TRAGEDY OF AN ELEVATOR The Carriage Drops Three Stories in the New York Postoffice. SEVERAL MEN ARE INJURED Two of the Victims Likely to Die.

New York, June 7.—Six men were injured, two of them fatally, in an elevator accident in the postoffice building at 11 o'clock today. All of the injured are married men. The car fell a distance of three tall stories, as the result either of the slipping of a bolt or the breaking of the two cables. The accident was due to overloading. The elevator was carrying the six men and about 1,000 pounds of cement, whereas it was intended only for the hoisting and lowering of mails. The injured are:

CAUGHT A BEAR IN A TRAP. Farmer Captured the Animal That Had Been Raiding His Pasture.

Oswego, N. Y., June 7.—A. J. Brockway, a farmer living in Osceola, not far from here, has missed sheep now and then for a month past. A week ago he discovered bear tracks in his sheep pasture, and he made up his mind that a bear was the thief, though there had been a bear seen in the neighborhood for some time. He set a big spring trap, which he chained to a log and baited with fresh meat. The very next morning the log and the trap were gone and the condition of the ground around made it plain that the bear had had a tussel with the trap before he had started to carry it away. There was a trail straight across the field in the direction of a swamp, showing the way the bear and his load had gone. The trail led more than a mile through a woods. Brockway got his gun and followed it up. It led into the swamp and he almost stumbled over the bear before he saw it.
