Rumors of an Impending Cabinet Crisis at Athens.

Bombardment of Salonica by the Eastern Fleet 1s Expected -- The Inhabitants of Jania Are Alarmed at the Rapid Advance of the Greeks. Story of the Retreat from Larissa. Greeks Resist Desperate Attacks of the Turkish Troops. kill him.

New York, April 26 .- No more engagements between the Turkish and Greek forces are reported this evening, but further news of the retreat from Larissa shows that it was a disastrous rout. Edhem Pasha, on the field, the Greeks had abandoned, declared "It is finished." Large quantities of military stores were captured by the Turks. In anticipation of their failure to resist the Tur', advance at Pharsalos, it is repay of that the Greeks propose to matte a last stand at classic Thermopy lae. The bombardment of Salonica by the eastern Greek fleet is said to b imminent, while Edhem Pasha is expected to attack Volo, now crowded with Greek refugees. In the west, the inhabitants of Janina are alarmed at the near prospect of the Greeks' advance, and a force has been sent to check the insurgent Albanians. In Athens the excitement is high, and there are rumors of an impending Cabient crisis.

he very centre of the Greek camp. When day light appeared not a Greek was visible. The Greek position on Mount Shabana, commanding the mouth of the pass, alone was defended; but the resistance there was feeble, as the occurants already knew that the army had fled. About one hundred prisoners were taken by the Turks. The Associated Press correspondent saw a Greek taken, trembling and scarcely able to stand before a Turkish officer whom he begged not to The officer replied "We do not kill prisoners of war." The Train is Made Up of Seven Cars. President Thompson's Private Car Among the Number and Occupied by Mr. McKinley and Party -- President McKinley Receives Members of the Reception Committee on Board a Ferry Boat--Large Crowds Gather at the Depot to Catch a Glimpse of the President.

New York, April 26.-President Mc-Kinley with Mrs. McKinley and his cabinet, Mrs. Grant and her family and a company of official personages, including the ambassadors, ministers and attaches of the diplomatic corps and high officers of the army and navy were transported from Washington to New York today in a special train of the Pennsylvania railroad to participate in the ceremonies at the tomb of General Grant. The trip was a rapid one and entirely uneventful, the train running as smoothly as railroad travel could be imagined. It left Washington at 10.30 and steamed into Jersey City depot at 17 minutes after 3 o'clock. stopping only at Wilmington for a moment and at Gray's Ferry, a suburb of Philadelphia, where a change of engines was made. From Jersey City the party was conveyed across the river to the foot of 23rd street, there to be ushered into carriages and escorted in procession by a detachment of cavalry, sailors and police to the Fifth Avenue hotel.

Seven cars made up the train. The private car of President Frank Thomson of the Pennsylvania, at the end of the train, was given to the presidential party. It was handsomely embellished with roses, and in it were President McKinley, Mrs. McKinley, Mrs. Saxton (Mrs. McKinley's aunt), Secretary John

As soon as the presi-dent was settled in his headquarters he sent for the reception committee, thanked them for their management of the trip and talked with them for half an hour. During the remainder of the journey he conversed with members of the cabinet and diplomats who came to the car to pay their respects. Mrs. McKinley wore a gray costume, the one in which she had traveled from Canton to Washington. She bore the journey well, amusing herself part of the time with knitting. Several hundred people were gathered in the depot and on the car tops in the railroad yards at Wilmington and the president bowed from the car window in response to their cheers. When the train pulled up at the end of its journey General Horace Porter gave an arm to the president and then and there the much mooted question of ambassadorial precedence was solved by Mr. Chauncey Depew, who took the arm of Sir Julian Panuncefote and walked after President McKinley. Between the lines of police and blue coated sailors the company marched to the ferry boat, where carriages were aligned on the lower deck to take them from the opposite dock to their hotels. On board the boat the president received all the members of the reception committee and then stood on the lower deck, ab-entire trip had been pleasantly uneventful and the senators and representatives seemed almost loath to leave the cars. Vice President Hobart and Mrs. Hobart walked at the head of the procession through the small crowd on the platform to the curriages which were waiting for them. Then they were driven on board the Jersey Central ferryboat Fanwood and landed at Twenty-third street, this city, whence they were driven to their respective stopping places. Those who managed the transportation facilities today were S. B. Hege, district passenger agent of the Baltimore and Ohio, in Washington; E. V. Skinner, of the New Jersey Central, and their assistants,
