MISS WARREN THE VALEDICTORIAN

Miss Cora Relph Captured the Second Honor, and Will Read the Salutatory .- Other Honors Were Won by Miss Josie Stevens, Sot Dreisen, George Walter, Miss Leone Gregory, and Miss Lillian Brooks .- Details of Commencement Exercises.

This year's graduating class from the Scranton high school-the first that will leave the new building-is the largest in the history of the Scranton public schools. Principal George Phillips' latest and final summing up shows that the class will number sixty-two persons. of whom the greater number, as has always been the rule, are young la-

The new curriculmn being far more advanced than the discarded series of studies and the generally increased efficiency of the school has resulted in keeping the highest average of students somewhat lower than that of previous years.

The valedictorian of this year's class is Miss Luella Warren, with an average of 93. The rest of the seven honor graduates are: Miss Cora Relph, Miss Josie Stevans, Sol Driesen, George Walter, Miss Leone Gregory and Miss and grew out of the election held in salutatorian.

ONLY SEVEN HONORS.

In former years the number of honor students has been ten, but the commencements exercises have always proven too lengthy with this number of participants, and the curtailment this year will not only better the entertainment, but has also created a more earnest struggle for places by the high school pupils. The commencement night this year will be on June 18. The exercises will be in line with those of former years, with the exception that no presents of flowers or gifts in any form will be received on the stage by the pupils, per the recent-

Miss Dorsey's studio was crowded ast evening to hear her pupils in their fifth monthly recital. The rendition of one of Eugene Field's poems by Miss Susie Gross was excellent. Miss Gross possesses a rare musical voice which she uses to great advantage. Miss Elizabeth Moyle and Miss Mary E. Barrett were excellent in the parts assigned them.

Supreme Court So Decrees Three Months After He Has Finished Serving Out His Term.

Decisions in two Lackawanna cases were handed down yesterday by the Supreme court. The finding of the lower court was reversed in the contested election case of Edward J. Burke against John J. Flynn and Flynn was declared elected. This contest comes from the Third ward of Olyphant Lillian Brooks. Miss Relph will be the February, 1894. Flynn received 65 votes for councilman and Burke 63.

A contest was instituted and a recount showed that each had received 66 votes. The hearings before the contest commissioner disqualified 25 votes. Thirteen of these were found to have voted for Flynn, eleven for Burke and one was so defective that it was impossible to tell who it was for.

Three of the votes which Burke received were attacked by the respondents on the ground that they had not been marked in accordance with the provisions of the Baker ballot law, the X in two cases being in the wrong position and the other case being absent altogether the voters marking his ballot with a "one."

Judge Archbald decided that this marking did not meet with the exact requirements of the law, but as the voters intention was clearly shown he would not nullify the votes.

On this ground the case was appealed and by the decision it will hereafter be necessary for election boards to be particular as to the marking of the ballots. Warren & Knapp are the attorneys for Flynn. Flynn's term expired last February.

In the case of the Berlin Iron Bridge ompany against J. W. Bonta appellant, the supreme coure refused the reargument prayed for by Bonta. This was a suit brought by the Bridge com-pany to recover $2,000, balance due for the erection of the Bonta Glass company's plant at Moosic. Bonta refused payment because the contract was not completed in time. Warren & Knapp are attorneys for the Bridge company and A. A. Vosburg and W. H. Stanton for Bonta.

ONLY ONE BAD VOTE.

Twenty-Three Dunmore Republicans Examined by Commissioners.

Twenty-three witnesses were called by the respondents before Commissioners Holgate and Reedy in the Dunmore contest yesterday. They were John Glenerost, August Kuntz, Alexander Jeffrey, Jacob Kroft, Peter Kuntz, sr., Peter Kuntz, jr., Moses Kellam, Edward Kuntz, Henry Klassner, Peter Kretz, Henry Luzi, Charles Lisk, John Leard, John McMillian, O. J. Marcy, W. L. Marcy, Spencer Martin, Henry Miller, Edward Hughes Peter Van Bergen, Fred Harper, Richard Y. Jones, Charles Pilger, all of the Third district of the Third ward.

John McMillan's vote was disquall fied without question, he having voted on first papers. Some doubt was thrown on the vote of O. J. Marcy, because it was found he had been assessed in the First ward of Scranton. Henry Miller's vote was also put in the doubtful column, he having voted on his father's papers, and not having the papers at hand to prove his contention. He says he can get them, Fred Harper's taxes were however. brought into question, but it is expected he will be able to save his vote when called in rebuttal.

A good part of this money goes to settle with debtors who have been stood off for several months by reason of the overdrawn appropriations last year. # MANAGERS COME TO AN AGREEMENT

Theatres in This City and Wilkes-Barre Will Not Be Rivals.

WHAT IT IS PROPOSED TO DO

Academy of Music and Grand Opera House in Wilkes-Barro Will Be Popular-Priced Houses, and the First-Class Attractions Will Play the Lyceum and Wilkes-Barre's New Theatre-- John D. Mishler Not Interested Here Now.

As announced in The Tribune some months ago the Frothingham theater will be known as the Lyceum next season and it will be practically under the same management as the Academy of Music. At the last named house only popular priced companies will appear while the Lyceum will book the first-class attractions. This will give the city a greater variety as well as a greater number of theatrical attractions than it had last season. Papers pertaining to the joint management are being prepared and pending the signatures of the parties interested being attached to them there is difficulty in ascertaining the exact facts.

John D. Mishler and M. H. Burgun er no longer constitute the firm of Mishler & Burgunder with theaters at Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Reading, Hazleton and other places, Mr. Mishler has reached that time of life when he no longer cares to look after the details pertaining to the management of a large circuit of theaters and has surrendered his interest in the Academy of Music in this city and the Grand Opera house in Wilkes-Barre. Burgunder gives up his interest in the other theaters of the circuit and has made an arrangement with Wagner and Reis, lessees of the Lyreum, concerning the theatrical business in this city and Wilkes-Barre.

WILL DIVIDE THE BUSINESS. Mr. Hurgunder is the lessee of the Academy of Music in this city, and although it is not as modern in its appointments as the Lyceum it demonstrated during the season that has just closed that it can command a large slice of the local patronage. Mr. Bur-gunder also holds the lease of the Grand Opera house of Wilkes-Barre and as he is one of the stockholders of the company that is erecting the new opera house for that city it is reasonable to suppose that he will also be its Wagner & Reis have been anxious to get a theater in Wilkes-Barre as they could do their booking to much better advantage if they could place companies in both cities. The new arrangement solves the difficulty.

The Grand opera house in Wilkes-Barre will be run on the same basis as the Academy of Music with prices ranging from 15 to 75 cents and the first-class attractions will be billed for the Lyceum and the new Wilkes-Barre theater. This arrangement will prevent any fighting between the houses and make it possible for the management of these houses to get better terms from the companies they sign contracts with.

Most Approved Methods of Making Clothes Perfectly Clean--- Last Lecture This Afternoon.

SPOKE ABOUT LAUNDRY

"The Laundry" was the subject of Miss Parloa's lecture yesterday afternoon. The ladies who were furtunate enough to attend listened to a very helpful discussion of a factor in domes tic economy which, as Miss Parloa said, "we keep as much as possible out of sight and indeed out of mind." Miss Parloa deliberated upon the importance of the laundry in its relation to health, comfort and decency in life. It is very important that the fabrics should be washed in such a manner that all dirt shall be removed and yet without too great a strain upon the tissue of the fabric.

"The best authorities," said the lecturer, "are divided as to the best means of doing this. Hard rubbing wears the fabric; chemicals loosen the dirt and thus relieve the cloth from much hard rubbing, but at the same time the chemical does not stop with the dirt but attacks the fabric also." Miss Parion advocated an intelligent use of chemicals to aid in loosening the dirt but if care be not taken she thought it better to use soap and water and the extra rubbing. The great fault is that the chemical is commonly expected to do all the work and not simply as an aid.

The lecturer then discussed the various opinions of laundresses on the point of soaking or rinsing the clothes before washing. She thought that by allowing the clothes to remain in the water for several hours the dirt would yield more readily.

The day for washing was designated by Miss Parloa as Monday, it being the generally accepted day but some housekeepers employ Monday for preparing for the washing. This is a age during the process of washing, drying and ironing. The lecturer then gave instructions in detail according to the plan which she has studied.

This proved thoroughly beneficial and interesting. Instruction was also giv-en for the preparation of blueing water and particularly did the lecturer tell of the peculiar changes in flannel fabrics when in water. "Starching" and stains" also received minute attention. During the lecture Miss Parloa read ome of the rules on the subject which she has laid down in her valuable book "The Young Housekeeper." The last lecture will be given this afternoon on the subject of "Table Service." This will probably prove the best lecture of the course as it discusses a particular branch of home management which is the most liable to comment, either complimentary or otherwise. Miss Parloa has given much thought and the added result of careful observation to this subject and her views will be invaluable. The lectures are given at the Young Men's Christian Association hall; single admission, 75
