THE SISTER UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION

Miss Susan E. Dickinson on the Stand During the Greater Part of Saturday.

WILL GO ON AGAIN THIS MORNING

Attorney Hodge is Making a Very Searching Inquiry Into the Relations That Existed Between the Two Sisters for Several Years Before Anna Was Sent to Danville.

At 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon the Anna Dickinson case was continued in the circuit court until 10 o'clock this morning when it will be resumed before Judge Acheson.

Miss Susan Dickinson was on the stand under direct examination when court adjourned Friday afternoon, but when court met Saturday she was not recalled to the stand until after Thos. E. Barlow, assistant district attorney of Philadelphia, and the legal member of the committee on the part of the State Board of Charities had been heard.

She said that an electrician named Mr. Hall called to treat Anna's face a number of times in January, 1891. On Monday the plaintiff sent her maid, Martha, to Hall's six times for his bill, and when Mr. Hall brought the receipt about 5 o'clock in the evening, Anna said she knew the receipt was worthless.

Anna asked her on one occasion if she remembered when they went to see the last Whittier at his home in New England. Susan said she did and then Anna remarked that Whittier was a wicked old man.

Anna asked Martha to bring her a lamp, but witness refused to allow the maid to comply with the order. Anna insisted that there were persons in the attic and she wanted the lamp to go up there.

Witness then explained how Anna choked her on one occasion when she went to her room to get some trays on which food had been carried to Anna. She told Martha to go and get some one and the maid soon returned with Young Eggleston.

Witness then explained how Anna choked her on one occasion when she went to her room to get some trays on which food had been carried to Anna. She told Martha to go and get some one and the maid soon returned with Young Eggleston.

ON CROSS-EXAMINATION. The cross-examination of the witness by Attorney Hodge was very searching. She said that some of the money to pay the rent while they lived in West Pittston was furnished by General Ben Butler, who was one of Anna's warm friends and frequently visited them at their home.

"Were you ever jealous of your sister?" asked Attorney Hodge. "No; I was very proud of her, and did all I could to help her. I did all I could for her until she had to go out of public life."

"Who caused her to go out, you or she?" "She did, she went out of her mind."

"Part of the services you rendered to your sister in Philadelphia was entertaining persons in your home, friends of her?" "Yes; many public men professed both friendship and admiration for Anna."

Witness said her sister was intimately acquainted with Whitelaw Reid. Mr. Hodge tried to get from the witness the admission that Mr. Reid proposed marriage to Anna and was fitted, but court ruled that such testimony was not admissible.

"It was true that there was hardly a man in the country whom your sister did not know?" "That is pretty sweeping. She knew a great many."

"It was she who single-handed and alone defended General Butler when the entire northern press attacked him because of his conduct at New Orleans, and it was she who cleared him of that imputation?" "Yes."

HER SISTER'S DELUSIONS. "Can you state any delusions your sister had?" "I thought it was one when she said Charles Dudley Warner had stolen articles which he was publishing over his name in Harpers, from letters of hers written from Colorado years before."

"They were largely embodied in a book of her's entitled 'A Ragged Register'?" "Yes."

"They could have been taken from that?" "She didn't say so; she said they were stolen from her letters."

"When you found your sister was insane it was a shock to you?" "Don't put that word 'insane' in my mouth. I never used it. I said she was out of her mind. The next delusion was when she said her lawyers were in a conspiracy against her. She was discussing with Mr. Slaton about going on the stage, and then she charged that he was in a conspiracy with that committee. I thought it a delusion when she said every woman in the country who was before the public was in a conspiracy to keep her down."

ALL ARE AT SEA AS TO THE COUNCILS

Impossible to Forecast What the Morning Will Bring Forth.

ESTIMATES ORDINANCE DOOMED

That is, It is Doomed if Both Sides Persist in the Determination They Expressed Yesterday—Some Surmises and Surveys and One or Two Deductions—Way the Reorganization Was Viewed Yesterday from Both Sides.

No one, last night, could forecast with any degree of certainty what the outcome of this morning's work of councils will be. If all men were given to telling the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, about not only the present changes of sentiment, it might be possible for a live newspaper after some real hard canvassing to make a fairly accurate guess as to the possible results, but as men are not as a rule sitting up nights musing any such conditions, an accurate forecast of purpose, the forecasting of an event or series of events such as those scheduled for today, is, as said before, a rather rash undertaking.

The events most especially surrounded with uncertainty are the treatment that will be accorded the annual appropriation ordinance and the manner in which the reorganization of common council will be effected. The Democrats, or those who are recognized as such, are of the opinion that the old common council will not meet again and that the Republican select branch must shoulder its objectionable amendments or shoulder the responsibility of killing the bill, which is the duty of the lower branch and that possibly a surprise will be sprung in the shape of a winning candidate for the chair in the upper branch.

The Republicans are of the opinion that the Democrats are acting like so many children rather than city fathers burdened with the responsibilities of the government of the third city in the commonwealth. They also declare that if common council does not fail to pass the amendments, the ordinance will die, as the select council is not to be forced into denying itself the prerogative of legislating as it may deem fit, through any baby tactics of the Democratic lower branch.

CHARACTERIZED AS ROT. Defection in the Republican ranks in the upper branch is characterized as the veriest rot, and as to the probable election of Mr. Nealis, they say—well, they say nothing; but they smell a very mysterious kind of smell. By carefully reading the above unbiased survey of the situation, folding up the paper and putting it away until you get to the full knowledge of the result.

Interviews with various members of the Democracy of the lower branch disclose their intention to religiously adhere to the determination to defeat the council chamber until the hour for reorganization, 9 o'clock. They will meet at John Flanagan's Globe hotel, and not because they distrust one another, but simply as a matter of extra precaution, will lock themselves in a room and stay there until about ten minutes of the time for reorganization. At the caucus Friday night every one of the Democrats of the dining-room, as they claim, dead-council promised to stick together in this agreement.

One of them, however, Mr. Gilroy, refused to bind himself further. Mr. Nealis assaulted and insulted him at the last reorganization and used all the power of his eloquence to defeat him for re-election in February, and he openly and above board refuses to support him for chairman. Whether or not Mr. Gilroy can be depended upon to peacefully submit to be ridden over rough shod by his opponent is a mortal question is another question that, if answered to the satisfaction of the Nealis people, would relieve them of much trepidation.

Mr. Grier did not come into line of his own accord. He was warned in a courteous way which is to be withdrawn if he will allow himself to be handled by his enemies. The Democrats themselves confess that they are not overly sanguine of the wily Grier, who twice before gave them some charming treatment in a contest which he was to defeat. The fact that the Nealis people and the interests at their command went into Grier's ward and tried to beat him, and falling in this, instigated a contest to frighten him into line, would lead to a mortal question is another question that, if answered to the satisfaction of the Nealis people, would relieve them of much trepidation.

A COLD BLOODED DEED.

Mrs. Louise Lyman and Son Held to Answer It at Court.

Mrs. Louise Lyman and her son, Rippen, of 612 Elyon street, were arrested Saturday morning charged with a crime which is somewhat new and also somewhat cold blooded. The two are charged with an attempt to smother a whole family.

Monday night a member of the Schmeisser family was awakened by a suffocating sensation and found the house filled with smoke. The whole family was aroused and a search for the cause was made. The chimney had been blocked and upon investigation a bag filled with rags was drawn out.
