SEWER CAUSES DAMAGE.
 Gordon Street Property Holder Brings Suit for $500 Against City.
 Another suit for damages growing out of the all city faulty construction of the fourth district sewer was yesterday instituted against the city. Sarah Biglin, administratrix of the estate of John Biglin, deceased, is the plaintiff. Through her attorneys, H. Burns and M. J. Donahoe, she alleges that in June, 1892, and at divers other times her property on Gordon street was damaged by floods, resulting from the inability of the sewer to carry away the surface water.
 The property is situated along the natural water course in which the sewer was laid. In times of heavy rains the sewer, it is alleged, either through its insufficient capacity or by reason of its faulty construction, failed to carry away the water and following the old water way it lodged on the Biglin lot, damaging the property and endangering the health of the people residing there.
 The fences have been damaged, the walls of the dwelling house weakened and the floor of the house covered with dirt and debris. For this $5,000 is demanded.

PECKVILLE.
 Another meeting of the citizens was held last night at the hose rooms to make final arrangements for memorial day exercises. The meeting was presided over by Burgess S. B. Williams. The secretary reported that the soliciting committee had raised $75.75 towards defraying the expenses of the day. The ladies' committee reported that they had selected Miss Grace Sicker to act as the Goddess of Liberty. The committee on singing reported that three choirs of different churches had agreed to furnish music on that day. Rev. S. C. Simkins will deliver the oration in the Prospect cemetery. The line of march will start from the hose house 9 o'clock sharp and go up North Main street to Academy street; then to Main street; to Hickory; then to the grave yard. The following will be the line: Carriages bearing the speaker and burgoes; platoon of police; Olympian club band; Wilson fire company; Jr. Order American Mechanics; Improved Order of Red Men; Independent Order of Odd Fellows; Knights of Pythias; citizens; members of the Grand Army of the Republic; wagons carrying forty-five little girls, each representing a state. The Sunday schools will be prominently in the procession. Each organization will be represented by a mounted marshal. Johnson's drum corps will also be in attendance.

PROF. STAIBER HONORED.
 Presented with a Cane and Umbrella by the Turners.
 The Scranton Turn Verein gave an athletic exhibition in their hall on Seventh street last evening which was well attended. This older members especially were present. The occasion was of the nature of a farewell to the professor of the Turn Verein, Carl Staiber. Professor Staiber leaves here to assume charge of the New York Central Turn Verein, of New York city. It is with regret that he is allowed to go and it will be very hard to replace him. He leaves on Tuesday next to enter upon his new duties.
 An earnest of their appreciation of his services the Turn Verein presented the professor with a very fine cane and umbrella. Other events which helped to make the evening pass pleasantly was a last exhibition given by the professor and several selections on the violin and zither by D. Graus. Dancing was also enjoyed, the music being furnished by Herr Saft, accompanied by D. Graus with the violin.
