PASTOR JONES' TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Celebration by the Members of His Congregation Last Night.

RECEIVED MANY VALUABLE GIFTS

An Entertainment Was Given as a Part of the Anniversary Observance. A Feature of the Occasion Was a Talk Which the Rev. Mr. Jones Delivered More Especially to the Young People of His Church.

A large number of the members and friends of the members of the Welsh Tabernacle church greeted the Rev. D. P. Jones last evening at the church, when the tenth anniversary of the beginning of his pastorate was celebrated.

REV. D. JONES.

The exercises were opened with singing by the congregation and the offering of prayer by David H. Roberts, followed by remarks from Chairman Richard E. Thomas. The main part of the evening was then spent by the giving of short addresses upon the different phases of church life.

The exercises were opened with singing by the congregation and the offering of prayer by David H. Roberts, followed by remarks from Chairman Richard E. Thomas. The main part of the evening was then spent by the giving of short addresses upon the different phases of church life.

These numbers were well received and encored, as was the instrumental selection by Robert Stennier. The presentation of the handsome gift to the pastor was made by Mrs. Brooks in behalf of the ladies, and Mr. Reese for the gentlemen, in a happy manner. They were responded to by the pastor in a short, witty address, in which he expressed his agreeable surprise and hearty appreciation of their kindness.

Rev. Mr. Jones delivered an address to the young people, during which he spoke as follows:

I have a desire to talk with our young people from a special point of view that may give them an opportunity, as well as to all in the congregation, to realize that we are tenants of time and subjects to the years that are swiftly going by. Day and night we are moving restlessly upon the great ocean of time. Where we are going is of no doubt, because our home is in the hereafter. While on the voyage of life we cannot make a stop, even for one moment. "Gaining, gain," are the words that are ringing in the ears of young and old, and so it has been in the history of all nations from the commencement of the world. It is the way of God and it comes in harmony with the highest nature of man as an immortal being.

The fact that man is a tenant of time and that his home is in the world—that time is unknown—should help him to understand the meaning of the gospel of Christ. As the highest creature of God, man needs time and eternity to develop the richness of his nature. And the man that makes the best use of time and its opportunities cannot but glorify God for his existence and for the privilege of going through this world and its trials to his eternal home.

Some of you young people remember when I became the pastor of this church. It was ten years ago; they have gone swiftly, so that I am looking back to the Sabbath I preached in this tabernacle here as if it were a few days ago. Yet, we trust that they have not passed without having in their records some deeds that may help us to enjoy heaven and to glorify God in His Son Jesus Christ.

During the time we have been together we have seen many changes in this part of the city and within this church. Death has been here as a destroying angel, taking away fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters, of whom we have a strong hope that they are in heaven. In this respect the young are not with hands, prepared by Him for all who are in the love of God.

But, after all changes, we have reason to thank the Lord for His goodness towards us in His Providence and also in His divine grace. From those changes we should learn the lesson that God alone is unchangeable and that we should trust more in Him even than in the best of saints.

Let me give you an advice, my dear young people: Prepare yourselves to meet the changes of life. It is for you and I to know and to realize that changes are a part of man's life in this world. The path of life goes through the wilderness of changes.

The young and old that are in the love of God are one in Christ; that is, they are working together in the same spirit and for the same object of saving souls. In this respect the young and the older people of this tabernacle have done good work together in the past. You have worked as one in the love of God, and I trust that you will continue to do so in the future as well as in the past so as to be as David and Jonathan in all doings of the church.

It is my duty to let you know the love I have towards you as young people of this church and for the advancement of your souls in the grace of God and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. I feel it my duty to thank the Lord for so many young people faithful to their God and willing to do their best in behalf of His church in this place. May we help our young people to overcome all evil, the aim of my preaching to the young people has been to teach them the laws of God the love of Christ and their duties toward humanity; and, on the other hand, to show to them the grace of the gospel which enables them to be victors over every enemy that aims to destroy the honor of a good character.

The preaching has its bearing upon your characters to a great extent, and it seems to me that you have realized that life is worth to live, and to live even in trials and temptations of this world. The ministry of the gospel has been intended by God to teach the people the way of life and of the grace of God.

Let me give you an advice, my dear young people: Prepare yourselves to meet the changes of life. It is for you and I to know and to realize that changes are a part of man's life in this world. The path of life goes through the wilderness of changes.

stored in Christ in behalf of every man that has a wish to take hold of salvation in the Lord. The minister of Christ stands before God and the people and has to be faithful to his calling by his Master, to deliver the full message of the gospel, so that his name may be cleared from the blood of the unbelievers. By so doing, sometimes people are offended, being that the preachers endeavor to expose their iniquities before the congregation. Such things should not be the aim of any minister in the pulpit.

But a guilty conscience may be touched by a sermon that the minister had no thought of any exact person in the congregation to bear upon. The power of the gospel, as it is the word of God, cannot but disturb a guilty conscience when they consider it with each other. Yet I have not heard a word from our young people prying about the ministry; they are willing to their pastor to preach the whole gospel as it is in Christ. This is to your credit, my dear young people, and for my encouragement as your pastor in the future, if I may have the attention given to my sermons and exhortations, trusting that all shall be for our everlasting happiness.

THEY ARE ADVANCING. Allow me to say that you are advancing in your duties towards God and man. It seems to me that you comprehend the difference between life and death in a spiritual sense, because you are working in the church of God, and work signifies the power that moves man to love God and to do His will. The path that leads to a living Christ, the people that are believing in a living Saviour, are always pressing onwards and are blessed by God in His grace.

In regard to the future we cannot say but a little. The future is an unknown continent to the present, and yet we have to prepare for it by doing the best of the present and its opportunities.

These few thoughts; I wish you to keep them in mind during your time on earth: First—Keep your places within the Christian church, and in the love of the end of your days. Wherever the hand of Providence may lead you in this world, keep in the love of God and in the love of man. Do not be talking of fortune in this world; it is the greatest fortune that a young man may obtain in this world to be a life worker in the church of God. The young person that has made a start to be a Christian has the key of fortune in his hand, the temple of knowledge is open to him, and he has the right to take hold of life everlasting, which the world cannot give him.

Second—Think not that even the church of God in this world is without its troubles and trials. God is always faithful to His word and promises. But we are sinners, and it is from our sinfulness that the trouble comes now and then to the church. But as the church grows more and more in the truth and in the love of God, the trials of his heavenly Father, those same things are falling away, and the time shall come when the unity of saints on earth will be more like that of heaven. You young Christians should know this and trust always in doing your duty as God gives you the strength, whatever the difficulties may be among the children of God in His church in the present time.

THE HIGHEST MOTIVES. Third—May we all, young and old, feel it an honor to do our best for God and for our fellow men. He has been here during the past years, with an eye upon the glory of God, it will be for our benefit at the last judgment. Let us make it our aim to do the best of our ability in the future upon the same principle. It shall be a gem in the crown of glory given to the faithful. The glory of God should be the highest motive of every act of Christian people, and the society that is founded in the name of Christ, must be a blessing to the community, and it must be a branch of the true church of Christ that keeps the salvation of the world in its hands. "Days should speak and multitude of years should teach wisdom." Let them speak well of our doings as long as they are in the land of the living. Multitude of years should not go by without teaching wisdom to our souls. My dear young brothers and sisters, let us be united in the close of ten years of labor together, may we renew our vows to the Lord, "Forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

HAD A SOCIAL SESSION. The members of Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Board of Erin, and their friends who gathered in Co-operative hall last evening to hear Rev. Father D. J. MacGouldrick, of St. Thomas college, were disappointed because Father MacGouldrick was unable to address them. The members held an informal social. The programme was as follows: Remarks, M. H. Healey; instrumental solo, Michael Madden; solos by James Cannon, M. Dunningham and Matthew Malla; remarks, B. F. McCoy; solos, James Bolton and M. S. Lavelle; recitation, John McFerran; solos by Owen Dolan and Michael Madden; declamation, John McFerran; recitation, Michael Shannon; song and dance sketch, Michael Dunningham; recitation, Michael Reap; solos, James Cannon, M. E. Lavelle and Michael Reap. Thomas Tierney acted as chairman. Each number was it was creditably rendered was duly applauded by the large audience. Rev. MacGouldrick expects to be able to fill his engagement at an early date.

MINE ACCIDENTS. Thomas Hopkins, son of Evan Hopkins, of 1289 Eyon street, was badly injured in the Hampton mines by being kicked in the face by a mule. The lad is engaged as a driver and suffered a bad fracture of his upper and lower jaws.

Thomas Powell, of 1622 Lafayette street, was severely injured about his back and shoulders by the flying coil, resulting from a premature explosion. He is employed in the Diamond mine as a miner. The injured man was removed to his home and Dr. George R. Reynolds called to attend as a surgeon. He was much improved in condition at last reports, though his escape from sudden death was miraculous.

FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY. On Sunday morning, instead of the regular preaching service, the Sunday school of the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church will celebrate the fortieth anniversary of its history. It is expected that all of the former superintendents and class teachers who are alive and able to attend will be present and take part. One particular feature of the occasion will be the presentation of a fitting testimonial to Mr. Harry Krigbaum, who taught a class during the entire forty years and is still engaged in the service. In order to fitly celebrate such an auspicious occasion the following program has been arranged and will be in charge of Superintendent George L. Peck and
