JERMYN.

In 1893 the Jermyn and Rushbrook Water company dammed Hart lake in order to increase their supply of water and by doing this caused the water to flow over portions of the adjoining farms, consequently a series of suits have ensued against the Water company for damages. The last case was that of Mrs. A. L. McLaughlin vs. Jermyn and Rushbrook Water company en an action in trespass on lands of plaintiff. Mrs. McLaughlin alleges that the damming of the lake has overflowed about one-half acre of her land and damaged a valuable spring to the tmourt of $500. The viewers recently appointed by court were Messrs, J. W. Carpenter, H. A. Coursen, George Leighton, G. L. Newton and H. L. Hallstend to assess the damage to plaintiff. They viewed the property and were in session in Edmunds' hall yesterday to hear testimony pertaining to the case. The day was taken up in hearing witnesses for the plaintiff until 4 o'clock, when they adjourned to meet Thursday, May 20, in arbitration room at Scranton to finish hearing testimony. The attorneys in the case were George D. Taylor for plaintiff, and Charles H. Welles and H. D. Carey on part of defendants.

The Delaware and Hudson company have commenced preparations for the erection of a new boiler house at the breaker.
