DISCHARGED A REVOLVER

William Matthews, a Young Man Who Lives on South Garfield Avenue, Alarms the Neighborhood.

Yesterday morning between 8 and 9 o'clock the residents in the vicinity of 120 South Garfield avenue, were startled by the report of a pistol shot heard in the home of William Matthews at that number. Mr. Matthews, sr., had gone to his work and there remained in the house Mrs. Matthews and her two sons, William, aged 21 years, and a younger lad between 12 and 13 years of age.

For about six or seven weeks the elder son has been out of work and at times became very despondent over his future to secure employment. Yesterday morning the mother had occasion to reprimand the younger son and William evidently believed his mother meant the chastisement for him. Without any word of warning he went into an adjoining room and took from a bureau drawer a .22-calibre revolver, which contained one cartridge, and discharged it. Whether the act was done with suicidal intent is not known, as the young man refused to make any statement. The mother became alarmed and dispatched messenger for Dr. Comegys, who examined the young man and found him suffering from nervous prostration. There was no evidence that he had injured himself, although he fell in a fit after the revolver was discharged. A thorough investigation of the room failed to reveal any evidence of the shooting, which strengthens the belief that the revolver contained a blank cartridge.

Young Matthews formerly worked for John Reese, the South Main avenue grocer, and came into possession of the weapon while in his employ. George, a son of Mr. Reese, heard Matthews say he would like to possess a revolver when delivering goods in lonely places and the revolver was given him by young Reese at that time.

Matthews has been subject to hysteria for some time, and his parents believe that he was suffering from a temporary aberration, when he took the revolver out and discharged it.

RUN DOWN BY A BICYCLE.

A Six-Year-Old Boy Injured on Robinson Street.

Several small boys were playing base ball yesterday afternoon on Robinson street near Lombardi's court, and they did not seem to mind the vehicles and bicycles that are continually passing that way. A young man endeavoring to bring to the center city on his wheel shortly after the noon hour, and saw the boys playing in the street, and rang his bell, but the boys did not heed the warning. Just as the rider approached a boy standing near the street car track, he was horrified to see the lad turn and run directly in front of the wheel.

One of the boys had thrown the ball to the little fellow, who in turn missed catching it, and in his endeavor to recover the sphere did not heed the ringing bell and ran into the bicycle. The collision resulted in the rider being thrown from his wheel and receiving several bodily bruises while the boy's head was cut open by coming in contact with the pavement. The wheelman quickly recovered himself and hastened to the office of Dr. F. C. Hall, while the injured lad was taken into a nearby house.

Upon investigation it was found that the boy sustained an ugly scalp wound and was severely shaken up.
