Miners Pounded Hodson to the Bench and Were Killing Braun When the Game Ended.

They treated Hodson shamefully, the Miners did. Hodson, or "Hoddy," as we familiarly called him when he drew one-forty per and was glad to get it inning that he was thankful to escape from the box and give way to Braun. Braun, too, had reason to be sorry he was living and was hit eight times before the game ended with the score 13-8 in the Miners' favor.

Trouble for "Hoddy" was indicated in the second when the Miners earned arunon Massey's two-bagger and Bonner's single. But there was no mistake about it in the third when O'Brien drew four wide ones and, after Beard went out at first, scored on Daly's deuble sockdolager to right center. "Please take me out," looked Hoddy as he directed his gaze toward Manager Murray on the visitors' bench. But Murray's head and face were concealed by his coat collar and he didn't see the appeal, Bang? went Massey's stick against the ball and away it sailed, only to stop when it knocked a two-by-eight plank out of the fence at left center.

POOR HODDY.

"O, please take me out-please do" moaned Hoddy as Daly sauntered home. Murray either wouldn't or couldn't see his twirler's gaze of an-Pang! bang! bang! Bonner, Ma-

RAY, have you no mercy For the sake of my family, friends and reputa-tion PLEASE take me out!" begged Murray yielded. Coogan had been coaxing and coddling the unfortunate pitcher until his own eyes began to water. He looked toward the bench receiving a sign from Murray, nodded to Hoddy to get hence. Hoddy staggered off the diamond and was replaced by Braun, a young man whose distinctive characteristic is a shock of silver hair. He may be a pitcher wor-thy to travel in company with the champions but four of the five runs on him in the last five innings were earn-

Harper was due to pitch for the Miners, but Wellner was put in at the last moment. For five innings only three hits were made off him, but they produced no runs. One hit was a threebaser in the second by Drauby, which Eagan misjudged and let go over his head, but the smash was not costly as Drauby was the fag end of a fast double play at the plate by Maguire Massey and Boyd after one was out The two Providence hits in the fourth put runners on first and third with one out, and the side was retired or Wellner's striking out of Drauby and

PLANNING FOR THE BIG L. A. W. MEET

Hotel Committee Is Now Ready to Give Useful Information.

ABOUT 20,000 CYCLERS WILL ATTEND

But There Will Be Ample Entertainment for Ever So Large a Number. Press Committee Will Soon Distribute Views and Statements of the Many Cycle Routes About the Quaker City .- Bicycles on Railroad Trains.

Philadelphia, May 21.—The Hotel and Accommodations committee of the L. A. W. national meet, which will be held in Philadelphia August 4-7, is now in a position to give detailed information regarding accommodations during the week of the meet. Chairman W. P. Street has been hard at work for the past two weeks gathering the necessary pointers, and, although the meet is more than ten weeks off, the inquirles are so numerous as to fully justify the Executive Committee's claim that upwards of 20,000 out-of-town cyclers will visit this city the first week of August. Hence it is advisable that those who contemplate coming to Philadelphia during the meet should communicate with the Hotel Committee as soon as possible, in order that their quarters may be assigned them at once. Regular attendants at former League neets have doubtless experienced the discomforts attendant upon securing quarters at the last minute, and it is with a desire to obviate a repetition of this inconvenience that Chairman Street urges prospective visitors to communicate with him immediately. He has on his list 53 hotels (offering a wide range of choice, suitable to pocketbooks of every conceivable calibre) on both the American and European plans, in addition to quite a number of first-class boarding houses.

The Press Committee has in preparation a series of views of the riding district roundabout Philadelphia, which it is proposed to supply weekly to all cycling and other papers in all sections of the country which may express a desire to use them. By this means it is hoped to give the outside cycling world some idea of the pleasures in store in this connection for those who may be so fortunate as to attend next August's meet. Letters recently received at these headquarters warrant the belief that not a few of next August's visitors are coming here with the sole purpose of exploring the beauties of the famous Philadelphia riding district, and to such these views cannot fail to be of immense interest. Famous resorts and historical spots on the Lancaster Pike, Old York Road, Wissa-hickon Drive and the numerous other pikes leading out of the city in all directions will be shown along with not a few pictures that will convey an idea of the excellent paving with which the City of Brotherly Love is blessed. All the above mentioned pikes, drives and country roads can be reached over streets paved with as-phalt, and this alone is a blesing of which but few American cities can

Members of the Century Road club of America who attend the meet will find here a large coterie of the most ong-distance road riders in the land. Through the efforts of these gentlemen the Quaker City captured the cream of the Century Road club's '96 honors; and if present indications go for anything they will be heard from also at the end of this year. These "pluggers" are just now considering the advisability of arranging some form of entertainment for the visiting "pluggers" during the week of the meet. Their programme will very likely include some "pleasant" allday jaunts over their favorite stamping grounds in South Jersey and Pennsylvania. It is quite probable that some of the local Century Road club representatives will be given places on the tours and runs committee, as the itinerary of that body will include several long runs. This committee, by the way, will be mainly made up of club captains, who, from their knowledge of the roads and needs of the riders, are best equipped to make a success of this part of the entertainment. The managers of the meet realize that upon the selection of the tours and runs in connection with the meet depends to a considerable extent the enjoyment of a large proportion of the visitors, and every effort will be made to make this feature as enjoyable as possible. Willow Grove track, where the League of American Wheelmen championships will be run off on, is being rapidly put into shape for the first race meet of the season, which will be held on Saturday, May 29. Comfortable seating accommodations for 12,500 people, with standing room for half as many more, are being put up, the training quarters are being enlarged and the entire track is inclosed with a fence so high that it acts as a wind shield.

Members of the League of American Wheelmen, be they from the north, south, east or west, will be enabled to carry their bicycles with them on any train without being compelled to pay a considerable charge therefor. The recent action of the Trunk Line association abolishing the unjust baggage fee for bicycles accompanied by owners will undoubtedly be followed by similar action by the Western Passenger Traffic associations long before the date set for the opening of the

ONE ON FREEDMAN.

Signed a Crazy Pitcher and Sent Irwin to Find Him. Here is one on Freedman from Arhur Irwin: "One of Freedman's drawbacks was that he was always discovering and signing phenoms, recommended by friends. One of these phe noms was a German from Newark named Otto. I inquired among the Newark players if they had ever heard of Otto, and they pleaded not guilty. But Freedman had him on a contract, at a salary of $1,200. "Otto failed to turn up at the Polo grounds for practice, and Freedman sent me to his home in Newark. There I found that Otto had been locked up in an insane asylum that morning for throwing rocks through windows, and hitting a child with a section of a brick. He imagined he was pitching for the Giants. His family told me that he had been pitching for an amateur team, that he was stuck on being a pitcher, and had shown symptoms of tew cogs shy in his wheel gearing. He was placed in Bloomingdale and pronounced insane by the physicians. "On returning to New York Freed to. Why didn't I bring him along? I informed Andy that Otto might make a specialty out of hitting the batters with the ball. That he had located the head of a party in Newark with a missile. Freedman, in his nervous, impulsive way, didn't hear the finish of my story. "That's just the kind of a pitcher we want against that Chi-cago team of sluggers. If they are hit with the ball a few times they will he afraid of him and strike out,' he added, after which I added: "'But I am going to give him his release if I can get it into the place where they have him locked up. Then explained that Otto was in Bloomingdale, having his wheels repaired."

GREAT MEN ON GOOD ROADS.

Washington is noted for its fine streets and the surrounding country abounds with excellent roads. Visitors to the Na-tional capital are sure to be impressed with the difference between these roads and those in other parts of the country. This may account, in part, for the fact that the movement for good roads has so many friends among our public men at Washington. Hon. Matthew S. Quay, United States senator from Pennsylvania is one of these. Like most successful poli ticians, he makes the wants, needs and wishes of the people a constant study. Mr. Quay has learned thoroughly to appreclate the great value of good roads to far-mers, and the many conveniences they would bring to all classe of people. "I know that good roads are good for my farmer constituents," writes Senator Quay, in a recent letter commending the work of the League of American Wheel-men, "and what is good for them is good for all other classes of citizens. Hence I am in hearty sympathy with the League of American Wheelmen in its efforts in behalf of good roads, and believe that the novement must be successful."

Ex-President Benjamin Harrison, too. believes in the effort for better highways.
"I am in thorough sympathy with the good roads movement," writes Mr. Harrison, probably recollecting the contrast between Washington roads and some of the roads in Indiana.

Hon. Anthony Higgins, of Delaware, noted for many years as a leader in the United States senate, says: "I have a great interest in good roads, and like near-ly all citizens, I am glad to see that in-terest promoted."

The late Jerry Rusk, while secretary of agriculture in President Harrison's cabi-net, declared; "The city is almost as much interested in getting good roads as the country. Good roads is a movement by the people and for the people."

Nearly twenty years ago, General Grant in enumerating necessary lines of public improvement, named the public schools and the highways. Once when he and General Sheridan were in a reminiscent nood, the old commander said to Little Phil, speaking of the latter's famous ride to the battle of Cedar Creek: "Sheridan, if that battle had taken place after a pro-longed rain, and there had not been a good pike from Winchester, you would hever have been promoted to the head of the United States army. You would not have reached the battle field to cheer your men, and there would have been a great defeat for the Union forces instead of a great victory. That would have left Meade and Thomas a long distance ahead of you in the line of promotion."

I am reminded of this comment by a let-I am reminded of this comment by a let-ter from his son, Colonel Fredrick D. Grant, until recently one of the police commissioners of New York. Colonel Grant writes of the good roads movement: "The sentiment of the nation is almost unanimous in favor of good roads. Good roads improve the appearance of the country, enhance the value of all classes of property, facilitate the movement of products, and are from every point a public benefit. I have no doubt that the efforts of the League of American Wheelmen," and he is a wheelman himself, "together with the efforts of the nur other classes busily engaged in that direction, will bring about a system of good Otto Dorner.

GOOD ROAD NOTES.

According to General Stone, of the Agricultural department, who has twice ad-dressed Scranton board of trade audiences recently, every wheelman is a preacher, a worker and a fighter for good roads. It is only necessary to furnish him texts for preaching, tools to work with and weapons to fight with, and then to hold him back when his seal outruns his discretion. His when his seal outruns his discretion. His endeavor should be to conciliate the far-mers while he keeps the cities ripe for reform. He does not want to lose friends or to make enemies. He might succeed in passing good roads laws in spite of the farmers at last for the execution of the

The Higble-Armstrong good roads bill of New York, instigated by President Potter, has falled to pass by three votes, Had the bill been made a law, the tax it would have imposed for the improvement of the highway could not have been seriously objected to since on farms of the value of $5,000 the levy would have amounted to only about 50 cents a year. The farming element is largely responsible for the de-It was the farmers who originated the
