AN IMPORTANT INVENTION.

Arrangement by Which a Fire Can Be Made to Extinguish Itself.

Pottsville, May 28.-The Miners Journal says: The recent loss by fire of three of the largest breakers of the region led a traveling man, who visits this section frequently, to look into the natter of increasing the safety of large structures. The recent holocaust in Paris, whereby a large number of hulives were lost, induced him to consider how those accidents in the future could be avoided. He formulatd a plan by which the fire itself turned on the water to put 'he fire out, and ; thermostadt combined with it turns off the water after the fire is out. He has submitted his plans to the breake builders of Wyoming and Schuyikiii regions and all who have seen it have endorsed the plan. He is now going to the patent office with it.

From the showing of it watchmen or the inside can be entirely dispensed with from the fact that the fire itself There was a meeting called at the turns on the water and puts itself out.

WAS IT SET ON FIRE?

Curious Coincidence Noted in the Case of the Fuller Breaker at Maltby, Destroyed Yesterday.

Wilkes-Barre, May 28.-Concerning he Fuller breaker at Maltby, the burning of which was mentioned in yesterday's Tribune, the Times this evenng says:

The shaft under the breaker burned

this morning was originally sunk by Fuller & Stetler, of Scranton, but after operating the breaker for some time Co. The coal land underlying the breaker and adjacent thereto is jointly | cocoanut milk, and let them stand in a Hunt estate of the city About six boiled fowl and cut it into pieces of the years ago, it will be remembered, the shaft and workings were flooded. Vigcrous pumping operations were prosecuted for many months, but there seemed to be no end to the water, which came to within fifty feet of the surface, and after a long seige, the D., L. & W. company abandoned the work and since then no effort has been made fuls of flour and two tablespoonfuls of to put the workings in shape so that curry powder and stir until it is frothy; they could be operated. Later on the slowly add one pint of the liquid in Wyoming Coal & Land company began which the chicken was cooked, after operations about one-half mile distant where it owns 450 acres of coal land, press the milk from the grated cocoaand rather than go to the expense of building a breaker it leased the Hunt breaker from the D., L. & W. Co., and Allow these to cook slowly ten minutes, the coal it mined was prepared for market there, being hauled from the mine in cars over its own track built for that purpose Petween 12 and 1 o'clock this morning the aged watchman of the works was sitting in the office eating his lunch, when he heard a peculiar crackling Hurrying outside he glanced upward and was horrified by seeing flames shooting from the side of the breaker about at the point where the trestling joins it. He sounded the larm, and soon there rowd of people assembled, but as there were no fire-fighting facilities at hand, nothing could be done to stay the work of the flames, and the entire structure together with the boiler house, a small supply house, three flat cars and two coal cars of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company were destroyed. Near the works are several houses ocupled by the workmen, who had a lively time preventing the flames from communicating to them, though they succeeded admirably. In a talk with William Griffiths, of West Pittston, who is president of the company he told a reporter this morning that as the Wyoming Coal and Land company could not get along without a breaker the structure would no doubt be rebuilt but he could not say definitely at that time whether the company or the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western would bear the expense. Neither Mr. Griffiths nor the watchman could explain how the fire originated.

A singular thing in connection with the burning of the breaker is that it is the third destroyed in the same vicinity within a very short time. First the Mt. Lookout was burned then the Maltby and now the Fuller-all situated within three miles of each other.

ROTHSCHILD AND BLANCO. How the Financier Paid the Dictator A Fine Compliment.

From the Chicago Record. A good story is told of Guzman Blanco, who was for many years dictator of Venezuela. It is said that when he called upon Baron de Rothschild in Paris to negotiate a loan for the government, he remarked, by way of a compliment, that he was much honored by having an interview with in the world.

Rothschild, "has estates comprising 500,000 square miles of territory? Who else has an income of $37,000,000? Who has 2,500,000 slaves?" Guzman said nothing in reply, but smiled significantly, as much as to say, 'I see you understand the politics of Venezuela,"

INDIA CURRY.

A Hot-Weather Use of the Condimen Not Generally Known.

use of that wholesome condinent., curry powder, in the average American family is becoming greater each year, says the Sun. This powder has been in general use in England since the days of Warren Hastings, and Englishmen have become very fond of it, some sprinkling the from a holder as an American would pepper upon his food. People living where the heat of the climate makes it necessary to use stimulating condiments in their viands learn quickly to like a curried dish or anything with this powder in it. Perhaps it is not generally known that slices of cold meat or fowl heated in a wellseasoned curry sauce and served for luncheon on a hot summer's day are better for the stomach than the cold meats alone. A curry powder is used with great success in seasoning fist sauces and vegetable dishes as well ventions that has been exhibited in this as meats and a little of this powder in soups adds to their flavor.

A curry powder is pulverized very churches, theaters and in fact all large fine and smooth, and usually is prepared with the following spices: Twelve ounces of tumeric, one ounce of caynenne pepper, half an ounce of black pepper, the same of paprika, six ounces of ginger, half an ounce each of cardamon seed, cummin seed, mace, and cinnamon, and eight ounces of coriander seed. A bottle of the best imported India curry powder may be purchased at a small expense and will retain its strength for a long while if kept closely corked, rolled in thick paper, or put in a dark place. In the East Indies, where curries are so successfully made, an acid fruit is commonly and cocoanut is always used with the other ingredients, which would seem unusual to us, who are accustomed to associating cocoanut with delicate cakes and dainty puddings. Here is one recipe for India curry: Break open a cocoanut, save the milk, was sold by them to the D., L. & W. and grate half the nut meat. Pour over this half a cup of fresh milk and the owned by Lawrence Myers and the cool place several hours. Take a proper size, removing the skin and bones and sprinkling the flesh lightly with salt. Cut a good sized onion into small pieces and put it into a frying pan with three tablespoonfuls of butter; cook them five minutes, add half a chopped green pepper, and cook five minutes longer; stir in two tablespoonremoving the grease carefully: nut and add it to the other ingredients with a teaspoonful of sugar. Put into a saucepan the prepared meat and strain the curry sauce over it; add the juice of half a lemon; cover he pan, and let the contents just bubble for twenty minutes; then serve A few raisins or pieces of apricots are frequently added with the other ingredients; then the sugar and lemon may be omitted.

THE JURY SYSTEM.

From the Philadelphia Times. Judge Dean is quite right in assuming that unless our jury system shall become more generally administerd in accordnce with the plain mandates of the law the system must be overthrown. He beieves, as do all who have faith in the eople, and in the government of the peo ple, that "the jury meut represent the conscience and intelligence of the whole eople." It must not represent the earned, the rich or any other favored lass; it must not represent the poor who might be tempted to the spoliation of property, and it certainly must not repsanctuary. He strikes at the very root of the evil when he refers to the fact that when he administered justice as a counry judge business men of the largest intelligence and experience in the affairs of life as a rule sought to be discharged from jury duty. Our merchants and our business men complain if they are summoned to serve as jurors, and yet they stand appalled today at the prostitution of the jury box in the interests of the agrarian, defying justice, disregarding law, and aiming only to take property idle and vicious. So grave has this evil become in Philathe jury box would offend their closest escape such exacting duties, the thriftnockery of justice.

from the thrifty for the benefit of the Judge Dean very clearly and impresively teaches the necessity of the jury representing the average conscience as to quality, intelligence of the people. As long as the jury system represents that condi-tion it must command universal confilence and respect. The people could not but approve that which came from them-selves and which they have maintained with reverence. They want not the great nor the small; not the rich nor the poor; hey want the average man, or the minging of the classe whereby the average and the practical sense of justice that perains, among the masses shall be fairly reflected in the administration of justice. As Judge Dean well says, jurors through their practical knowledge of questions connected with important cases at times more justly judge the lines of justice than von the courts. The miner who knows othing beyond wielding his pick will often in the witness box or in the jury box more aid the administration of jus-tice by reason of his practical knowledge than can the accomplished engineer, and there is no safer place in which to lodge the protection of person and property than in the average American citizen.

So far as our jury system has become offensive or failed to fulfill its high duties t has been wholly because of the perverdon of the system from the fundamental principles on which it was founded. The efforts to control juries in the interest of the holder of the richest banking houses but the corrupt control of a jury could not be accomplished if the twelve men com-"And I am honored," was the re-ply of the baron, "by receiving a call science and intelligence of the community

Chicago Grain Market. Chicago, May 28.—The leading futures ranged as follows: Wheat-May, 79%c., ply of the baron, "by receiving a call from the richest man on earth."

"If you have me in mind," retorted Guzman, "you are mistaken. I am not so rich as reported, but had I all that is credited to me I would still be poor, very poor, in comparison with yourself and thousands of men in this and other countries."

"But I insist upon the truth of my assertion that you are the richest man in the world, for who else," exclaimed science and intelligence of the community. Some might be approached, but all could not be debauched or influenced, and one homest juvor can always prevent a miscarriage of justice. In the resolute reduct the broad principles on which the jury system in depends the safety of the jury system in our free government. It cannot continue as it is, for as long as evils are tolerated they must increase rather than diminish, and this evil can be corrected whenever the judges, the bar, the public press and intelligent citizens unite to demand it.

In the memories of many more the success of Hood's Sarsapa-rilla is indelibly imprinted. The cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla are literally written in blood - in blood made pure, enriched and vitalized, cured of scrofulous taints, salt rheum, boils, pimples, spring humors in blood which properly builds up the nerves, strengthens the stomach and gives that tonic to the system so imperatively needed in the Spring.

HIS WIFE'S ADVICE. Had Obeyed It, Things Would

Have Been Different. Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight is a thing of the past, but the Washington

simmons. Not once, but fifty times did she importune me to place that sum on the Australian, for, she said, she just knew he would win. Nor was it merely the whim of a woman who was taking sides idly. Her opinion was based on the most careful study and reading of everything about the fight for weeks before it came off.

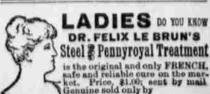

"Alas! what an evil genius possessed me when I broke the promise I made her that I'd bet on the auburn haired one. I had began to think that it was the right 'hunch' more on account of her persistence than anything else. She danced for joy, for she already saw the diamond ring that I'd promised her if her tip went straight. So I said goodby and landed in Baltimore with the firm intention of placing that $100 on Fitzsimmons. Then I meditated how foolish it would be to allow the superstitions and silly preferences of a woman to keep me from putting the money on a winner. But it's useless to prolong the tale. The $140 I should possess now plus the $100 that went glimmering, is too sad a thing to think of. But there's a lady in St. Louis who'll never hear a word about he matter, for she'll get a ring just the same, and wear it in innocence of the facts,"

George M. Pullman Gets a Diploma and Medal for Building It.

Cincinnati, O., May 28.-George M. Pullman, who is here at the Mercantile club conference, got word today that he had received from Archduke Rainer two magnificent medals and a richly-wrought diploma as testimonials of honor and merit for founding and building the most perfect town in the world. This distinction for the Chicago suburb of Pullman came as the result of an exhibit in the International Hygienic and Pharmaceutical exposition in Prague. The verdict included the Pullman sleeping car,
