ROCKAFELLOW CASE.

mportant Law Points Submitted by Attorney John T. Lenahan at the Sessions Yesterday.

Wilkes-Barre, May 7 .- In the Rockaellow case today John T. Lenahan, atorney for the defendant, offered several law points, the most important

If the jury find that with the knowledge of the representatives of the late co-partners, and with their permission Rockafellow acted in receiving deposits and conducting the banking business by way of settling up the affairs of the dissolved firm, he is to be taken as a liquidating partner; and if as such he actually received this money from depositors for the purpose of applying it to the payment of the obligations of the old or dissolved firm, the assets of the deceased partners in the hands of their representatives would be applicable to the payment of the liabilities incurred by the receipt of the depositors,

That if E. P. Darling left his capital in the banking firm after Blake's death and participated in the profits of the business as profits then his estate was liable for all the debts of the firm existing at his death on 19th October, 1889, and his executor had no right to withdraw the capital of E. P. Darling so long as such debts remained unpaid. As a matter of law, death dissolves upon between the partners, but if legatees leave the capital of their testator in the firm and share the profits of the ousiness as profits then such legatees are liable as partners for all the liabilities of the firm and in this case if the believe that Thomas Darling, Mary Darling and Emily C. Darling, legatees of E. P. Darling, deceased, were partners of the firm of F. V. Rockafellow & Co. on February 7, 1893 then the defendant cannot be convicted as the commonwealth has not shown that they were all insolvent at the time the bank closed its doors. If the jury believe that F. V. Rockafellow believed and had reasonable ground for his belief that Thomas Darling, Mary Darling and Emily C. Darling were partners with him and that he believed they were solvent then the defendant cannot be convicted whether they actually were partners or not. That the defendant cannot be convicted without the jury be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant had knowledge of the insolvency; that all the parties connected with the bank, the partners, were, at the time, insolvent

MAD DOG WAS BRAINED.

George Brain Slaughters a Rabid Cur with a Stone.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.
Forest City, May 7.—A dog that was thought to be suffering from hydrophobia was killed on South Main street by George Brain yesterday. The animal was running straight toward a little girl when first seen by Mr. Brain. He placed the child behind him, picked up a stone and walted until it was within a few feet of him, when he threw the missile with all his strength, striking the brute on the head and killing it instantly. The dog had been running loose all day, and is known to have bitten several other dogs, all of which have been killed excepting one. The authorities will see that this one is properly disposed of today.

THE NEGRO IN AFRICA.

He Is Nery Much Like the Negro in the Southern States. Poultney Bigelow in Harper's,

Whoever glances at successive maps of Africa must be struck by the rapidity with which names of territories have been changed within the last 300 years. It is, however, what one might reasonably expect from negroes incapable of self-control, living only for the gratification of momentary needs and leaving behind them absolutely no record of any achievement calculated to advance the cause of civilization When we hear by our firesides of negro wars we are apt to receive statements very much exaggerated and certainly calculated to make us feel that the negro can be a most daring and dangerous enemy. No doubt he is such for a short time and under extraordinary circumstances, but taken as a race there is no more gentle servant and companion than a properly treated

It has been my fortune to see something of him in the West Indies, in South America and in every state of the United States. Comparing that type of negro with the black man of South Africa as he appears between the Zambesi river and the Cape of Good Hope, I confess that I see very little difference. There are highly bred negroes in America, as well as lowbred ones, and as slaves we know that their price varied enormously on this account alone; but I am confident that played this (Saturday) afternoon with if a given number of negroes were the Great Bend club on the Keystone | picked up haphazard from the different portions of Africa, and then brought to Virginia or Louisiana dressed after the manner of American negroes, they would attract no more attention on the streets of New Orleans or Richmond than they do now along the Zambesi or the Caledon,

THE D.ARY BUSINESS.

Pays Only Seven Per Cent, on the Investment, So the Farmers Want a Trust. From the New York Sun.

"If, as they persistently declare, the dairy farmers of this country are losing money every year in the milk bustiess, owing to the way the are ground down in prices, a business of gigantic proportions is going to pieces," said a milk dealer. "They have the neat sum of $3,000,000,000 invested in farms, stock, Sunday afternoon will be addressed by etc. About 60,000,000 acres of this fair land of ours are given up to the pasturing of their 15,000,000 cows, and as many more acres are necessary to supply those cows with hav and fodder, To do the work about the dairy farms requires the services of 750,000 men and more than 1,000,000 horses. The dairy farm stock, bovine and equine, eat 30,-000,000 tons of hay, 30,000,000 bushels of corn, 90,000,000 bushels of corn meal, 85,000,000 bushels of other meals, and 20,000,000 bushels of bran a year, to say nothing of the 275,000,000 bushels of oats that horses alone eat. The provender for all that live stock costs $400,-000,000 a year, and the 750,000 laborers on the farms receive $175,000,000 a year for their work. The machinery and implements used in the dairy business. just as they stand, new and secondhand, represent an investment of $200,-000,000.

Now, of course, the farmers ought to know whether they are losing money or not in the dairy business. They say they are. Statistics say that the average cow will yield 450 gallons of milk a year. If that is so, the cows of this country are giving down 6,750,000,000 gallots every twelve months. Of course, good share of this goes into butter and cheese, but the receipts from that are calculated to be about the same per gailon of milk used as if it had een sold as milk. I guess 12 cents a gallon is a fair estimate of the price the farmer receives for that milk, which will figure up a return to them of $819,000,000 a year. Help and feed-not counting the sweet-scented brewery grains which the honest farmer gives his stock by way of change-cost $575,000,000 a year. Throw in $10,-000,000 more, say, to cover the cost of brewers' grains and incidentals, and the dairy farmers spend $585,000,000 a year to keep their farms running and get their produce to market. According to the figures this leaves a trifle of $225,000,000 to their credit for the years business. This isn't much, of course, It is only a little more than 7 per cent. on the investment, but even at that it doesn't look as if the dairy business was going to pieces very fast, or that the farmers were knocking very hard at the poorhouse door for admittance.

"By the way, isn't it the farmers who are doing so much calamity shouting against trusts? Seems to me it is, but then how is it that they are busy just now getting up a trust of their own? The dairy farmers, I mean-especially the milk farmers who supply New York with milk. They are at it. They are holding meetings all through the dairy regions, and their trust is to be known as the Five States' Milk Producers' association, and the avowed purpose of it is to control all the milk that is shipped, with a view to enforcpartnership unless otherwise agreed | ing higher prices." The five states are New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey Massachusetts and Connecticut. Those terrible bugaboos to the down-trodden farmer, the sugar trust and the oil trust, reduced the prices of their products 50 or 100 per cent., and here the farmers themselves are combining to increase the price of theirs. Where is

Wall Street Review. New York, May 7.—Today's market for stocks continued extremely narrow and to the last degree professional, with noth-ing in it that reflected any general condition or influence on values. The dealings were in smaller volume yesterday. The general list moved over only a small fractional range and many stocks remained totally inactive during the day, the large majorily of the transactions being dis-

H. PIERGE, PENN AVE. MARKET

Is busy. Small prices for fine goods have made it so. But there's a great stock of materials to move yet, and to help them out we've pared prices down to the point of absurdity. Any size of window fitted with shades of any color or quality at prices that will surprise you.

We've mentioned them before. Fine stock to select from at Sheriff's Sale prices. Our designer will assist you in getting the most artistic effects, and submit estimates of cost. His services are gratis.

Bankruptcy wrecked the prices, but the goods are all right, and there's money saving in them. Just now worth taking
