THE SCRANTON TRIBUNE-WEDNESDAY MORNING, MAX 12, 1897.

LADIES ENTERTAIN.

Excellent Entertainment Given in Mears' Hall by St. Cecilia's Society---Those Who Participated in It.

The ladies of the St, Cecilla's seclety gave an entertainment and social in Mears' hall last evening which was a success throughout. Those who participated in the exercises gave a very creditable performance and the audience frequently broke into applause as their fancy was caught by the scene before them.

The success was in a large measure due to the untiring efforts of Miss Margaret Gibbs, who had been judicjously chosen as instructor by the St. Cecilia's. The recitations and dramatic posings of Miss Bessie Sloat, who is a pupil of Miss Gibbs, were a marked feature of the affair, but none of the others suffered by comparison. The exercises were rendered as follows: John J. Byrne in a few well chosen remarks introduced Attorney M. F. Conroy as the speaker and chairman of the evening. Mr. Conray gave a short address on the purpose of St. Cecilia's society. He told what good work was accomplished by them and closed his interesting remarks by urging all young ladles who are interested in the advancing of the cause of tembrought about this action on the part perance to join the society. of the stockholders but simply their de-

The really hamorous farce "Chums," caused hearty bursts of applause and laughter. Dan Regan impersonated but the future prospects which brought Mr. Breed, a squire; Miss Rose Murray was Mrs. Breed; M. Hennigan and M. Reap were "Tom" and "Harry," college chums, and Miss Kelly was Flora. Both Tom and Harry are in love with Flora, but Tom mixes things badly by masquerading as a woman to test his Flora's affection for him. The dilemmas and climaxes were filled with humor and each mention of the caste carried his or her part well.

A tableaux "Dressing the Bride" was given by the Misses Annie Gaffney, Mary Needham, Alice Ratchford, Mary Langan and Sadle Foy. This was followed by dramatic posings by Miss Bessie Sloat. She was accompanied on the plane by Miss Gibbs, her teacher. "The Dance of the Muses" was given by the Misses T. Grimes, M. Hart, E. Delmar, E. Gibbons, M. Hennigan, A. Barry, M. Tigue. The tableaux, "Red Riding Hood" by Miss E. Kenney; "The Dancing Cirls" by the Misses A. Gaffney, M. Horn, M. Flaherty, N. Casey and Lettie Thompson; "The Death of Virginia," by Misses S. Grimes, E. Delmar, M. Hart, E. Giabons, M. Hennigan, E. Barry and Tigue -all followed in succession.

The evening was then filled out by the enjoyment of dancing to music furnished by Mrs. Malott.

SOMEWHAT DUDISH CASE. Alderman John P. Kelly, at a hearing held before him on Monday evening, committed John Murston, in default of $300 ball, Mike Dudish in de-fault of $500, Mike Kothar in default of $500, and Mrs. Kothar in default of $300. All were sent to the county jail. The
