BISPHAM-GREGOROWITSCH CONCERT.

One of the best pleased audiences tha er gathered in a place of entertainment Scranton, last evening occupied the rothingham upon the occasion of the Bispham-Gregorowitsch concert. From the moment of its welcome of Mr. Bispham, who had already established himself as a local idel, to its parting token of appre-ciation of the young Russian violinist, this audience was in a veritable ecstacy of de-light, and let pass no opportunity to emphasize its gratitude to the artists of the vening.

The programme brought Mr. Bispham upon the stage first, and the honest cor-diality of his reception served as a fitting preface to his superb baritone singing of four serious songs by Brahms-songs based on Biblical excerpts and treating of some of the profoundest moods of hu-man nature. The singer's interpretation was more than masterly; it was inspiring. A sermon in a cathedral could not have been more intimate in its approach to the recesses of the soul, and there was added solemnity to this song series by reason of the recent death of their composer. At only one other time during the even-ing did the artist in Mr. Bispham exhibit with equal power, and that was in the rendition of Schubert's "Der Erl Konig"— a blend of lyric with dramatic perfection the like of which it is safe to say has never been heard in this city, and which would alone have sufficed to make the conert memorable.

The remainder of Mr. Bispham's numbers was somewhat lighter in sentiment, but to each mood and phase of thought and feeling he carried the sympathetic voice and manner of the finished artist, whose art is so rich and true and so ripe with individual genius that it baffles critielsm or the attempt to analyze it, and calls simply for silent surrender. If he charmed us upon the occasion of his ntroductory visit, it is not putting it too nthusiastically to say that his second advent has taken Scranton captive, and ome hereafter will know no reserva-

With much interest the audience last evening awaited its first glimpse of the Rus-sian violin virtuose, Mr. Gregorowitsch. When he bowed his first greeting it saw a somewhat stocky young man, with massive chin, dark hair and the traditional features of his race. But when it heard the first pure tone of the bow upon his singularly sweet and velvety instrument, and listened for the fraction of a minute to the first of the Wieniawski Russian airs, as they leaped from his strings in rystalline darts and flashes of melody, I came aware that here, too, was an ar ist and a master. It isn't possible for the writer of this notice to speak with any knowledge of the violin, but a comparison of Gregorowitsch with the more familiar premiers on this instrument would, we think, quickly establish his claim to rank well toward the very front. He limited his part of last evning's programme to wild and weird and rregular airs; only in the Bach number lid he undertake to give any hint of his musical scholarship. But it may readily be credited that the performer who can elicit from his instrument the wealth and range and indescribable sweetness of tone and effect which Gregorowitsch ilicited last evening is also worthy to interpret, On this occasion the artists brought with them each his own accompanist. The ally of Mr. Gregorowitsch was Mr. Fazer, and of Mr. Bispham, Mr. Riesberg. The latter especially displayed proficiency and intelligence of a high order, and in the acompaniment to the "Erl King" laid claim Ballentine for this third opportunity of exceptional pleasure in one season the music-lovers of Scranton are most certain-ly indebted.

HE MISSED SIX DOLLARS.

C. M. Brush Says It Was Taken from His Pocket.

Mary C. Knapp was arrested last evening at 9 o'clock by Constable E. Yeomans on a charge of "taking $6 from the trouser's pocket of C. M.

Bush. The trouble brewed in a dwelling house on Wyoming avenue a few hours before the arrest last evening. After Mrs. Knapp was arrested it was found that there were plenty of witnesses to contradict his charge. He was at work as a painter in the Knapp house yesterday and witnesses say he was under the influence of liquor. He gave Mrs. Knapp $6. Later he charged her with stealing the money.

Mrs Knapp was taken before Alderman Howe, where she was allowed to go for a further hearing this morning.

LANE'S NEW HOTEL.

It Will Open Today -- Many Improvements Made--Everything Up to Date in Furnishings,

Mr. T. J. Lane, who has been engaged in business in this city for two decades, and who has successfully conducted the 'Hub" for nearly half of that time, will open his new hotel at 318 and 320 Spruce street today. In his new quarters, Mr. Lane will be better prepared than ever to serve his guests, as all the nodern improvements have been added to the new place of business. Everything is new and up-to-date in furnishings and decorations. The barroom and cafe have also been handsomely renovated and remodelled, and are considered the neatest and best equipped rooms in the city. In fact, Mr. Lane has left nothing undone that would add to the attractiveness and beauty of the hotel. Regarding the solids and liquids to be dispensed, Mr. Lane has the reputation of always handling only the best goods in the market, and he intends to hold that reputation. He is a thorough business man and is acknowledged by those who know him as being one of our progressive and enterprising citizens.

ELECTS OFFICERS

Last Night. IMPORTANT MATTERS DISCUSSED

B. Holmes is the New President of the Organization and Joseph E. Oliver, Secretary -- Vote of Thanks

Tendered to the Retiring Secretary, Alfred Twining .- Effort Made to Secure Land for Manufactories. Elever of the active members of the West Side board of trade met last even-ing for the last time in the directors' room of the West Side bank. Officers for the year were elected as follows: A. E. Holmes, president; Dr. P. F. Struppler, vice-president; William Farrell, treasurer: Joseph E. Oliver, secretary. Alfred Twining leaves the secretaryship with the thanks of the board and the West Side public which it represents. Mr. Twining has made a faithful official, watchful, courteous and active in advancing the interests of this section. His successor, Joseph E. Cliver, is entirely capable.

President E. M. Clarke was in the chair. Secretary Twining read the minutes of the last meeting and under the reports of committees Mr. Oliver mentioned that the Southern Hyde Park rewer ordinance bad been killed councils. He stated to the board that the sewers and drainage committee had been authorized to act on a new ordinance.

NEW PHASE OF SEWER QUESTION The meeting was arranged for last Friday night but owing to the Democratic caucus only five of the ten mem bers were present. City Solicitor Torrey stated at the committee meeting that it was perhaps just as well that the ordinance was defeated as a recent decision of the supreme court had placed a new phase to the sewer question. It was decreed that property helders, whose properties do not abutt immediate upon the sewer trunk are not liable for any expense or tax therefor. Mr. Oliver also explained City Solicitor Torrey's plan for sewer building which is noted in another column.

Mr. Morse asked that the board draft a resolution for the use of the Fifth ward councilmen in an effort to have sewer basins placed in the Fifth ward. The basins are needed to catch the water that sweeps down Jackson street hill and floods to Main avenue. motion, the secretary was instructed to prepare a resolution.

George Brown's barnyard on the sidewalk on Robinson street came up for discussion. Councilman Nealis has into the contests some of the very best promised to compel Mr. Brown to keep off the sidewalk.

OPENING DIVISION STREET.

Mr. Morse stated that the people of the far end of Division street are talking of getting up a petition to be presented to councils for the opening of Division street between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets. The matter will come up before the board at the next meeting.

Concerning the wished for donation of land for the manufacturers that may seek to establish on this side, the board at its last meeting rent requests to several of the big land owners here and two responses were read by Secretary Twining last night. One was from John T. Richards, representing the Fairview Park Land company. The ter said that the compa land "to donate," but is willing to sell. The language used was "satisfactory arrangements." The other response The other respons was from A. T. Heiser, agent for the Pettebone estate, which controls land in the northern Keyser valley region. Mr. Heiser stated that he was unaware of any intent by Robert Pettebone to donate any land. He will bring the matter before him, however. Mr.

Pettebone is now in California. George B. Carson was elected to membership. It was decided that hereafter $1 will be the initiation fee of members admitted to the board. There was further discussion on the matter of finances. The opening of the land known as Tripps in the northern section makes the board mear that Tripps' woods, which is now needed for a public jark will be secrificed for building purposes. Investigation with a view to preventing this will be made. Mr. Oliver made some statements in reference to the damages which follow the establishment of public improvements. He averred that in some instances the damages were ten times as great as the cost of the improvements. "No wonder," he said, "that councils are making such a decided stand."

A. B. Holmes, Alfred Twining and W. R. Williams were appointed a committee to secure new meeting rooms, as the bank directors are going to remodel the present quarters. The election of officers then took place as given above. H. D. Jones and William Farrell were tellers. The meeting was very spirited.

DEMOCRATS GET TOGETHER.

Elect a State Committeeman and Listen to Editor Johnson.

The Democratic county committee met at the St. Charles ho.el last evening and unanimously re-elected M. J. Cadden, of Green Ridge, as state committeeman from this district.

When the business had been dis sed of, the assemblage listened to the reading of a highly interesting paper on "Democracy," by C. Ben Johnson, associate editor of the Sunday News, Mr. Johnson, as his wont, said many new and original things, among them that at no time since the war had Democracy declared its real, true and pristine position until the Chicago platform was sent forth to the world. On motion of County Secretary D. J. Reedy, Mr. Johnson was tendered a rousing vote of thanks for his address.

east side of the crossing the conductor, as is customary, ran ahead to look for danger. The crossing gates were up and no approaching train could be seen. The conductor gave the "all right" signal to the motorman and the car was put in motion. The first or north track was cleared and the front of the car was projecting over the west track when the tender of a speeding engine appeared in the gloom not fifteen feet away. The motorman reversed the power and shot the car backkard the engine missing the platform by a foot, At the same time the engine bell for the first time began to ring and the ding, dong of the gate bells showed that the gate tender had awakened to the situation

The east gate in descending almost cut the car off from escape. As the engine was backing the headlight could not be seen by neither conductor or gate-tender and no bell was ringing. The car was crowded with passengers,

WORKMAN'S SAD MISTAKE.

Caused Death of Joseph Sinlinskie in the Heidelberg Colliery.

Early yesterday morning a fatal acident occurred at No. 2 slope, Heidelberg colliery, of the Lehigh Valley company, near Smithville. Joseph Sidlinskie, with a number of miners, were descending the shaft in the carriage and were about to alight at the foot when one of the miners, thinking that the carriage was empty, gave the signa! to hoist.

Sidlinskie felt the carriage move upward. In an instant he was forced against a beam, his skull fractured and the body precipitated to the foot, where it was found by his comrades. When taken to his boarding house the body was refused admission, and they were obliged to give it over to Undertaker Ruoff, of Pittston. An inquest will be held this afternoon.

THE COMMISSIONERS AND THE CONSTABLES

Case-Stated to Settle Their Differences on the Fee Bill,

AN AMBIGUOUS MEASURE

The Commissioners Want a Local Interpretation of the Bill and for This Reason Consented to an Amicable Action -- Richard Barron, President of the Constables' Association is Plaintiff and the County, Detendant in the Proceedings.

To settle for ence and all the disputed clauses of the ambiguous constables' fee bill a case stated has been agreed to between the Lackswanna County Constables association on the one hand and the county commissioners on the Richard Barron, constable of Dickson City, who is president of the association, is made plaintiff and the county is named as defendant.

The principal matters in controversy between the parties are the clauses referring to mileage and the serving of subpoenas. The constables claim they are entitled to fifty cents for each name that appears upon the subpoena. The commissioners interpret the fee bill to read that fifty cents is to be allowed for serving the subpoena and fifteen cents additional for each name thereon after the first. There is also a differ-ence of opinion as to when "straight" and "circular" mileage is to be allowed, the constables contending that they should be paid for going and coming in serving a subpoena and the commis-sioners holding that "circular" mileage is to be charged only in particular cases stipulated in the fee bill. There are also other minor variances, which it is proposed to have settled.

The case selected as a test is one in which Constable Parron served the papers and which through the operations of the insolvency laws the county was compelled to settle for. It was the case of the commonwealth against Emily Drygalla, who was charged by Mary Rock with assault and battery. was arrested by Barron and held for court by Justice of the Peace John Slurnski, of Dickson City. The grand fury ignored the bill and placed the costs on the prosecutrix. She pleaded insolvency and in consequence the county was mulcted for the costs.

Constable Parron fixes his charges in this case as follows: Serving subpoena containing four names, $2; mileage, seven miles each day, $1.40; serving warrant, $1. The commissioners will contend that he is entitled to only 95 cents for serving the subpoena and 70 cents at the most for mlleage. Carpenter & Fleitz are attorneys for the constables. County Solicitor H. A. Knapp represents the commissioners

HIS ADVERTISEMENTS COMMENDED. Criticism of Brains on the Work of George E. Pryor.

The following criticism of advertisements written by George E. Pryor, of this city, for Rexford, Samter Brothers and Schank & Spencer, and published in The Tribune, appeared in "Brains" in its issue of April 10:

"The august crockery advertisements, and those that appeared last month especially, show decided ability. You are clever at writing headlines and seem to have good ideas about display. The locals are well disguised without wearing too thick a mask. I can see reason why you should not succeed. All of your advertisements are particularly attractive. Either you or your printer knows something about advertisement setting. I congratulate you.

less of the glasses for nearly 48 hours may precipitate a serious suit against Richmond. The case is made more stable in the fact that Mr. Foster, father of the boy, is determined to secure a finding on several points—one for damages, another to test the rate of charge on tell gates, to see whether the toll keeper can demand a forfeit and to assail the right of the owners of the road to charge toll.

Mr. Foster, father of the boy, swore out a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Richmond. The case was heard last evening before Alderman Howe Mrs. Richmond admitted the facts. She gave up the spectacles on the payment of five cents by Mr. Pester. She was held in $200 ball to appear at court.
