirty years and had always borne a good reputation. A year or so ago he went into partnership with T. Connell, of Duryea, who afterwards left the firm. Then Hill began to experience reverses. His boy was drowned in the Susquehanna river and spent $250 searching for the body. He ran for office shortly afterwards in Luzerne county and this cost him a

He was rallying from his troubles and was making a strenuous effort to straighten out his difficulties when Post gifts. The fact that the government had found only $956 worth of bilis outstanding against a man who has heen in business thirty years was in itself, Mr. Shea contended, evidence highly favorable to Hill. The defendant went on the stand and went over the history of his business career and recent troubles. In April, 1892, he and Thomas F. Connell, of Pittston, went into the produce business, but in June, 1896, Connell left the firm. Then he commenced to expertence reverses and found himself insolvent. It was his intention to pay for the goods he ordered and was making arrangements to do so as far as he was able when his arrest occurred. On cross-examination he admitted that at various times he had had money sufficient to pay some of the bills but did not pay any of them. Aiderman Morrisey and Valentine corroborated Hill's testimony that he made efforts to secure loans from them. Station Agents McDervele. of the Lehigh Valley; Strauss, of the Pennsylvania, and Masters, of the Jersey Central, testified that Hill had received many consignments during the last seven or eight years and to all appearances was doing a large business. Louis Tisch, an influential merchant; Harry Liem, hotel proprietor; Editor Dippre, of the Luzerne Coun-

Mr. Gorman in rebuttal denied this and was about to go into an explanaion of what he did propose when Judge Buffington with some show of impatience ruled the evidence out on the grounds of irrelevency. The closing address for the defense was made by Mr. Colborn. He characterized the whole proceeding as a persecution by spiteful creditors. The government, he said, through Postoffice Inspector Gorman had transformed itself into a collection bureau. It had spent a year and a half going through New York and Pennsylvania orty bills that Hill owes and which through misfortune and bad luck he

Mr. Clriffiths closed for the govern nent with a careful review of the evidence, pointing out and emphasizing the indications of fraud and lashing Hill and his methods with an unsparng tongue. ### In Defense of Mr. Rockefeller.

Sir: Your editorials are, as a rule, ad nirable; characterized by intelligence calm reasoning, and logical and fair con-clusions. Whatever else in the paper must be passed by through lack of time incident to stress of work, your editorials always claim perusal. On your own page of yesterday's issue, however, I find an article which, in its lack of accurate knowledge, and of its consequent unfairness of treatment, and tendency to mislead the uninformed, is quite unlike what almost uniformly issues from your paper. I refer to that in which you charge John tion and previous condition of her beatth. Her manner was excitable and to certain utterances recently delivered to Sunday school scholars, and his mo-tives in the distribution of his wealth. I thoroughly agree with you as to the principle which you would establish, but you were very unfortunate in your on of an example to illustrate the prin-

Mr. Rockafeller has never even ap peared to bemoun the fact that he is immensely rich; he rather is grateful for the great prosperity which God has giv-en him, though he was fully as happy in he days of his early struggles for a affluence. And the secret is an open co--Mr. Rockafeller- has always been a cheerful giver," his gifts in former ears, proportionately to his income, being fully as large as his munificent gifts of recent years. In the very address which so disgusted you, delivered before a young men's Bible class Mr. Rockafeller, holding up a little book marked "Ledger A," in which were kept the repts and expenditures of the early period his wonderful business career, said: Those contributions, small as they were eight me into direct contact with philanthropic work, and with the beneficial work and alms of religious institu-tions, and I have been helped thereby greatly all my life. It is a mistake for a man who wishes for happiness and to help others to think that he will wait until he has made a fortune before giv ing away money to deserving objects, These sentences contain no suggestion of miserable whining on the one hand, not of ostentation on the other. His words of estentation on the other. His words and deeds flatly contradict your instaua-tions as to his making "a show of wealth," "the twaddle of men of the Rockafeller stamp," and the edious "example of many men of means." Personally he is very diffident and retiring, no showy; he is not loquacious, as "twaddle would have us think; and compared with most "men of means," his charities are princely. He has magnificently endowed one of the finest educational institutions inder the broad expanse of the heavens; worthy individuals and organizations and even now he makes it possible to liquidate the enormous debt of the two great Raptist Missionary societies, which amounts to $486,000, by imposing a simple yet wise condition, viz.: that if the Bap tist constituency throughout the country will raise $25,990 by July 1 of this year, he will pay the balance of $250,000. If here is any truth in his remark, as well as in your own, about happiness in giv-ing, then he is one of the happiest men on earth, for on this planet he has few peers in the largeness and wisdom of his ice, covetousness and Pharisalcal oster tation, I commend you; but if you look about 160 miles nearer home than New York city, and within the past few months or weeks, you will find more fitting examples for the enforcement your remarks than in the case of Mr. Rockafeller, who while living, enjoys both his wealth and its wise distribution. In man, with traits similar to those of Mr.

Rockafeller's, God gave him in an ex-traordinary degree, "a hand to get and heart to give." Yours very truly, W. G. Watkins, Pastor North Main Avenue Church,

COMMON COUNCIL SESSION.

Business That Was Transacted by the Lower Branch. In common council Simon Thomas annual motion that when the meeting idjourned it be to convene at 9 o'clock Monday morning, the motion was ta-bled by the Democrats. The motion to adjourn sine die was made at the close with a drag net and had gathered up of the session and carried by the folowing vote of 9 to 8, President Grier voting with the Republican minority: Ayes-Messrs, Loftus, Gordon, Regun, iliroy, Flanagan, Sweeney, Nealis, Zeid-er, Norton-9. Nays-President Grier and Messes, S. Thomas, Moir, Wenzel, P. Wirth, Sea-mans, Oliver and Keller-8.

The lower branch wanted to set itelf right before the public on the Kinsley matter before final dissolution came, so on its death bed, adopted the following resolution presented by Mr.

Flanaghan: Whereas, Certain charges have been made against the street commisioner, namely, that the affairs of the street commissioners' office have been conducted improperly, and the said charges hav-ing been sustained to the satisfaction of this council, there having been no defense

The ordinance to regulate the appointment of inspectors of city work was killed on second reading. Mr. Flanaghan headed the opposition to the measure arguing that it did not help matters any to take the appointments out of the mayor's hand and put them into the city engineer's. He believed the power should be vested in a commission composed of the mayor, engineer, building inspector and street commissioner and served notice that after reorganization he would offer an ordi nance providing for such a board.

Mr. Moir favored the present ordinance for the reason that any change from the present plan would be an im provement and an immediate change and consequent improvement was de manded. This thing of having cobblers inspect cement and butchers passing upon the quality of asphalt pavements nad gone for enough.

Mr. Oliver coincided with Mr. Moir and said he knew of an Instance on the West Side where an incompetent inspector had permitted a contractor to grade a street in such a manner that it supposes the inspector believed water would run up hill.

Mr. Gilroy wanted a change, but s radical one. He, with Mr. Flanaghan, believed that the appointments should be vested in a commission. During the course of his remarks he said that ow ing to the incompetency of inspectors and the readiness of contractors to take advantage of this, not a single sewer in this city today is properly constructed. The vote on the passage of the ordinance was as follows:

Ayes-Messrs, Simon Thomas, Wenzel, Philip Wirth, Seamans, Oliver

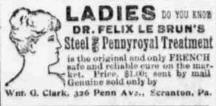

Nays-Messrs, Loftus, Regan, Gilroy Flanaghan, Sweeney, Nealis, Zeidier Norton, Grier-9.

THOSE FIRE ALARM BOXES. When City Solicitor Torrey's commu nication on the fire alarm boxes cam up for concurrence Mr. Flanaghar made a speech favoring the re-opening of the contract for supplying this apparatus and Mr. Moir made the sugges tion that the next council appoint a special committee to take the subject hand. The communication was ordered filed, but the members indicated that the subject will be taken up again after re-organization.

The resolution looking to the establishment of a sewer district out of por tions of the Sixth and Eighteenth wards was killed, Mr. Kegan explaining that it would be a treless expense to proceed with the preliminary surveys and the like breause an ordinance providing for the work would never receive the support of the Hyde Park members, because they insist on including portions of the Fifth and Fifteenth wards.

An ordinance providing for flagston sidewalks and paved gutters on Pine street, between Monroe and Quincy avenues, and an ordinance for the construction of a sewer on Washington
