GREAT HORNED TOAD.

Paculiar and Interesting Animal Received by Nathan English. Nathan English, of Belmont street, says the Herald, was the recipient of a package a few days ago. When he opened the case he saw the queerest sort of an animal he had ever beheld. A note accompanied the package from his son, who lives at Del Royal, Tex. The queer little animal is a horned toad. It has the form of an ordinary toad, save that its head is more pointed and erect, and across its head back of the eyes is a row of horns. Those at the ends and a little lower than the eyes are the largest, almost half an inch in length. It also has a large sized tall, which is wide and flat at the body. It is covered with theth like processes, which serve as weapons of defense for the little animal. It is of a very pretty color. Its back is a dark brown, with light spots, and its under side is flat like a turtle and of a very light brown color.

With its warlike attitude as it struts about its cage, with head and tall erect, the toad is exceedingly attractive. Mr. English says it cannot live in this cold climate and he has some fine sand that was shipped with it. It has to be warmed about three times a day so the little animal will have the accustomed heat of the plains of Texas.

> A case was heard before Justice of the Peace Helmes yesterday, between George Olver, of Carbondale, and Frank R. Carey, which lasted for several hours. Carey had a warrant issued for the arrest of Olver for the recovery of $50 damages done to his property. Olver, who is a carpenter, repaired Mr. Carey's house and built two new porches on same. Mr. Olver at the same time contracted with Carey for the right of selling certain medicines which are manufactured by Carey, in Wayne county. He took some medicine, but not enough to cancel the other debt, and some two weeks ago sent Carey a bill for $38.54, and requested payment on same. Cares claims that Olver agreed to repair the house and stop, all leakings, but did not live up to his contract, as in severe storm the rain penetrates through the building. ## GLADSTONE'S ENGLISH.

An Alleged Bull Made by the Great Commoner of England.

A correspondent of the Sun thinks he detects a capital "bull' in Mr. Gladstones recent arraignment of the pow ers for their conduct toward Greece The alleged slip is in this passage: "What is the upshot of all this? That 18,000,000 of human beings who a centurg ago, peopling a large part of the Turkish empire, were subject to its at once paralyzing and degrading yoke are now as free from it as if they were inhabitants of these islands."

The correspondent adds: Unless Mr Gladstone explains it away, there remains his remarkable discovery that Griffiths at Dorranceton was burglar- today there may be found in Southized on Tuesday evening.
