THE SCRANTON TRIBUNE-FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 23, 1897.

AN INITIAL SUPPER.

Served by Ladies' Aid Society of Simpson M. E. Church.

The Ladies' Aid of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church served an initial supper in the church parlors last evening. The ladies were those whose names were initialed by the letters L-M. The supper was served from 6 until 8, after which an informal reception was tendered the pastor, Rev. J. B. Sweet and wife.

The reception was an informal affair in honor of his return as pastor to the church. Between six and eight hundred people greeted the genial minister, not only members of the congregation but many of outside friends.

BOOK RECEPTION.

St. Leo's book reception held at their rooms last evening in St. David's hall was a decided success. The Battalion was the recipient of over 350 volumes, in the majority choice ones. This number will, no doubt, be augmented, as many have signified their intention of sending in a book but wished to avoid duplication. Among the many other gifts two in particular demand some mention namely: The set of Irving and Goldsmith's works, given by Clarke Bros., and the beautiful two volume edition of Shakespeare's complete works, presented by Charles H. Schudt and his office employes. The work was bound in full morocco with gilt edges. John Gaffney, of this side, presented this most acceptable gift on behalf of the givers. Following the reception the St. Leo's and their ladies went to the hall proper and after a short programme of exercises, enjoyed a dance for which Leo Crossin furnished music, Michael Hennigan acting as prompter. Following is the programme as rendered: Remarks by Chairman Thomas Gilroy; declamation, by William Gilroy; vocal solo, Miss Williams; recitation, Miss Elizabeth Gerrity; vocal solo, Miss Murphy; plano solo, Leo Crossin: duct, Miss Laughney and B. J. Quinan. The books were enclosed in a handsome quartered oak book case, The St. Leo's Battalion number over 200 members.

BENJAMIN LEWIS' FUNERAL.

The funeral of the late Benjamin Lewis, of 320 North Hyde Park avenue, were held yesterday afternoon in the First Welsh Congregational church. The auditorium of the church was taxed in seating capacity by the large attendance of those who took this opportunity of showing their respect for the deceased. The Slocum lodge, Inde-pendent Order of Odd Fellows, No. 305, and the Diamond Mine Accilental fund sent a large repres ntation to the services. The floral offerings were beautiful and choice, Rev. David Jones, pastor, eulogized the memory of the dead man in a touching address in which he dwelt upon the many rich characteristics which had been in evidence throughout the deceased's life and his companionship with his family and friends. Rev. Davis, of Providence, also spoke in a loving way of the dead. After the services, the body was borne to the Washburn street cemetery where the Slocum lodge conducted the burial ceremony and Mr. Lewis was laid at rest. The following acted as pallbearers: John X. Davis, James Harris, from the church; Richard H. Williams, Reese Griffiths, Samuel Rogers, William P. Jones, from the lodge. William Phillips and J. Jenkins, were flower bearers.

ed by the Misses Llly and Agnes Joseph, Anna Mathlas, and Lillian Rey-noids, helped materially by singing several pleasing selections. Miss Anna B. Williams was accompanist and John T. Jones acted as chairman. day.

ASSAULTED BY A BOARDER.

Charles Connors, of 130 Robinson street, who keeps a boarding house was assaulted and severely beaten by one of his boarders, John Jordan, yes terday morning. The two men were seated at a table in one of the rooms drinking beer and discussing general topics. An altercation upon some point in the argument followed and resulted in a struggle between them. Patrolman J. D. Thomas was called in and arrested Jordan and placed him in the station house. At a preliminary hearing at which Connors was unable to appear against his assaflant, Jordan was remanded for another hearing this morning.

AN OLD MAN'S MISFORTUNES.

Injured Twice in as Many Days and Then Pneumonia Set In.

H. V. Jones, aged 72 years, died early vesterday morning at the Lackawanna nospital, where he has been a patient for the past two weeks. The last few days of Jones' long life were anything but a path of roses. On or about April 1 he fell and fractured his arm. Dr. S. "Hor; "America," orchestra; selection, P. Longstreet set the break. Two days afterward as Jones was walking down Spruce street he slipped on an orange peel and again fell to the sidewalk. He sustained a severe cut on the back of his head and was found senseless by Lieutenant Davis.

After he had recovered the old man vas taken to the Lackawanna hospital. The cut on the head was not of much consequence, but the advanced age of Jones and the further weakening of his body caused by the broken arm and bruise were too much and pneumonia was developed.

From this disease he died yesterday and his emaclated body was taken to the undertaking establishment of William Price on the West Side, where friends assumed charge of them. Jones had no home and his character was eccentric.
