FIRST CONCERT AN ARTISTIC SUCCESS

Fanny Mendelssohn Society Received with Great Favor.

THE ARTISTS WHO ASSISTED

Mlle. Alice Verlet Possesses a Pure, Sweet Soprano Voice—Miss Maud Morgan's Harp Was Never More Responsive—Members of the Society Who Sang Last Night—Audience the Largest That Has Heard a Concert in Scranton This Season.

The Fanny Mendelssohn society, concerning which there was so much anticipation, made its first public appearance at a concert given by the society in the Frothingham last night. The members were assisted by Mlle. Alice Verlet, soprano, and Miss Maud Morgan, harpist.

The audience was the largest seen at a concert in Scranton this season. It was a cultured and discriminating audience that fully welcomed the artists and in turn was fully entertained. Entertainment is the word of words for last night's programme was one of entertainment throughout.

At times the entertainment took the form of a proper but still a rippling jollity; again it was peace, a sweetly melancholy peace but it was always entertaining. The Spinning Song, from "The Flying Dutchman" and Parker's "The Fisher," were the nearest approaches to serious themes and they were, at most, but approaches.

Every seat in the house was taken by friends of the Fanny Mendelssohn society and by others who were attracted by a glance at the published programme. It is a sufficient commentary upon the concert to say that the most critical auditors in the large audience were charmed and the most indifferent aroused into enthusiasm.

THE OPENING SELECTION.

And first as to the numbers sung by the society. The versatility of these ladies and their ability were quickly made evident. "Bargle" in "Spring," was the happily chosen opening selection. No fairer symbolization of springtime could be made than that created by the stage picture of the society as they arose in obedience to Conductor J. Alfred Fennington's wand. The beauty of the picture was a preparative for the melody which followed. In this and in every number of the programme, the ladies evidenced a delicacy of phrasing, a refinement of expression, an intelligence of reading, and a clear sympathy with the several themes.

For the completeness of their singing they have to thank their own natural and acquired abilities and the painstaking work and remarkable skill of the conductor, Mr. Fennington.

Miss Maud Morgan has played before Scranton audiences heretofore but never has her harp spoken more truly than it did last evening. In Hasselmann's "Lamento," Miss Morgan displayed her dramatic power in its full force. To this, Chopin's "Dance des Sylphes" was an admirable and blithesome foil.

FOR AN ENCORE.

"Fair Footsteps," by Hollaender, "The Evening Day" and "Bargle" and "Dragon Flies," comprised the gamut of last evening's programme, and each had its sharp individuality brought out by the society. As an encore selection, the society sang a remarkably beautiful arrangement of that tuneful theme, "In Old Madrid." In this the parts were given freer play than in any other song of the evening. The sopranos added power to their freshness and purity, and the contraltos evidenced a richness, which before had not been evident.

Mlle. Alice Verlet fully justified the extravagant expectations which many had held concerning her method and her voice. The former was simplicity in art, the latter a marvel. Both of the numbers which she sang on her first appearance, "Hollander's 'The Kiss' and Debussy's 'Les Filles de Cadix'" were of the prevailing lightness of theme. Mlle. Verlet's charm of manner was an added effect to the completeness of her singing.

"The Spinning Song" was so persistently and rapturously applauded that its repetition was necessary. Miss Morgan won a new triumph by her playing of "Autumn" from "The Seasons," by Thomas. She has played this in Scranton heretofore, but never better than last night.

ADMIRABLY INTERPRETED.

Abt's "Oh Lovely Night," Reich's "Who has the Prettiest Lambkins" and Gadelow "Summer Night" were interpreted in a very admirable interpretation by the society.

Meyerbeer's difficult "Shadon Song," from "Dinorah," was sung by Mlle. Verlet and this created the greatest enthusiasm of the evening. To its difficult and beautiful melody she sang the whole with as much ease and expression as though it were the simplest of ballads. Of course the house "rose at her" and of course an encore resulted.

The concluding selection was shared in by Miss Morgan, Mlle. Verlet and the society. It was Parker's "The Fisher." It was more a technical than an expressive triumph but its every phrase and note was thoroughly enjoyed. So enjoyable was it that the audience remained sitting and applauding for some little time after its conclusion.

The accompanist, Miss Charlotte Blackman, did her executing work faultlessly. Beautiful bouquets were given over the footlights to Mlle. Verlet, Miss Morgan and Mr. Fennington.

The Fanny Mendelssohn society was organized last September and took for its motto "Art for Art's Sake." It was named after the sister of the composer, Mendelssohn, who was herself a composer of marked ability. The society is composed of some of the best female singers of the city, and has been rehearsing since its organization under the direction of Mr. Fennington. It was his first appearance last night as a conductor, and he has reason to feel proud of his triumph, and that of the society he conducts.

The officers of the society are Miss Susan E. Dickinson, president; Miss Julia C. Allen, secretary and treasurer. Not a little of the success of last night's concert was due to the energetic executive committee, composed of Mrs. William J. Hand, Mrs. Alfred E. Connell and Mrs. George M. Halstead, all of them accomplished musicians and warm patrons of events musical. They are active members of the society.

The members of the society who sang last night were: Mrs. Thomas Aubrey, Mrs. Annie Barnes, Mrs. Clara Valentine, Mrs. Alfred E. Connell, Mrs. Maxwell Chapman, Mrs. D. W.

SVEZT GIVEN A HEARING.

Admits Shooting the Child, but Says It Was Accidental—Not the Father of the Infant.

It now transpires that circumstances leading up to the shooting of the infant child by his supposed father, John Svezt, Sunday morning in Dunmore, show that Svezt may have deliberately murdered the baby but the evidence seems to contradict any likelihood of deliberate killing. As told in The Tribune, Svezt gave himself up to ex-Constable "Billy" Skipper at 3:30 o'clock Sunday night.

He was lodged in the county jail and yesterday morning County Detective Leysch went before Alderman John T. Howe and secured out a warrant for the formal arrest of Svezt on the charge of murder.

John Hummer, the Hungarian tramp, who fired the shots from the porch before Svezt took the revolver from him was arraigned before the grand jury charged with carrying concealed weapons and discharging the same on the public highway. He was held in $500 and in default was committed to jail to await trial by court.

The details of the shooting as reported in The Tribune upon a second investigation proved correct. Svezt was ignorant of the use of revolvers and it now appears that the revolver used was a self-cocking weapon. This makes the accidental theory the more possible.

Accompanied by ex-Constable Skipper, a Tribune reporter went to the house yesterday. It was once a fine building, but now the steps in the dark hallways are broken, vermin is seen everywhere and a denigrating odor is aggressively apparent.

In the upstairs room a half dozen persons were found. One woman emptied some cut bologna from a filthy pan on the stove and placed the dish with her on it. John Grubnik tells of the shooting as he got it from his wife. This is one of the two women who were in the room at the time of Svezt's act. Grubnik calls the woman "wife," although she was arrested about two years ago for leaving her husband who now lives at Taylor. After spending a period of nine months in the county jail she returned to John Grubnik.

It is known that Svezt has been in America for the past eight years and that his wife and John Grubnik are a little over eight months ago. She left three children in the old country, Russian Poland, two of whom Svezt, her husband, has never seen. One child is 10 years old, born before Svezt came here. The other two are aged 2 and 2 years.

Mrs. Svezt had been in America only a few days when the child who was shot Sunday was born. For the first month, says John Grubnik, Svezt and the woman quarreled over the child. From these quarrels it was supposed that Svezt in a fit of anger shot the child out of pure hate for his illegitimacy.

This, however, will prove unbacked by any substantial evidence. Svezt had been drinking, he heard the shots outside; he disliked Hummer; he took the revolver from him; he went upstairs and in exhibiting the revolver he pulled the trigger twice, too drunk to comprehend what he was doing.

The child was buried yesterday in the German Catholic cemetery, South Side.

At 8:30 o'clock last night Svezt was taken from the county jail and given a hearing before Alderman Howe. He admitted shooting the child, but said it was an accident. Svezt was committed to the county jail to await action in court. County Detective Leysch has secured the revolver. It is a self-cocking weapon.

DELAY IN THE PAVING.

Work on Mulberry Street Will Not Be Commenced for Some Weeks.

It will be several weeks yet before the work on the Mulberry street paving will be commenced according to present indications. The Columbia Construction company find it impossible to secure the necessary broken stone for the concrete. They hope, however, to overcome this difficulty within a week or two.

It has been decided to work two gangs, one at either end of the street. This will make up for the time lost through the hitch in the preliminaries.

Hickory street is not a desirable place to have a residence in the opinion of Phillip Dippie, but his wife wouldn't consent to move elsewhere, and that explains the disturbance that has shaken the Dippie family from twig to trunk.

All on account of this difference of opinion two grown children having become disgusted with the loveable battles between father and mother, left the house.

Last evening Mr. Dippie was arrested by Special Officer Mink on a charge of assault and battery upon his wife. Dippie was taken before Alderman Wright. Mrs. Dippie was sorry that the thing had gone so far, and when she promised to go wherever her husband directed the case of assault was amicably smoothed over.

MISS COHEN'S RESIGNATION.

A precedent will likely be established through the resignation of Miss Rose Cohen as teacher at No. 36 school, and the appointing in her stead, of Miss Margaret Schimpff.

The resignation came direct to the board and in consequence no opportunity was offered for the appointment of a teacher "with a pull."

Mr. Notz remarked that he was glad the resignation came direct to the board and offered a motion that future resignations be given to the controller and by him to the superintendent of schools. Mr. Wormser further amended the committee on rules to be reported at the next meeting, and the motion was adopted as last amended.
