Jacob H. Fetherman and son were thrown out of a wagon as they ran away at Stroudsburg and severely injured, the father being unconscious for a time.

L. Barnett, a Hazleton clothier, has disappeared and no one knows whereabouts. His friends have apprehensions that worry over business caused his departure.

Ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker will address the graduating class of the Shamokin high school at the commencement exercises to be held in the opera house on Monday evening, June 14.

John Straubinger fell from the second-story window of his hotel at Mauch Chunk, fracturing one of his limbs in two places and sustaining other hurts.

At an organization meeting of the East Stroudsburg Normal school the following were elected: President, John E. Storm; vice president, George Rosenkrantz; treasurer, L. H. Nichols; secretary, F. J. Kistler. In the matter of contested election, Milton Yetter and Seeley Rosenkrantz were declared elected. The opposition, headed by Frank Smith, president of the First National bank, will likely carry the matter to the courts.

"CORSE" FLED TO THE WOODS.

Mrs. Robbins, apparently dead for 12 hours, Astonishes Morticians.

Hazleton, June 1.—After being apparently dead for over 12 hours, Mrs. Geo. Robbins, of Onida, caused a surprise among many of the residents of that village by coming to life. Mrs. Robbins had been ill for a few weeks, and Sunday morning she awoke and stared at those who surrounded her, after which she made her escape to the woods.

Those who were present went in pursuit, and it was with much difficulty that she was found and brought back to her home. She is now again confined to her bed, and it is believed that she will entirely recover, although she is very weak from the effects of her strange experience.

SILVERWARE STILL DEAR.

Its Price Has Not Dropped in Unison with the Bullion's.

From the New York Sun.

Prices of silver goods have, to some extent, sympathized with the steady decline in the bullion value of silver during the last ten years. The effect of this depreciation in value is felt chiefly in the plainer articles of solid silver in which labor is a relatively small factor, but in the production of the more elaborate works, in which artistic skill and labor are of prime importance, there has been no material decrease in prices. For the famous magnolia vase, that marvel of gold, silver, and dull enamel which attracted universal attention at the World's Fair, yet still awaits a purchaser, you will be asked to pay $10,000, while $2,000 is the price set on a gorgeous tea set in silver and gold in which a score or more of the favorite flowers of America are exquisitely reproduced in Souchou chasing.

A revolver whose handle is of silver, inlaid with carbonized iron, studded with turquoise and lapis lazuli, is held at $600, and for a hand mirror in silver, heavily engraved and set with baroque pearls, picked up in the rivers of Ohio, Tennessee and Wisconsin, $400 is asked. The array of splendid art works in any one of the leading silver houses of New York is an exhibition of rare interest, and one which cannot be equaled anywhere in the world in richness, beauty, taste, and monetary value.

IS CYCLING IMMORAL?

Effect of the Wheel on the Relation of the Sexes.

From the Rochester Herald.

"Do you not think," said one of the ablest and best known physicians in Western New York, who had been prompted to raise the question by what he had seen during his rides in the city and the country both by night and day, "that the wheel is introducing a laxity in the relations of the sexes that has not been tolerated heretofore?" Very often do I see instances of freedom permitted to young men and women with wheels that would not be tolerated for a moment under other circumstances. So much am I impressed by the possible harm that may come from it that I think that you ought to call attention to the matter and invite discussion."

It is with great pleasure that we comply with the request. There can be no question that the wheel has introduced an unusual amount of freedom in the social relations of the sexes. A young woman, whose mother would not permit her to go riding or walking with a young man any considerable distance without other company is allowed to take a bicycle trip with him out into the country and to be gone several hours. Not infrequently they do not come back until after dark. But whether such an increase of freedom has been abused, it is impossible for us to say. Whether steps should be taken to limit it, we are not prepared to say either.

We should dislike, however, to see anything done that would limit the usefulness of the wheel, even if it has introduced an unusual degree of freedom in the social relations of the sexes, that has been abused to some extent, we are inclined to the belief that the benefit derived from it has been many fold greater than any evil. Even the freedom that was allowed before the

SOUTH CAROLINA'S DISPENSARY SYSTEM

Defended by Its Author, Senator Tillman, Against Criticism.

JUST WHAT THE SYSTEM REALLY IS

An Explanation of the Causes Leading Up to Its Adoption and of the Plan in Actual Operation—Claim Made That Whiskey Drinking in South Carolina Has Decreased Fifty Per Cent Since the Dispensary Law Went Into Effect.

In consideration of the present assaults upon South Carolina's dispensary system, Senator Tillman was asked a day or two ago by the New York Sun to give a statement of the development and justification of the law from his point of view. He said:

"The prohibition sentiment, always strong in South Carolina, had been growing stronger, and it seemed a political necessity in 1892 that something should be done to recognize it. Accordingly, in August of that year, in order to prevent a split in the new Democracy of the state, boxes were placed in the primaries and voters were asked to vote on the issue of prohibition or no prohibition. Strictly speaking, it was not an issue, but an abstract proposition merely. Prohibition received a little short of 40,000—no prohibition received a little under 20,000 (which, you see, was a majority of about 10,000 for prohibition)—and some 20,000 voters did not vote at all. This was a sufficient vote for the General Assembly which met that fall, and a stringent prohibition bill, containing what seemed to the prohibition leaders to be the best features of the Maine, Iowa, and Kansas laws was put in to be amended somewhat and to pass the House early. It did not reach the senate until a week before adjournment. I had pointed out as governor the impossibilities of enforcing prohibition, and had spoken of the dispensary system then and still in operation in Athens, Georgia, and in favor of us. The consequence was that Senator John Gary Evans of Aiken, later governor, introduced a dispensary bill proposed by myself, with the house prohibition measure as a basis, and it was rushed through the house had no time to amend it, and naturally it possessed many defects; but it has worked better than its most sanguine supporters could have believed.

WHY HE LIKED IT.

Stranger—So this is a prohibition town, is it?
Native—Yes, sir.
Stranger—Well, I swear, I don't see how an intelligent and fine looking man as you can stand it in a place where such a ridiculous law is put in force.
Native—My dear sir, it meets with my enthusiastic approval. I wouldn't have things changed for a good deal.
Stranger—Come, now, I can't believe that. Explain yourself.
Native—Well, you see, I run the only drug store in town.—Cleveland Leader.

"And the Cat Came Back."

"The kindly old gentleman had been telling them a story, but the bad boy, after the manner of his kind, had not been particularly attentive. He had been thinking of the cat that had been under the porch, and the cat that had been under the porch, and the cat that had been under the porch. And after many years," said the kindly old gentleman, "Enoch Arden returned to his home."
"One!" exclaimed the bad boy, suddenly waking up to the fact that something came back: "I never knew the name of that before."—Chicago Post.

Difficult, but Remunerative.

"Well, my son, now that you have been admitted to the bar I hope you will select a specialty. This is the age of specialization of talents, and a general practice rarely leads to top of the ladder."
"Oh, I've chosen my line already, father."
"What is it?"

The Organist's Mistake.

Cover—How did Westervelt's wedding go off?
Demarest—All right, except when his old chum, the organist, got the wedding music mixed with some from Westervelt's specialty. This is the age of specialization of talents, and a general practice rarely leads to top of the ladder."
"Oh, I've chosen my line already, father."
"What is it?"

The Stamp of Truth.

First Fellow Citizen—I see you got a bad cold in your head. Led me to you you a sure cure for it. Just get a little affidavit ad a little oil of tar, and take a spoonful every ten minutes. It'll cure you in half a hour. Hoo-chee-ko! hoo-chee-ko! hoo-chee-ko! hoo-chee-ko! hoo-chee-ko!—Judge.

THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, June 1.—During the cessation of trading on the Stock exchange yesterday London took hold of American railroad stocks and bought up the remainder of the market. Nationally listed, to a point materially above New York's close of Saturday. Promptly upon the opening of the market here this morning large orders to buy for London account were executed at cover sales made in London at the advance. "The consequence was a jump at the opening to the London parity for nearly all the internationals. Total sales of stocks today were 141,963 shares.
